At 3 o'clock this morning the Kaskaskia river had reached a height of 27.0 feet, a rise of one foot and ten inches in less than twenty-four hours up to that time. The high mark reached in June, 1903, was 37.0 feet. The water rose gradually and at daylight was four feet deep at St. Louis avenue and Hickory street, within three blocks of the high

With the first signs of danger in the west bottoms, hurried messages were sent for wagons and men were pressed into service removing goods from the threatened districts. Soon a string of wagons began moving to and fro from the bottoms.

In the business district there are several squatters' settlements. Goods in stores on St. Louis avenue were taken from basements to the first and second stories.

After midnight water began running.

Senator Bailey and his friends while believing in an income tax, said that in view of the statement of the New York member, it would be unwise to insist upon the income tax plank. Senator Bailey then asked unanimously to have both the income tax amendment and the gold standard plank dropped, but to this Mr. Hill objected, and there was a prolonged discussion, Mr. Hill taking a leading part in it. Mr. Hill began by saying that he was in this campaign, not from personal motives, but because of his loyalty and enthusiasm for the Demo-sometime before called Senator Tillman to the chair, began by saying he questioned the propriety of a man whom the Democrats had twice honored with the presidential nomination and under whose leadership the party had twice been defeated, attempting to force his leadership upon the party again. Growing more impassioned, Senator Daniel said regarding Mr. Bryan:

"The silver question was a question

In the Contest Over the Delegates From Illinois.

His Speech Was Cheered But it Made Few Votes.

St. Louis, July 8.—The Democratic national convention adjourned at 6:30 last evening until 1 o'clock today. During the day several speeches were made, chief of which was Wm. J. Bryan's effort to overthrow the report of the credentials committee and seat contesting delegates from Illinois. The committee was composed of the rejection of the minority report of the committee by a vote of 661 yeas to 20 nays. Though Mr. Bryan's speech and his appearance on the floor of the convention was cheered far beyond any previous demonstration, it made few votes. The alignment of delegates proved the correctness of previous estimates of the division between those who favor the radical and those who favor the conservative element which is now in control. Mr. Bryan spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of this convention: I came to this convention in the hope that we would be able to agree on a platform, on candidates and have nothing to stir ill feeling or arouse contention (applause). I still hope that we shall be able to agree upon a platform that will represent sentiments of all of us; that we present it to the country as the platform of a united party. (Prolonged applause.)

I will go further than that. I still hope that we shall be able to present to the country a ticket behind which can stand a united party. (Loud cheers and applause.)

And I regret that I am compelled to come in at this time and present a subject upon which your votes will be asked. But if there is one Democratic principle more fundamental than another, it is the right of a majority to rule. If you destroy the binding force of that principle, there is nothing that can hold a party together. And my friends, it is because we want the Democratic party to stand on that Jeffersonian principle of majority rule that I come here and present the minority report in this case. (Loud applause.)

In the state of Illinois, the majority was not allowed to rule. That convention was dominated by a clique of men who deliberately, purposely, boldly, trampled upon the rights of the people of Illinois. My friends the evidence shows that no band of train robbers ever plundered a robbery upon a train more deliberately.

But will you declare that the action of that convention is right? Will you support the methods employed if they had a majority of the convention, why did they deny it if they had the votes there?

Men do not go wrong, as a rule, unless they think it necessary to carry out some object, and the only way that you can decide the men did wrong unnecessarily is to decide that they were perverted in conscience; that they did wrong from choice rather than from necessity. Their whole conduct shows that their purpose was conceived in sin, born in iniquity and carried out to the destruction of Democratic hopes in that state. Give the Democrats in Illinois something to vote for. Do not tell them that when they go to an armed, prepared to fight their way up to the chairman. Let the Republican party stand as a representative of the physical force of the state. Thursday, nominated W. A. Scott of East St. Louis, and W. C. Payne of Warrensville, Va. for president and vice president respectively of the United States.

THE STATE OF TRADE

Shown by Reports to the International Mercantile Agency.

New York, July 8.—Advices to the International Mercantile Agency indicate a little change during the week in the general trade situation, jolting centers reporting active business, several lines showing good gains over a year ago. In many instances these gains are sufficient to compensate for losses sustained early in the season. The outlook is generally encouraging, reports from centers indicating a more hopeful feeling than prevailed a month ago. While there is the natural uncertainty of the presidential year, there are few "blue spots" in the country. At the west, business is active, future deliveries in clothing, shoes, men's furnishings and some branches of dry goods compare favorably with a year ago. The labor situation at the West has unquestionably improved. Employers and employees are working in greater harmony than at this date for years past. The more confident tone noted a week ago in the iron industry continues, and the brief gains ground that the improvement will gradually extend to all branches of the trade. Crop conditions everywhere have shown improvement.

BRIEF TELEGRAMS.

George F. Krom, president of the First National bank of Asbury Park, N. J., which some time ago was put into the hands of a receiver, was acquitted in the United States district court of the charge of making false entries in the books of the bank. The verdict was rendered by the jury under the direction of the court.

The board recently appointed by the president to select a site for a training station on the great lakes today organized and collected certain necessary data, preparatory to visiting the various localities which have been suggested as desirable sites for the proposed station.

One hundred and twenty-five applications to the naval academy have thus far passed both mental and physical examinations, including eleven, who were found Thursday to be physically qualified. Of these eighty-three have been sworn in as midshipmen.

After reconsidering its action in endorsing the candidacy of President Roosevelt for re-election in place of making its own nominations, the Negro Liberty party, Thursday, nominated W. A. Scott of East St. Louis, and W. C. Payne of Warrensville, Va. for president and vice president respectively of the United States.

CLARA MATHES' COMPANY.

R. C. SLOAN IS THE LATEST

Anxious to Get Commissionership Held by Ole Berg.

The fight for the Republican nomination of county commissioner for the Third district, the district now represented by Ole Berg, grows warmer.

R. C. Sloan, a well known West End citizen, filed his declaration of intention with the county auditor, yesterday afternoon, making the third man to seek the Republican nomination for the office.

As the filings now stand the three Republicans who would like to succeed Mr. Berg are Axel Zimmerman, deputy city clerk, Carl J. Tuttle, a West End druggist, and Mr. Sloan. It is understood that there are other Republicans in the West End who have inclinations to file for nomination, but that by the last date for filing the list may be a fairly large one.

Commissioner Ole Berg, who was elected on the Democratic ticket, has not yet filed, but is expected to do so in good season. So far as can be learned, Mr. Berg will probably have no opposition from his Democratic friends in the district.

FIRE AT CHAUTAUAQUA.

Jamestown, N. Y., July 8.—Fire started in the business portion of the village of Chautauqua, where the Chautauqua assembly is located, last night. The Chautauqua Supply company's store, the postoffice and Kellogg buildings were burned.

Dancing every evening, except Sunday, at Oatka beach auditorium.

SUPERIOR HAPPY

The Ranshackle Structure Called the Union Depot Burns to Ground.

City Will Now Get the New Depot It Has Desired.

Great joy is manifest in Superior today. The population is in high glee and the spirits of the people of the city across the bay are bubbling over with a satisfaction that defies suppression. Strange to say the cause of all of this happiness is a fire.

The ramshackle, barn like structure, which has been dignified with the name of union depot, burned to the ground at 3 o'clock this morning, burned so completely that there is not one stick left to raise upon another in a possible desire to effect repairs.

A new building must be erected and the people now hope to be given one that will be what the importance of the city and the business done deserves.

The origin of the fire is not known. It was first discovered by the night watchman, who immediately turned in an alarm. The blaze had a good start, however, and the depot burned in about 25 minutes.

The depot was an old frame structure that was built in 1855 and has been used for a passenger station ever since by the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic Railway companies. It was owned by the Lake Superior Terminal & Transfer company, a corporation comprised of the interests of the three railway lines named.

It has been insured for $5000 and its contents for $500, during the past years. The insurance expired July 1, of this year and it is not known yet whether the secretary of the terminal and transfer company, who has an office at St. Paul, has renewed the policies. It was two stories in height, the first floor containing the ticket office, the waiting rooms and the baggage room. On the second floor were the local offices of the terminal and transfer company.

The building has been an eyesore to the Superior citizens for several years past and efforts have been made from time to time to induce the railroad companies to tear it down, or remove it, and build a modern brick depot, but nothing has ever resulted from the efforts.

The Omaha road, which has adopted and firmly stuck to its policy of maintaining its own depot, has a good stone and brick depot about two or three blocks from the union depot site in Superior.

Today the union depot business in Superior is being transacted from a box car that has been run in on a sidetrack for that purpose. As soon as the officers of the terminal and transfer company can be heard from it is expected that announcement will be made of the plans for rebuilding the depot.

The union depot site is located at the corner of Broadway and "Oakes" avenue near the business center of Superior.

SIX PERSONS DROWNED BY BIG WATERSPOUT.

Oklahoma City, O. T., July 8.—A windstorm accompanied by terrific waves, passed through Clinton, Okla., and vicinity at midnight, in which six persons were killed and several injured.

The dead: MRS. BAKER and three children, Mr. and Mrs. JOHN FLENNER. All were drowned. Reports from Arapahoe, Weatherford, Geary, Cordell, Anadarko and other points in Western Oklahoma tell of great damage by flood.

BRUTALLY TORTURED.

A case came to light that for persistent and successful torture has perhaps never been equaled. Joe Golobick of Colusa, Calif., writes: "For 15 years I endured sufferable pain from Rheumatism and nothing relieved me though I tried everything known. I came across electric Bitters and it's the greatest medicine on earth for that trouble. A few bottles of it completely relieved and cured me." Just as good for Liver and Kidney troubles and general debility. Only 25c. Satisfaction guaranteed by all druggists.

ATTEMPT FAILED

The Man is Caught When He Calls For Money.

Chicago, July 8.—Charged with attempting to extort $3000 from Alexander H. Revell, a prominent and wealthy merchant, by means of a threatening letter, Howard C. Lynch, a metal polisher, was arrested by United States postal inspectors in the office of Revell's state. When arraigned before United States Commissioner Foote the prisoner said that he was not the author of the letter, but had been forced to deliver it by two strangers, who threatened his life.

The letter reads: "Mr. Revell: You give this man $2000 dollars and not slow about it for we need the money and are going to have it or we will do you or some of your family up so you will wish you had. Do it up in a bunch so he will not know what it is. We know where to find him and will get it from him. Give it to him in bills. Now something will happen if you don't do this for we mean business. We are watching all the time. We must have this money by Wednesday night sure, July 8. If you don't give it to him it will double every day you put it off, so be careful what you do and no fooling, for we know about you and your family. Now you do as we say or you will regret it."

Lynch's writing, according to the inspectors, corresponds very particularly to that of the letter.

Mr. Revell suspected that Lynch was the real author of the letter and laid a trap for him by refusing to accept the letter, except through the mails. He accompanied him to the street and saw him drop the letter in a mail box. He told him if he would call at the store he would give him an answer. When Lynch called he was arrested.

DYNAMITE FOUND

Under Bridge on the New Haven Road.

Stamford, Conn., July 8.—A quantity of dynamite was found on the fourth of July under the New Haven railroad drawbridge at Norwalk. The fact was kept very quiet. Railroad men will make no statement. It is believed that the dynamite was intended for the letter recently received by President Mellen, stating that the special train of Connecticut delegates to the Chicago convention would be wrecked.

CROWD STONED

New York Automobilist and His Wife.

New York, July 8.—Joseph H. Hoadley, president of the International Power company, was stoned in his automobile at Eleventh avenue and Thirty-fourth street Thursday afternoon, while he was riding with his wife. Neither was injured. The police arrested Benjamin Winton, 9 years old. A crowd of boys and young men, as the automobile sped around the corner let drive a volley of stones. The woman ducked her head and shrieked. Mr. Hoadley dodged. A second shower followed and again they dodged. A policeman seized one boy. Mr. Hoadley drove to the station house and entered a charge of disorderly conduct.

HOMELY TEACHERS

Will Get a Chance in Chicago Schools.

Chicago, July 8.—Chicago young women need no longer be ventures to get places as teachers in the public schools. The board of education yesterday did away with the rule that applicants for teachers' certificates must be perfectly proportioned. Instead of the old rules which provided for the measurement and weighing of the prospective teachers the board adopted new ones. These rules bar from the service of the board of education only persons whose physical imperfections might have a prejudicial influence on their efficiency as teachers.

HAPPENINGS IN DAKOTAS

Officers Believe They Have Discovered the Watertown Burglar.

SOUTH DAKOTA. Watertown—Sheriff Waidell and Marshal Dunn believe they have discovered the man who has been committing many burglaries in Watertown the past three months. Bert McDowell was arrested and charged with breaking into the office of the Standard Oil company on the night of June 14. The preliminary examination developed sufficient evidence to send him to the circuit court. Since the robbery of the Standard Oil office four other burglaries have been committed, all of an amateurish character.

The cashmere freight train on the Tracy division of the North-Western road was wrecked near Gary. A refrigerator car jumped the track and was thrown over and down an embankment and several box cars piled on top of it. No one was injured.

Belle Fourche—It is estimated that the output of wool from this district this year will be about 1,500,000 pounds. The industry has doubled every year for five years. The output for 1903 was 1,000,000 pounds. For 1904 it was 1,500,000 pounds. Thus far eight carloads have been shipped to the St. Louis East, prices ranging from 12 to 17 1/2c. The largest wool sale at the top price was made by Charles Cooper, of Dale, who sold 12,000 pounds. This netted him $130. Four years ago he began with 20 sheep and now has a flock of about 200. Edgemont and Rapid City will ship about as much wool as Belle Fourche. This year is unusually large and of fine quality.

Deadwood—Twenty-five thousand dollars has been spent by the Nebraska Telephone company in making improvements to its system in this city and the surrounding towns. A switchboard has been put in which is the most improved pattern.

Miller—The full corps of teachers has been engaged for the town schools as follows: H. Grace, principal, and Mrs. Grace, assistant; William Burke, H. J. Moore, Miss McKay and Miss King. A Christian Endeavor convention in which four counties will be represented will be held here July 15.

NORTH DAKOTA. Fargo—Fargo will be crowded next week with the carnival, the farmers' excursion and the Ringling Brothers circus. The farmers' excursion will be over all roads to the north. The Ringling Brothers circus will be in the city for the first week of the season. The circus will be in the city for the first week of the season.

The widow and the stepsons are still at law over the estate of the late C. J. Calmer. The last action is over the partition to set aside the widow's estate. The sons by a former marriage contend that the appraisers undervalued the amount, and that if it is given the widow the boys will be deprived of their legal share.

Policemen of the city want a boost in their wages since the introduction of an ordinance for a paid fire department. The latter provides for a salary of $6 per month for firemen. The policemen get only $3, and think they should receive as much as the fire fighters.

Larimore—Attorney Samuel Radcliffe was assaulted by being hit twice in the face and dragged from the sidewalk. He had been in the street in connection with alleged violations of the prohibition laws, and it was after the adjournment of a case, just as the crowd was leaving the city hall, that the assault was made.

Miner—Fire destroyed the elevator of Andrews & Guco at this place. The loss is $2000. No one was injured.

DOINGS IN MICHIGAN. Peter Christiansen Killed While Attempting to Board Train.

Menominee—Peter Christiansen, of Eden, Wis., 25 years old, was killed while attempting to board a northbound freight, in front of the Chicago & North-western depot at Menominee. Both legs were broken and he was cut off. Postmaster Kern, of Menominee, reports that the fatal year ending June 30 was a very prosperous one for his office. The receipts exceeded those of the fiscal year 1903 by several hundred dollars. The business of the Menominee office has steadily increased notwithstanding that the decadence of the lumber industry has been a serious factor. In years past were important employers of labor. As the pine has gone, however, industries other than lumbering have more than taken its place in supporting the city, and of these agriculture is not the least important.

Ironwood—The members of the Ironwood-Hurley Gun club returned from Angola, where they participated in the tournament, bringing with them the prize cup, which they captured in the team shoot. This cup was put up by Antigo two years ago. It was the provision that it was to go to the club which should win it twice on its home grounds, but this time came to Ironwood and will be shot for there until it is won by a team from some other club. The prize was made in the team shoot, out of a possible 153 birds. Were: Antigo, 131; Rhinelander, 128; Ironwood, 128. The men who shot the Ironwood team were Foley, Jussen, Rowett, Foster, Hough, Brady, Bennett.

Norway—Gust Wise, of Vauclough, was taken before Judge Peterson at Norway the other day on a charge of unlawfully killing deer. The case was a clear one and in default of $10 fine and $30 costs.

Sweeping Mid-Summer Clearance Sale!

When clean-up time rolls round, it is this store—of course—to which women come for the grandest economies. And come they did, yesterday and today—enthusiastically taking advantage of every telling reduction. It is the natural effect of an ever-broadening public knowledge that sales here are remarkably profitable to buyers.

On account of the cool weather many lines of summer goods are much larger than they should be. These extremely liberal price concessions to reduce them quickly, affords you unprecedented chances for saving.

It is hard to realize the necessity of such sacrifice, unless you are behind the scenes and confronted with heavy surplus stocks—with crowds of new fall goods coming—the advance couriers already on the way. The time for forcing out summer goods is short—hence these sweeping reductions. The goods that have been most ruthlessly cut will be the first to go—do not wait.

Clearing Suits, Coats and Skirts.

The tremendous reductions in the suit section tell forcefully of the importance of this clearing sale. Not a single Suit or Coat has escaped the sacrifice. A complete list is impracticable in our space. These will serve as a measure of your gain.

$2.50 for suits, worth up to $10.00.

The Greatest Values of the Season In Summer Shirt Waists.

All fresh, bright and handsome, for just such weather as July and August will bring. You can't enjoy those months unless you are clothed for it—but because the season's short here, you'll be glad to get cool waists at half price. This lot is a dealer's clean-up, else they would be twice as much. Five large tables heaped with dainty and serviceable sorts, present a wide enough variety to suit any taste. SAVED BY A DOG

From Being Crushed Under a Trolley Car.

Indianapolis, July 8.—"Hobby" Elliott, a newsboy, slipped and fell from a south-bound car directly in front of a north-bound car, at the corner of Market and Illinois. A big dog, which was running east on Market street, saw the boy in the street, leaped in front of the oncoming car, and hurled itself upon "Hobby," knocking him to safety.

STRIKE AND PANIC

Elgin, Ill., July 8.—Angered because Superintendent Whitman of the Elgin insane hospital refused to reinstate A. M. Mitchell, who was discharged Wednesday night for fighting while on duty, the officers of the Hospital Attendants' union ordered a walkout of the employees at 3 o'clock. Twenty-one guards left their places.

Extra employees were ordered to do duty in all the wards to prevent any serious results from the sudden withdrawal of the regular attendants. Several of the more cunning patients understanding the situation at least partially, made attempts to reach liberty through doors and windows. For a short time there was wild disorder in the two wards of the incurables.

As a result of the call for a general strike, the hospital was in a critical state. Other attendants have announced their intention to walk out unless the trouble is adjusted.

Nearly two-thirds of the entire number belong to the union, and in the event of a general strike discipline among the patients would be impossible. About 1200 inmates are now in the hospital.

Mrs. Goldish objected, but the brother insisted against her will, other incidents led to a separation and the heavy suit for damages filed today.

DRUNKEN MAN Derails Handcar and One Man is Killed.

Marshalltown, Iowa, July 8.—A drunken man asleep on the track derailed a handcar on the Cedar Rapids & Iowa City interurban. Thomas McMann, aged 30, residence unknown, was thrown from the car with such force that he died from his injuries. McMann's head struck a rail and the concussion caused a blood clot on the brain. He was removed to a hospital, but remained in a stupor until his death. He was a member of the construction gang. The drunken man was uninjured.

IN JAIL FOR MONTHS He Has No Money to Pay Wife's Claim.

Madison, Wis., July 8.—William Burnham, of Perham, Minn., a farmer, who has occupied a cell in the jail in this city since Oct. 20, 1903, for failure to pay his wife $200 as the result of an action for divorce which, he says, he has not the means of satisfying, has been divorced on the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Her Brother-in-Law for $10,000 Damages.

La Crosse, Wis., July 8.—Asserting that her brother-in-law has alienated the affections of her husband and has caused her untold pain and anguish, Mrs. Belle Goldish of Winona, has brought suit against A. M. Goldish, a prominent board of trade man and contractor of this city, for $10,000 damages.

Mrs. Goldish and her husband were married here at the home of the defendant in the last eight months ago. They went to Winona to reside. Later A. M. Goldish became interested in extensive marble quarries at Black River Falls, and sought to interest his brother.

Mrs. Goldish objected, but the brother insisted against her will, other incidents led to a separation and the heavy suit for damages filed today.

CHINAMEN IN THIS COUNTRY LEAD A HARD LIFE. They have no rights which a hoodlum feels bound to respect, says the Kansas City Journal.

They are not good "mixers." Their language, customs and racial peculiarities are insurmountable obstacles to good fellowship even to social intercourse with citizens of the land of their adoption or sojourn. They are supposed to come here chiefly for the purpose of finding an opportunity for the employment of their commercial instincts, and this is probably an additional reason for the discourtesies they suffer.

Notwithstanding all this, there can be no excuse for such disgraceful scenes as those caused by a lot of white rowdies at the funeral of Sam Hing in this city last Sunday. It is a Chinese custom to place viands and a few other worldly supplies on the tombs of departed friends. This looks queer to us, but it all depends on the point of view. A Chinaman who was asked if the dead ate and used those offerings of food and trinkets, countered with a request for information as to whether the ghosts smelt the flowers with which we decorate graves.

A highly educated Chinaman has just published a book on his experiences in America. He speaks with good-natured humor of the bombast, conceit and self-satisfaction of the Americans, but he complains of the attitude of superiority and irritating air of superiority with which they invariably address Chinamen.

He says: "The lower classes in the United States absolutely can conceive of no difference between me and the 'coolie.' A boy on the streets accosts me with 'Hi, John, you washee, washee.' Even a representative of congress insisted on calling me 'John.' On protesting to another man, he laughed, and said: 'Oh, the Chinese don't know any better.' But I remain, if he does not know any better, killed, if he does not know any better,

SLOW TRAINS OF SPAIN.

Trains in Spain are certainly slow, says London Post-Bits. A rate of ten or twelve miles an hour is considered a good average speed for everyday travelers. When the Spanish officials wish to show visiting foreigners what they really can accomplish in the way of rapidity, they offer express trains which dash madly across the landscape at an average rate of fifteen or eighteen miles an hour. In one way this proves an advantage, for the traveler sees a great deal more scenery for or money than if he were rushed past it swiftly.

LITERARY CHEROKEE INDIANS. Among the more prominent Indian writers of the Cherokee nation are Dr. Emmet Starr, who is writing a book, "The Genesis of the Cherokee Nation," and the Cherokee families. Mrs. N. J. Owen, who is collecting the legends of the Indians, and Mrs. Josephine Hall, who is writing "The History of the Cherokee Nation," says the Kansas City Journal. Adam Lacy is the author of several

Big Pipe.

Announcement was made by the water and light department to the gas consumers, that the gas would be turned off throughout the entire city this afternoon from 1:30 to 5 o'clock in order to permit the department to make the connection with the new 10-inch main on Michigan street between Garfield and Twenty-fifth avenues west. The department will use barge in making the connection and hope that it will not be necessary to shut off the gas, but it is hardly expected that the plan will be successful.

From Twenty-fifth avenue west a 16-inch pipe will connect the city service pipes with the Zenith Furnace company's gas plant. At the meeting of the water and light board last evening Manager Case reported that the old 10-inch main on Michigan street which parallels the Superior street main has been entirely replaced with new 10-inch pipe. The old main had become defective and dangerous by reason of its long service.

Contracts for putting in 6-inch and 4-inch gas mains, the contractor to furnish everything, but the city will pay the charges, valves and transportation charges, were awarded last evening as follows:

East First street from Twentieth to Twenty-first avenue, J. A. Johnson, 50 cents.
Twenty-second avenue east and West street, 162 feet of pipe, E. Engel, 48 cents.
West First street from Twentieth to Twenty-first avenue, J. A. Johnson, 50 cents.
Piedmont avenue, E. Engel, 28 cents.
Jefferson street from Sixteenth to Seventeenth avenue east, Thomas & McCoy, 50 cents.
Jefferson and Wilkins street, 105 feet, Thomas & McCoy, 60 cents.

Work Again Stopped.

Contractor P. McDonnell began this morning to lay the tar macadam street dressing on the Superior street new paving work, on the south side, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth avenues East. About 300 square yards of the material had been placed and pulled down when the rain stopped the work.

The crushed rocks are now being hauled and rolled down on Superior street between Eighteenth and Nineteenth avenues East, the resurfacing work continuing east of Nineteenth avenue.

Gave Them Long Walk.

The erratic temperament possessed by one of the horses in a West End livery barn is responsible for the annoyance and long wait of the calling of the young couple that were out to Smithville for a drive Wednesday evening. While crossing the bridge at Smithville, at a late hour in the evening, the horse suddenly took a notion to reverse and a smashed up carriage was the result. The young couple had no course left but to hike it to the end of the street car line on Grand avenue, a distance of about three miles.

Nothing New Heard.

Nothing new has been heard at the sheriff's office of the situation at the Stevenson mine where Sheriff and his men went with 40 deputies from Duluth, a few days ago. Nearly every day a deputy comes down with one or more men against whom the charge of rioting has been made. The absence of any news is taken to mean that everything is quiet about the mine and that the sheriff has matters well in hand.

CLODBURST CAUSES LOSS OF TWO LIVES.

Pittsburg, July 8.—As the result of a cloudburst at the waters of Turtle creek, near here, two boys lost their lives. Telephone and telegraph wires are down, many buildings are damaged and the hundreds of men are temporarily thrown out of employment. The damage of property will be heavy.

More Rioters.

Three more of the alleged rioters at the Stevenson mine were brought to Duluth last evening by the deputy sheriff. The names of the three rioters are John Doe, Matt Geminio and Gurino Libero. They were taken to the city jail and will remain there until they can be removed to the mine for trial.

THE COLONEL'S OBJECTION. They were discussing the decadence of society in Kentucky, says the Louisville Herald, and the well groomed old colonel, with the air of conscious aristocracy all over him, said:

"It's all gone to the bow-wow, especially here in Louisville, where money is the thing that counts in society, and not family. 'Oh, it seemed to me,' said the other, 'that society is as good as it ever was.' 'No, sir,' snapped the old colonel, with emphasis. 'In my time we occasionally thought of sex, of taking the head water of the 'regiment' along to act as best man and vouch for the bride. That is a blink-thank innovation that has sprung up since the war.'"

BREAKING BEE IN KANSAS. The breaking bee of Thomas McLean, near Meredith, Young county, which was noticed in the Delphos items last week, was, we are informed, an occasion of considerable note in that section, says the Messenger of Minneapolis, Kan. There were 144 bees, 22 males, 22 males, 27 eggs of oen and 85 plops. Eighty acres were broken before, many other things, for dinner. Fifteen more were broken in a short time after dinner, and the bees were then taken to the brook about the same amount for a widow who lives near there.

PHOTOGRAPHING KING EDWARD. The king of England, King Edward VII, the prince of Wales, said for me, says a writer in the British Journal of Photography.

There is a popular impression that a group of photographs, but must do it through a third person. I shared that belief the occasion being a group with his royal highness and a score or two of titled sisters. I got my group all right, but found the prince was "not to be had" otherwise, the moment he saw the camera, he turned his back to the camera—no unauthorized snappings for his royal highness.

OVER TEN THOUSAND

into the barber shop in the basement of the Blossom house, directly across Union avenue from the Union depot. This came from the logging of severe and caused more activity among those who still had goods in basements. Along West Ninth street, three blocks from the Union station water was beginning to reach small stores and houses near the Kansas-Missouri line and on James street, the same conditions existed. Along both sides of each of these streets wagons were backed up to the curb and men, women and children, unimpaired of the pouring rain, rushed back and forth in a scramble to escape with their property.

Some of those who lived on second floors of houses seemed as panic-stricken as the people who were on the streets. Along West Ninth street not only carried away their stocks of goods, but took their families with them. Many were unable to secure wagons and along every street trilled men and women carrying bundles of clothing and other hastily collected valuables.

The big wholesale houses were placed there with great activity. In all these houses the sewers had been plugged up to prevent water getting into the basements. The city employees, with hundreds of others, were pressed into service to prepare to save the city.

At 9:30 o'clock today the water continued to rise, but more slowly and at that hour it had not yet reached the Union depot.

The Missouri river also continues to rise, spreading out over Hartland, a city across the river in Missouri from Kansas City, and threatening the east bottoms, where the railroad yards, many grain elevators and other business are situated. The east bottoms, however, is comparatively high and it is believed that this district will not be under water and so is Valley Center.

Harlem, with 100 families, is depopulated. All are farmers and most of them are under water and so is Valley Center.

band was called upon to drown him out.

After struggling against the thumping of the bass drum and two dozen snoring brass horns, the talkative gentlemen sat down and kept quiet.

Chairman Clark arrived at the convention hall at 10:10 and was received with a few hand claps. Twenty minutes after the delegates were in their seats no word had been received from the resolutions committee.

Private advice would be several hours before the report would be prepared, and the prospects for a short session grew gloomy.

One of the secretaries called through a megaphone: "The band will please play 'Honor Sweet Home'."

There was a wild cheer from the weary, perspiring delegates and spectators as the familiar strain flooded out on the air. Anything with the word "Home" seemed to please greatly for the cheer was repeated a few minutes later when "My Old Kentucky Home" was rendered. "Dixie" called forth the delegates, yellow and brown, and the Texas delegation added to the enthusiasm by unfurling their lone star flag and waving it wildly.

Temporary Chairman Williams soon came down the aisle chewing leisurely at that ever-present cigar, and was greeted with a round of applause and great huzzahs.

The band was requested through the megaphone to play "On the Banks of the Wabash," and the Indiana delegation showed its appreciation by climbing on chairs and cheering lustily.

The messenger called Chairman Clark and sent to the committee on resolutions returned with a gloomy report of the readiness of that committee to support with its building and document, and the waiting continued.

At 10:48 Chairman Clark rose and let fall a huge avalanche of words. "The convention will be in order," he demanded.

The clerk then picked up the megaphone and announced that the session would begin with prayer by Rabbi Samuel Salce, of St. Louis.

The delegates and spectators at once rose to their feet and stood during the invocation.

that the convention wanted to hear Bourke Cockran speak. After quiet had been restored it was decided that Cockran was not in the hall.

A demand for C. A. Towne, "the silver-tongued orator," was made, but Mr. Towne declined to respond.

In the anxiety to learn when the committee on resolutions would be ready to report, the list of national committeemen had not been confirmed, and the oversight was remedied by a viva voce vote, and the procedure straightened out.

The clerk will call the roll," said the chairman, "for the list of honorary vice presidents, and the calling of the roll assigned more for the purpose of keeping the convention quiet by giving out the entire of resolutions in advance of the roll call."

At 11 o'clock the roll call began. The hall had moderated materially, the report that passed over the city. The relief, while not great, was sufficient to add greatly to the comfort of the crowd that packed the hall.

When the roll call was finished, Chairman Clark, who was displaying decided ability in keeping up the interest of the convention during the tedious wait for the report of the committee on resolutions called on the band to play, and asked the spectators to sing at the same time.

His wishes were carried out, and the entire convention rising and singing two stanzas of the song, "America." A moment later, the Texas delegation added to the enthusiasm by unfurling their lone star flag and waving it wildly.

Again the convention expressed its pleasure at the news and a mighty shout went up. Mr. James followed his last announcement at once with a motion to adjourn until 8 p. m. A second was at once heard, and the motion carried, the session closing at 11:08 a. m.

For the Big Saengerfest
This Year.

Milwaukee, July 8.—The sale of season tickets for the big Saengerfest to be held in this city during the final week of July opened last week under the most encouraging circumstances.

From the enthusiasm with which the various musical societies of this and other states have entered into the undertaking it is evident that the festival would prove an anti-thesis, yellow and brown, and the Texas delegation added to the enthusiasm by unfurling their lone star flag and waving it wildly.

THE ANGEL TELLS

Emanuel Friend May Publish a Book on the Subject.

New York, July 8.--"How It Feels to Be an Angel" is the title of a book that will be written some day by Emanuel M. Friend, the well-known lawyer, if the time ever comes when he feels that he can make a clean breast of his share in the "angel" business. He is not quite sure yet about the title of the volume. He may decide to call it "Confessions of a Lawyer-Angel."

Fear prevents him from turning the manuscript over to a publisher. Many of those for whom he has played the part of the "angel" in the last score or more of years are still living, and he thinks they may not like some of the things he means to say about them. He thinks the only safe plan for him to adopt is to leave the confession to his heirs to be published after his death.

When it comes to the angel business, there are few men in the world who know more than Emanuel M. Friend. He has been an angel himself so many times that he has forgotten to keep the score. And then he has been a part of the business in the making of other angels to the number of hundreds. When the little lawyer grows reminiscent he is wont to tell his friends some of the unwritten history of the business. He calls it "talking shop." One of the most interesting features of his reminiscences is his story of "Angels I Have Met."

When it comes to this angel business, Friend is no newcomer. It is a story that he has been playing up to in this role for the past twenty years. He has almost invariably come out of it a winner. They got the cash and glory; yours truly got the experience.

"Who was it that angelized Mamselle 'Emme'?" Why, who else but Emanuel M. Friend. And who turned out same trick for 'Lucky Bountiful'? Why, just ditto. And while you are at it, you can just ditto me for a dozen or more plays that were yearning for an angel till they stumbled over me. I hate to weather this new play called 'The Stocking Bird,' that is due to be produced one of these days when my angel's pin feathers get a little more growth. Probably when it's all over I shall find that I am the only bird in the role.

"Lawyers appear to be peculiarly susceptible to the angel germ. Bankers, brokers and turfmen get it, too, sometimes. But if you want to see a real simple, malignant case of it, you have to see a lawyer in the throes of it. Now, when I am normal and therefore temporarily immune from the malady, I turn my attention to the making of angels on demand. And the demand is always heavy enough."

"But losses don't seem to cure a man who contracts the angel habit. Once he gets the malady he never gets over it. He may have lucid intervals, but the fever is recurrent and is certain to come back to him. This is particularly true of lawyers. They get the angel germ in their systems, and then there is no coming out of it. It comes in like measles or spring fever. I feel it in my system at this very minute. I got it when I was this new play called 'The Stocking Bird,' that is due to be produced one of these days when my angel's pin feathers get a little more growth. Probably when it's all over I shall find that I am the only bird in the role."

dangle in my eyes and agree to be her angel.

I well remember a malignant attack of this character that I had once in many years ago. I fell victim to the ambition of a scoundrel, who felt that she was never intended for anything less than a star of the first magnitude. Of course she was not long in hearing about the lawyer who had played the role of angel to so many excited aspirants. Some enemy of mine told her that I was just about the most angelic angel ever seen on Broadway.

Well, that girl hunted me up, and before I knew what was the matter she had recruited. Emanuel M. Friend Angel was engraved on her card and I was in for it. That girl taught me more about the angel business than I had ever dreamed of knowing before. She took me so far into the labyrinthine depths of the game that I looked as if I should never find my way out.

This story pains me. There is just $7500 worth of pain in my system at this very moment. But that is not the worst of it. All of that pain was inserted into my system in exactly six minutes. Yes, sir, it cost me just four minutes' worth of that girl's angel. I thought that would be enough for me. I thought that would be a silver to think what would have happened to me if I had taken the girl's angel."

"Then I recall another case that proved to be an even bigger one. It was Emanuel M. Friend. It didn't come as high as the one I just told you, but it was just as high enough to thank you. The net cost delivered P. O. B. and C. O. D. was $80 a minute. And you know, I say how many minutes I bought in this angelic business. I bought in this angelic business and a rustic arbor went glimmering with those feeble minutes. All that's 'round, don't you think?"

"When I dare to look back at my angel record, I feel like a student. And the funny part of it all is that I have been about the only one in this role for the past twenty years. He has almost invariably come out of it a winner. They got the cash and glory; yours truly got the experience."

WEALTHY INDIAN

Owens Land of Immense Value--Presented by Government.

Joseph Riley, a Big Fork settler, in the city on business, said yesterday that within the limits of Itasca county lived the richest Indian in the United States, in the person of Bustacagon, popularly termed "Old" Bustacagon. He owns lands with a roughly estimated valuation of $300,000, and it is claimed that individual members of even some of the rich Western Indian tribes cannot boast of so much wealth. "The Minnesota papers had a good deal to say about Chief Bemidji before and at the time of his death," said Mr. Riley. "and doubtless every person in the state knows who and what he was, and yet, as far as I can learn, he never did anything special except having a town named after him, and being good and treating the white men white, and maybe taking part in few Indian pow wows. Like many another public personage he attained his fame through the energetic efforts of the newspaper correspondents."

"Now, there is Bustacagon. He is certainly of greater importance than good old Bemidji, and yet you never see his name mentioned in the papers, for the simple reason that no correspondent lives within the vicinity of his abode, in a sequestered nook on the Big Fork. If he gets a bad cold, or if he doesn't, or if he shoots a bear or feeds a lost white man, or doesn't feed him, there is no one to chronicle the fact, as was the case with Bemidji, who was given a half-column account in the papers every time he was confined to his tepee for a day. I'll warrant you that today there aren't twenty-five people in the state, outside the Big and Little Fork country, who know whether Bustacagon is alive or dead, or who care particularly. The big majority have no idea why they should know or care."

"Well, I am happy to be able to say that the old chap is still alive, and apparently in the best of health, or at least the last time I saw him. You know how he came into possession of his property, of course. A township, consisting of close onto 25,000 acres of the best game and timber country in Northern Minnesota, was given him by the government in 1883 for his bravery in caring for a logging camp of small-pox patients. The township is 62-25, in Itasca county, and the Big Fork river runs through it. This land, with all the rest in Northern Minnesota, was practically valueless in 1883, and the government doubtless thought it was getting off easy enough, and cheaply. It was not until the lumber boom came that the land was of any value, and then it was a gold mine, or even a brass one, made, and even young Indian boys have given the land."

"The property has been coming up in value, with the rest of the state, and it is now worth several hundred thousand dollars, for it is covered with timber. Lumber companies have several times tried to get possession of the timber, without success. They will likely get it some way when the Indian dies, but until then I guess it will remain with him, and those who know him, are glad of it, for he is a mighty decent sort of an old chap, liked and respected by all those with whom he has come in contact. I should judge he must be about 80 years old now, possibly more."

COTTON SEED OIL

Piles Can Be Cured

By Internal Treatment Without the Aid of Narcotics or the Knife. You who suffer with piles know what a glorious boon it would be to you to be absolutely and painlessly cured. You know from actual experience that salves, ointments and other local applications do not cure. You may get relief, but you keep on suffering.

There is a cause for every human ill. Remove the cause and you cure the complaint. Piles have two distinct causes: First, congestion of the pelvic system, and second, constipation resulting from poor digestion.

Dr. Perrin's Pile Specific

The Internal Remedy absolutely removes these causes by increasing the flow of digestive juices in the stomach, and relieving the congestion of the liver. It is a tonic for the entire bowel system and helps each particular member of the system to do its duty.

You simply take a teaspoonful of this positive internal remedy three times a day before each meal. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely free from opium, cocaine or other narcotics. It is not a palliative or temporary remedy; it produces a positive, radical and lasting cure.

to cure any case of blind, bleeding, itching or internal piles, no matter how chronic or aggravated it may be. Out of over 100,000 cases there is not one on record where a positive cure has not been made.

Some of the experiments have been successful to a perfect degree, while others have not. Mr. Wells has been conducting his experiments at old times for the past two years, patiently striving to secure perfect success in the use of cotton oil, and he has reached a stage in his experiments where he is confident that the mixture he forms is a remedy for the cure of piles.

Railway Receiverships and Foreclosures for Past Six Months.

No One Due to Decreased Business in That Period.

Chicago, July 8.--The Railway Age says: Although the first six months of 1904 have witnessed many failures of manufacturing, mercantile and financial interests, no railway in the United States has gone into the hands of a receiver as a result of the decreased industrial and commercial activity in that period. Two or three minor companies have passed their dividends, but of the nearly 1500 operating and subsidiary roads whose securities are in the hands of the public only six, representing about 200 miles of the 200,000 miles in the United States, are at the present time in the hands of receivers. In the case of each of the six small roads for which receivers were appointed during the first six months, bankruptcy appears to have been the result of inherent difficulties not caused by the cessation of boom times and which would not have been cured if the times had continued to boom. The short list of these roads is as follows:

Atlantic and North Carolina, 95 miles; Peoria and Pekin Terminal, 29 miles; Raleigh and Weldon, 105 miles; Brunswick and Berwick, 109 miles; Berkley (S. C.), 10 miles.

Total, six roads, 302 miles; bonds and stock, $5,514,300.

The Queen Anne's railroad, running from Queensdown, Md., to Lewes, Del., has been an unprofitable enterprise since it was opened six years ago, showing annual deficits, and the appointment of a receiver is stated to be a part of the plan to consolidate the allied railway, steamboat and ferry interests. The Atlantic and North Carolina has been in the hands of the courts twice this year as a result of an effort by minority stockholders to have the road leased to another railway company. The state of North Carolina owns nearly the entire capital stock and the receiver was appointed on the question whether the road shall be sold to the state or by one of the great railway companies as lessee. Although the road has not been a dividend payer the receivership is not the result of default in the collection of the road's revenue.

The receivership of the Peoria and Pekin Terminal apparently resulted from the construction of a competing line transferring road where existing facilities were sufficient for the business. The longest road in the list, the Brunswick and Weldon, is a new enterprise, partially completed in 1901, which is to have become embarrassed on account of lack of capital before its earning capacity could be demonstrated. The road was acquired by a stronger company because the receiver was appointed and the suit was brought by a trust company holding the original bonds. The road failed to earn operating expenses, but it is now in condition to demonstrate its possibilities. The two other roads in the list are little more than eight and ten miles which have been doomed to failure from the start. In addition to the properties named, the Lake and River Railroad company, having a few miles of grade near Akron, Ohio, was placed in the hands of a receiver. The road is one of several French projects which have been abandoned to materialize successfully.

The foreclosure sales of steam railways during the six months have also been few and represent conditions which originated years ago. The following is the list:

Madison Valley, 19 miles; Forest City and Gettysburg, 22 miles; Philadelphia and Reading, 24 miles; Lake and River (Ashland & Waukegan), 25 miles; Lehigh and Lackawanna, 31 miles.

Total, 7 roads, 105 miles; bonds and stock, $2,947,600.

Estimated. There is no road of importance in this list and the sales will enable the carrying out of reorganization plans, long pending, without any immediate effect, financial or physical, except in the direction of improvement.

Electric railways are so rapidly entering into the field of steam railways that a record of receiverships and foreclosures affecting this class of transportation lines and their securities begins to be desirable, although this information does not appear to have been tabulated. Examination of financial journals shows the following named electric roads for which receivers have been appointed since January 1 last:

Eastern Ohio Traction, 84 miles of track; bonds, $1,834,000; stock, $2,250,000. Chicago and South Shore, 14 miles of line; bonds, $200,000; stock, $300,000. Middleborough Wareham & Buzzard's Bay, 21 miles of line; bonds, $150,000; stock, $150,000.

Bristol company (Mass.), Street railway, 10 miles of line; debt, $337,000; capital, $300,000. Lowell & Boston, 9 miles of line; debt, $382,000; stock, $500,000. Manchester, Fitch City & East Lake, 14 miles of line; bonds, $200,000; stock, $200,000.

Corfoll & Western Electric, 3 miles of line; debt, $275,000; stock, $100,000. Eastern Terminal (N. Y.), 12 miles of line; bonds, $385,000; stock, $300,000. The Philadelphia & Lehigh Valley Traction is among the roads that have defaulted in the payment of interest.

A number of electric railways in addition to those for which receivers have been appointed are apparently on the way toward foreclosure or reorganization as the result of financial embarrassment.

Parents. Have your children take advantage of the summer vacation by taking a course at the Bradbury School of Music. Instructors the best. Prices reasonable.

Deerwood and Return. The Northern Pacific railway now have on sale tickets to Deerwood and return. Going Friday and Saturday, returning Monday, $2.35.

Going any day, returning 30 days, $3.00. Family 25-ride books, good for season, $3.00.

Infection is Normal Condition and Crusade is Collapsing.

New York, July 8.—The crusade against bacteria which has been pursued in New York city with the greatest enthusiasm—some eminent health department experts practically devoting their lives to warning the public how many millions and trillions of these little creatures are in a cubic inch of "vibrated air"—is in the most dangerous of collapse owing to the extraordinary experiments of Dr. A. B. G. Nichols.

The cry against bacteria has been as loud as the cry against mosquitoes, and hundreds of remedies have been invented for killing them. The bacteriologists have had a merry time warning the public into the belief that they were doomed by the momentary touch of the other species of bacteria entered the human system. There has been a regular round up of bacteria with the hope of exterminating them.

Now comes the celebrated Dr. Nichols, who has demonstrated according to the New York Medical Record, that it is impossible to avoid bacteria as it is to escape poverty or a presidential election; and that the normal healthy man, is full of all kinds of bacteria, only they don't hurt him until he's ill.

Dr. Nichols says: "In healthy animals, bacteria are constantly passing in from the various surfaces of the body, to become lodged in certain tissues, notably the lymph glands. The pneumonia and tuberculosis bacilli have been found scattered through healthy organism. The Nichols experiments show the futility of the fundamental popular belief regarding infection, namely that healthy organs do not shelter bacteria. Even the liver and kidneys contain bacteria. Infection is a normal condition. The infection is harmful when the individual infected is below par, as to his physical condition.

The practical factor in immunity is the individual constitution, and not the question of absence of bacteria.

She Loves Them Both the
"Dead."

Patterson, N. J., July 8.—Mrs. Ella Peal Murnane, of this city, has been put in a strange predicament by her discovery that her first husband, who left her eight years ago to go to the Yukon and whom she thought dead, is living. The strange nature of her position lies in the fact that she has married another man. She is certainly not alone in this predicament, for she loves her first husband and equally sure that she doesn't want to lose the man whose name she bears now.

When John Peal, a Midvale farmer, made his wife good-bye and started for the Klondike eight years ago, the young wife, at his request, packed her belongings and returned to the home of her parents in Pennsylvania. For six months after from him, and then suddenly corresponded a letter from a relative in Seattle, telling her of the reported death of her spouse.

Mrs. Peal immediately put on widow's weeds, and for three years mourned her absence. She was married to Michael Murnane, of Boston, Pa. The wedding was solemnized in Pittston by

WAS AN EXILE FROM WEALTH

Drowned.

Ottawa, Ont., July 8.—Working as a day laborer in the Booth lumber yards in this city, Samuel Larsen, who was heir to a large estate in California, lost his life, it is supposed, in the Ottawa river. He was a native of Sweden and had been in possession of a princely fortune.

Little was known of Larsen's past until he was found in Ottawa five years ago. For four years he worked as a farm laborer on the Ottawa river, and then he was taken to his home in Sweden, where he was employed in the sawmill. He sometimes hinted at having relatives in the States, but was missing. No trace of Larsen has ever been found since. It

A CHILD OF TWELVE

Took It.

She Tried to Kidnap It,
But Nurse Caught
Her.

New York, July 8.—Twelve-year-old Josephine Russo was left alone in her home on the second floor of a tenement at 413 East Eighteenth street on Thursday night while her mother went shopping.

After playing housekeeper for some time she made for the street, where there were a lot of other little girls.

In the hallway she found behind the door a two-year-old baby. No one in the house seemed to know where the child was, so little Josephine carried the bundle up to her room and began to care for it in her motherly fashion.

She gave the infant bath and combed what little hair it had, and the foundling appeared contented with a policeman's milk.

"Here, what are you doing with that?" "I found it, and it's mine," said Josephine.

The cop took the foundling from the little girl's arms and made for the East Twenty-second street station. The little girl followed later with tears streaming down her cheeks.

"She was just tall enough to poke her round chin over the railing," said the policeman.

"I want my baby," declared the small person.

"Want your what?" asked McDougal.

"Want my baby," said Josephine.

"Don't want my baby," said McDougal.

"Don't want my baby," said McDougal.

"Don't want my baby," said McDougal.

MILLIONAIRE VAN ALEN Served on Jury and Hugged By Woman.

Newport, July 8.—James J. Van Alen, millionaire, had an experience in court he will long remember. He was foreman on a jury in the supreme court. The case was one in which a woman, who was under guardianship because of her alleged inability to look out for her property, was asked to provide funds for the education and maintenance of three new school buildings and the acquisition of said property.

The jury was out fifteen minutes and Van Alen and his jurymen brought in a verdict.

Immediately there was a demonstration on the part of the woman, who was a woman of means, and she hugged Van Alen and thanked him for his verdict. Numerous other women crowded about Van Alen and showered praises on him. Van Alen seemed pleased at the reception. When the women jumped into his carriage and drove to the Casino, where he had been in the day of court, caused much mirth.

A prominent club woman, Mrs. Danforth, of St. Joseph, Mich., tells how she was cured of falling of the womb and its accompanying pains and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Life looks dark indeed when a woman feels that her strength is fading away and she has no hopes of ever being restored. Such was my feeling a few months ago when I was advised that my poor health was caused by prolapsus or falling of the womb. The words sounded like a knell to me, I felt that my sun had set; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me as an elixir of life; it restored the lost forces and built me up until my good health returned to me. For four months I took the medicine daily and each dose added health and strength. I am so thankful for the help I obtained through its use."—MRS. FLORENCE DANFORTH, 1007 Miles Ave., St. Joseph, Mich.

A medicine that has restored so many women to health and can produce proof of the fact must be regarded with respect. This is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which cannot be equaled by any other medicine the world has ever produced. Here is another case:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For years I was troubled with falling of the womb, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, bearing-down pains, backache, headache, dizzy and fainting spells, and stomach trouble.

"I doctored for about five years but did not seem to improve. I began the use of your medicine, and have taken seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, three of Blood Purifier, and also used the Sensitive Wash and Liver Pills, and am now enjoying good health, and have gained in flesh.

I thank you very much for what you have done for me, and heartily recommend your medicine to all suffering women."—MISS EMMA SNYDER, 218 East Center St., Marion, Ohio.

"FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN." Women would save time and much sickness if they would write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice as soon as any distressing symptoms appear. It is free, and has put thousands of women on the right road to recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence thus entrusted to her, and although she publishes thousands of testimonials from women who have been benefited by her advice and medicine, never in all her experience has she published such a letter without the full consent, and often by special request of the writer.

OBSERVATION CARS BUILDING

Those For Range Roads Are Now Being Constructed.

Observation cars for the Duluth & Iron Range and Duluth, Missabe & Northern roads are now being built at the Hicks plant, near Chicago, and are expected here in a short time to go into service on the range roads. It is said that only one car will be put in service at the start by each of the roads, as the officials wish to test the business ability of the cars, and see if the patronage of them will justify them on all trains.

On the Duluth & Iron Range road, for instance, two cars would be necessary to accommodate all trains, one to leave here in the morning for Ely, to return on the evening train, and one to leave here in the afternoon train and return on the train that leaves the upper end of the line the next morning. It is estimated that the new cars will cost in the neighborhood of $7000 each, and will mean a considerable outlay of cash for the improvement of the range service for the convenience of excursion and tourist parties.

DOMESTIC TRADE

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Domestic trade movements covering the first five months of the current year are reported in the Monthly Summary of Internal Commerce for May by the department of commerce and labor, through its bureau of statistics. The figures of representative movements indicate that there has, with proper exceptions, been an evident decrease in the consuming demands of the country. On the other hand some leading commercial activities continue to maintain an increase in the volume of business, in comparison with the corresponding periods of 1903. This is the case with livestock receipts for which reports were received from leading distributing centers of the West. The five markets of Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis and St. Joseph report combined arrivals of 13,950,227 head in 1904, as compared with 12,503,637 head in 1903 and 12,503,637 head in 1902.

Receipts of grain at twelve primary markets (outlets) for the five months contrast with 32,822,602 bushels in 1903. Receipts of wheat at eight markets from the beginning of the crop year in May, 1903, were 27,593,153 bushels, as compared with 22,519,561 bushels in 1902-3.

Through navigation on the great lakes began with the opening of the Sault Ste. Marie canal May 5. The Welland canal opened May 2. The strike on the lakes prevailed through the entire month of May, consequently the season's tonnage compares unfavorably with that of previous years.

Of the five ports reporting on seaboard receipts, Portland for the five months received 2,522,123 bushels, as compared with 2,522,123 bushels in 1903. Receipts at Boston for the five months were 16,372,569 bushels, as compared with 11,027,133 bushels last year. The reduction is attributed to the leading causes, including reduced surplus for foreign shipments, the late opening of the canal, and the suspension of lake traffic during May.

Receipts of grain, including flour, reduced to bushels at five ports during May were 8,882,169 bushels, and 2,914,227 bushels in May, 1903. 408 tons upstream. The downstream total 2,550,087 tons, or 88 per cent were coal. At Louisville, Ky., 1,022,814 tons of freight passed the canal and falls, against 1,044,552 tons in 1903, to the end of May. Coal contributed the largest item of increase. Salt was shipped in double the quantity of a year ago.

Compared with the exceptionally large shipments of anthracite coal during the first five months of 1904, the current year's tonnage has been nearly three millions short. By the end of May, 1904, aggregate of 2,448,443 tons had been moved from the mines. This year 2,550,087 tons have been reported. Partial suspension of lake business during May worked in favor of a restricted movement.

In the bituminous coal regions a materially lighter coal demand has reduced tonnage of this class. The Pennsylvania railroad reports 3,538,746 tons of coke originating east of Pittsburgh and Erie, against 4,097,503 tons to the end of May, 1903. The same road's bituminous coal figures for corresponding periods in these two years show very little reduction.

Taking three bituminous coal roads reaching tide water on the Chesapeake Bay, there does not appear to have been any loss of tonnage. The Baltimore and Ohio, reporting for four months, the Norfolk and Western for five months, show a combined tonnage of 1,406,678 tons compared with 1,374,025 tons last year. On the contrary, seven Ohio railroads report a combined tonnage of 1,406,678 tons compared with 1,374,025 tons last year to the end of May. To the end of this year at Chicago 157,573 tons were received this year against 517,546 tons in 1903. St. Louis reports a similar situation.

The withdrawal of staples from domestic markets and the consequent increase in foreign trade is reflected in the shipping statistics. Rates on grain, New York or Boston to Liverpool were one-third lower than in May last, the ruling rate being 3 cents per bushel. Rates on wheat, New York or Boston to Antwerp, 4 cents and 3 cents, respectively, were the corresponding rates in May last. Rates on a single cargo was reported at 17-1/2 per long ton from San Francisco to Europe, freights are at a standstill, on about the same basis as last year's average, which was 17-1/2. Coal freights to Japan were quoted at $5.75 per ton from New York. From Great Britain to Japan at a rate of 22 shillings, or $5.75, per ton has been published. From the United States to Japan, freights stand on very much the same basis in the matter of freight on coal to the Orient.

A prominent club woman, Mrs. Danforth, of St. Joseph, Mich., tells how she was cured of falling of the womb and its accompanying pains and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Life looks dark indeed when a woman feels that her strength is fading away and she has no hopes of ever being restored. Such was my feeling a few months ago when I was advised that my poor health was caused by prolapsus of falling of the womb. The words sounded like a knell to me. I felt that my sun had set; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me as an elixir of life; it restored the lost forces and built me up until my good health returned to me. For four months I took the medicine daily and each dose added health and strength. I am so thankful for the help I obtained through its use."—Mrs. FLORENCE DANFORTH, 1007 Miles Ave., St. Joseph, Mich.

A medicine that has restored so many women to health and can produce proof of the fact must be regarded with respect. This is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which cannot be equaled by any other medicine the world has ever produced. Here is another case:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For years I was troubled with falling of the womb, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, bearing-down pains, backache, headache, dizzy and fainting spells, and stomach trouble. I doctored for about five years but did not seem to improve. I began the use of your medicine, and have taken seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, three of Blood Purifier, and also the Sensitive Wash and Liver Pills, and am now enjoying good health, and have gained in flesh. I thank you very much for what you have done for me, and heartily recommend your medicine to all suffering women."—Miss EMMA SYDNER, 218 East Center St., Marion, Ohio.

"FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN." Women would save time and much sickness if they would write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice as soon as any distressing symptoms appear. It is free, and has put thousands of women on the right road to recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence thus entrusted to her, and although she publishes thousands of testimonials from women who have been benefited by her advice and medicine, never in all her experience has she published such a letter without the full consent, and often by special request of the writer.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will appear in our columns.

These For Range Roads Are Now Being Constructed.

Observation cars for the Duluth & Iron Range and Duluth, Missabe & Northern roads are now being built at the Hicks plant, near Chicago, and are expected here in a short time to go into service on the range roads. It is said that only one car will be put in service at the start by each of the roads, as the officials wish to test the business ability of the cars, and see if the patronage of them will justify them on all trains.

On the Duluth & Iron Range road, for instance, two cars would be necessary to accommodate all trains, one to leave here in the morning for St. Marys, and return on the evening train, and one to leave here in the afternoon train and return on the train that leaves the upper end of the line the next morning. It is estimated that the new cars will cost in the neighborhood of $700 each, and will mean a considerable outlay of cash for the improvement of the range service for the convenience of excursion and tourist parties.

FROM THE HERALD WASHINGTON BUREAU.

Washington, July 8.—(Special to The Herald.)—Domestic trade movements covering the first five months of the current year were reported in the Monthly Summary of Internal Commerce for May by the department of commerce and labor, through its bureau of statistics. The figures of representative movements indicate that there has, with proper exceptions, been an evident decrease in the consuming demands of the country. On the other hand some leading commercial activities continue to maintain an increase in the volume of business, in comparison with the corresponding months of 1903. This is the case with livestock receipts for which reports were received from leading distributing centers of the West. The five markets of Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis and St. Joseph report combined arrivals of 15,567,227 head, against 12,270 head in 1903 and 12,503,637 head in 1902.

Receipts of grain at twelve primary markets totaled 29,595,595 bushels, in contrast with 32,822,592 bushels in 1903. Receipts of wheat at eight markets from the beginning of the crop year to May 30, were 29,594,152 bushels, as compared with 27,512,561 bushels in 1902-3. Through navigation on the great lakes began with the opening of the Sault Ste. Marie canal May 5. The Welland canal was opened May 10. The strike on the lakes prevailed through the entire month of May, consequently the season's tonnage was appreciably less than that of preceding years. Only 1,016,723 tons were reported as received at 118 ports in contrast with 7,114,519 tons last year, and 6,782,237 tons in May, 1902. Compared with last season to May 31 there has been a loss of 6,097,796 tons of freight in domestic lake commerce.

The total freight tonnage by way of the Sault Ste. Marie canal was 498,538 tons, against 518,007 in May, 1902, when the canal opened about twenty-five days earlier. Receipts of grain, including flour, reduced to bushels, at five markets during May were 8,882,193 bushels, and 22,914,627 bushels for five months this year. For five months last year the receipts were 8,882,193 bushels, in contrast with 11,242,113 bushels in 1902-3. Through navigation on the great lakes began with the opening of the Sault Ste. Marie canal May 5. The Welland canal was opened May 10. The strike on the lakes prevailed through the entire month of May, consequently the season's tonnage was appreciably less than that of preceding years. Compared with last season to May 31 there has been a loss of 6,097,796 tons of freight in domestic lake commerce.

Of the five ports reporting on seaboard receipts, Portland for the five months received 2,221,221 bushels of which 1,202,267 bushels were from Canadian sources and 1,018,954 bushels from the United States. At Boston receipts were 1,007,517 bushels, compared with 1,527,562 bushels in 1902-3. Grain receipts at New York during May this year were 3,765,243 bushels, compared with 12,042,220 bushels in 1902-3. At Philadelphia, 11,298,355 bushels for five months ending with May, 1904, against 10,628 bushels a year ago, at Baltimore, 12,115,435 bushels this year and 23,290,225 bushels last year, and at New Orleans, 1,232,220 bushels this year and 1,232,220 bushels last year.

A marked decrease in the grain trade is shown in the receipts of cotton since Sept. 1 totaled 9,844,110 bales, compared with 12,270 bales in 1903. In Southern receipts receipts of cotton since Sept. 1 totaled 9,844,110 bales, compared with 12,270 bales in 1903. In Southern receipts receipts of cotton since Sept. 1 totaled 9,844,110 bales, compared with 12,270 bales in 1903.

On the Pacific coast most primary ports of trade have gains to record. Receipts of grain at San Francisco during May were 1,232,220 bushels, in contrast with 1,107,401 bushels in May, 1903, although the year's receipts to date of May were 1,232,220 bushels, against 8,122,225 bushels last year.

Arrivals of railroad, pine, and fir at California coast points during May were 82,220,220 feet, and exceeded in volume the corresponding month this year. For five months arrivals were 422,000,225 feet, likewise exceeding receipts for the corresponding period in any of the three preceding years. Tacoma lumber shipments have increased, 4,502,000 feet having been reported this year to the end of April and 2,220,220 feet last year.

Orange and lemon shipments decreased during May, from 95 cars in the first week to 79 cars in the last week ending June 2, compared with 95 cars last year and 21 cars in the preceding year. Since Nov. 1, 22,960 cars have been shipped, compared with 17,522 cars last season and 14,221 cars in the preceding season.

As tons upstream. The downstream total 2,220,220 tons, or 98 per cent were coal. At Louisville, Ky., 1,552,514 tons of freight passed the canal and falls, against 1,044,553 tons in 1903, to the end of May. Coal contributed the largest item of increase.

Salt was shipped in double the quantity of a year ago. Compared with the exceptionally large shipments of anthracite coal during the first five months of last year, the current year's tonnage has been nearly three millions short. By the end of May, 1904, an aggregate of 2,448,450 tons had been moved from the mines. This year, 2,220,220 tons have been reported. Partial suspension of lake business during May resulted in favor of a restricted movement.

In the bituminous coal regions a materially lighter coke demand has reduced tonnage of this class. The Pennsylvania railroad reports 3,538,779 tons of coke originating east of Pittsburgh and Erie, against 4,007,261 tons to the end of May, 1903. The same road's bituminous coal figures for corresponding periods in these two years show very little reduction.

Taking the three bituminous coal roads reaching tide water on the Chesapeake Bay, there was not a ton of coke shipped in any loss of tonnage. The Baltimore & Ohio, reporting for four months, the Chesapeake & Ohio, for four months, and the Norfolk & Western for five months, reported a combined total of 1,106,653 tons, compared with 1,474,022 tons last year. On the contrary, seven Ohio railroads report a falling off in bituminous shipments from 5,529,918 tons last year to the end of May, to 5,557,775 tons this year. At Chicago 1,547,923 tons were received this year against 5,127,541 in 1903. St. Louis reports a similar shrinkage.

The withdrawal of staples from domestic to foreign commerce is influenced favorably by ocean freight rates. Rates on grain, New York to London, for instance, were one-third lower than in May last, the ruling rate being 3 cents per bushel last year and 2 cents this year. To Antwerp, 44 cents and 3 cents, respectively, were the corresponding rates. On the Pacific coast, where a single cargo was reported at 15-3 per long ton from San Francisco to Europe, freights are at a standstill, on about the same basis as last year's average, which was 17-3. Coal freights to Japan were quoted at $8.75 per ton from New York.

Britain to the far East at a rate of 23 shillings, or $5.75, per ton has been published. The withdrawal of staples from domestic to foreign commerce is influenced favorably by ocean freight rates. RAILROAD NEWS

Omaha Road Finally Gets
Office.

Excursion of Odd Fellows
August 4.

It is no longer for callers in the Omaha city ticket office to take out their watches to tell the time, as the new Western Union clock, with time fresh from Washington every day, has been put in. The clock, or rather the question of a clock, for the office has been agitated many times, and has had rather interesting developments.

Originally the Omaha people calculated on getting into the present office room about the first of the present year, and effecting an exchange of offices with the Pioneer Press company. The clock was accordingly ordered, and the telegraph company promised to have it immediately.

In a few days Agent George M. Smith was notified that the clock was in Duluth and ready to go into service. At this time it was found that a hitch, or something in a lease, would prevent the officeholders exchanging places, and the railroad company "phoned the telegraph people that there would be no place for the clock for some time, and to kindly hold it until called for. It was held for a couple of months, until the ticket office moved into the new mahogany room in the Lonsdale building.

Then it was sent up to the new office and unpacked. When the clock was revealed there was great indignation in the office. It was a yellow clock and did not suit the furniture.

"Take this back and get us a red one," said Mr. Smith. "We have mahogany furniture here and nothing of the mongrel color. Get out with it. Can't we leave it till we get you another?"

"Not on your life. If you leave it here they will be attempting to put it on our expense, and say that we folks are getting 'yellow with time' and all that sort of business. We'll use our watches for a few days until you get us something suitable. Nothing yellow about us, except our watches, and we keep these hidden. Mr. Blankenship is only exception to this rule and he wears a silver watch."

So the "yellow" clock was removed, and the office had to wait over two months until the right colored clock could be obtained. Some of the employees say that the present chronometer is the original timepiece painted over.

Going to Moose Lake.

On the fourth day of August the Northern Pacific expects to run out of the head of the lakes about as large an excursion as has ever been taken, certainly the largest of this season.

The occasion will be the state meeting of the Odd Fellows, and a list of events has been prepared, and it is estimated that 100 Odd Fellows will go from Duluth to Superior and the neighboring towns.

People Are Hopeful.

S. J. Bigelow, commercial agent of the Wisconsin Central at Duluth, turned this morning from Sault Ste. Marie. He says that the directors of the reorganized Lake Superior and Northern Pacific have determined, but did not conclude their deliberations. They expected to take some action shortly toward resuming the operation of the plants of their companies," said Mr. Bigelow, "and I believe it is hoped to do this soon. The people of the Sault are hopeful that the works will very shortly begin for business, which would be a great benefit to the Sault particularly and the northwest generally."

Railroad Notes.

There will be four extra sleepers for through service necessary on the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic train which leaves here the night of July 21. The cars being engaged to carry passengers for Quebec on account of the St. Anne pilgrimages. The train will be tourist and two of them palace sleepers. The number of extra coaches necessary has not yet been determined, but it is believed that the regular night train from here will leave in two sections, one to run through to the mouth of the St. Lawrence.

An excursion party of 60 Eastern people, coming by the Eastern & Western agency, is scheduled to arrive in Duluth next Tuesday night on the steamer North Star. There will be three extra sleepers on the Great Northern train for the Twin Cities that night to accommodate North West arrivals.

Stage Manager Ill.

William Munroe, who has been acting as stage manager for the Elliott-Courtesy Stock company, at the Lyceum, has been ill for a week at the Brunswick hotel and will be sent to his home in Chicago tomorrow if able to travel. Mr. Munroe's family live in Chicago and he has a daughter on the stage. He is a well known figure on the stage and for years was in stock in New York City. He succeeded John L. Woodson as stage director here. Mr. Woodson having gone to Bangor, Me., to start a theatrical enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Berry have arrived from Chicago, Mr. Berry having engaged as stage manager. Mr. Berry formerly managed the stage of the Columbus theater in Chicago, when Charles P. Elliott had that theater.

To Play at Hibbing.

The Oak Hall base ball team of this city will leave Sunday morning over the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railroad for Hibbing, where they will meet the team there Sunday afternoon. The team has been strengthened in the last two weeks and the men are confident they can give the Hibbing team a fast game. Hill of the Pearsons has been signed to do the pitching, and Cowley of the same team will play in the field. Winners of the Big Duluth will hold down the second sack. The Oak Hall will play in the first game of the season in the next few weeks, and after that they will give their time to downing a few of the local teams.

Can You Afford to Pass the Present Buying Opportunities?

Note.

The fact that our store has been open but three months assures our customers of getting this season's styles only!

Not an article or garment that we offer is passe—not an article or garment that we offer but what is clean and fresh—most of them having arrived within the past six weeks!

It should be quite plain to you, then, that reductions on goods of this character mean so much more than on lines that have been in stock for some time!

Most of the styles in our house today are being shown by prominent makers in their fall line, so that you practically get a new fall suit now at a more fraction of what it will cost you later.

STRIKE EXTENDED.
Chicago, July 8.—The strike of ladies' garment workers was extended today, when the employees of twenty-one additional firms quit work. Most of the firms affected are small contractors, who work for the big houses. The total number of workmen added to the strikers roll is estimated at 600.

SULLY WILL SOON BE IN BUSINESS AGAIN.

New York, July 8.—That Daniel J. Sully will soon be in business again is the announcement contained in a statement issued today by Mr. Sully's counsel, who says that "all that is necessary now to do is to carry out the forms prescribed by the bankruptcy law, which will be immediately done. A sufficient number in majority and amount of creditors having voted in favor of the proposition, it follows that the matter will go through."

PARKER PASSES
UNEVENTFUL DAY.

Esoupa, N. Y., July 8.—Judge Parker's day has been uneventful today. Speaking of the letters which he has received, the judge appeared greatly amused at the importance which has been attached to some of them. He said that he had one rather unusual letter today, whose writer had views on the land question. He said he would have been perfectly willing to let the reporters see the letter but for the fact that its writer was a woman.

Thompson & Dunlop Object to Award of Bridge Contract.

Claim Outside Concerns Will Stop Bidding if Treated So.

"If the city wants to have outside competition for its municipal improvement contracts, the council is certainly not adopting the proper method to get it," said W. B. Dunlop, of the firm of Thompson & Dunlop at the meeting of the board of public works this morning.

Thompson & Dunlop are the local representatives of the St. Paul Foundry company, which submitted the lowest bid for the construction of a bridge over the ravine on Fifth street between Twenty-second and Twenty-third avenues east. At the last meeting of the board the contract was let to the St. Paul concern, but a notation was made that the bid of the Northwestern Steam Boiler works was but $31 higher. The council, in consideration of the fact that the latter firm is a Duluth concern, did not confirm the award made by the board and returned the report with the recommendation that the contract be let to the Northwestern Steam Boiler works.

The matter is due to come up again this afternoon, when the local board will doubtless comply with the advice of the council.

Mr. Dunlop appeared at the meeting of the board this morning to protest against the contract being let to a higher bidder.

"The principle is wrong," said Mr. Dunlop. "You require us to put up a certified check as security of good faith with us. If we made a mistake and bid $200 too low, you would take that check or make us complete the job at a loss. We have all the trouble and all the risk and then when we bid $31 less than our nearest competitor, we are turned down."

"You cannot reject our bid on the ground that our firm is less responsible than the Duluth concern. The firm we represent has a much larger capital than the local firm and has specialized in bridge work, whereas bridge work is more or less of an experiment with the Northwestern Boiler works."

If you treat outside bidders in this manner you may regret it some day when they cease to submit bids and local concerns commence to hold you up for fancy prices."

ORIGIN OF POKER.
No One Knows Who First Played For Jack Pot.

While most men will testify to the fact that few know very much about the great American game of poker, even the experts who admit they are ignorant of the origin of the game, says the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

All the evidence about poker which has come to light, however, points to its origin in New Orleans. The question is, Where did New Orleans get it from, or is it an improvement on some game known to the population of that city, who, it must be remembered, were French and used French terms in any games that they played?

The standard pack of cards in Europe from the earliest days has been what is now called the piquet pack, which is the same as our American outré pack, thirty-two cards. There is only one country in the world that uses a pack limited to twenty cards, and that is Persia; but the game is not called poker. It is called as.

Those who are familiar with this ancient Persian game unhesitatingly assert some Frenchman must have brought it to New Orleans in its primitive form, with the pack limited to twenty cards, and the hand of each player increased to five. The question still remains, how did it change its name?

The name of as is not only the name of a game—it is now generally used to distinguish the old Persian cards with which as is played from the European cards, which are modern, and was called anjif, a word which seemed to have been derived from the Chinese, and means "paper cards." The word is at present applied to European playing cards only, five cards in each suit.

The old Persian pack had no aces, court cards and spots, like ours, but each suit was made up of pique, king, queen, jack, and dancing girl. This pack was called varak i as, varak i as, which was played with it. This ancient game was simply twenty-card poker, as it was first played in America at the beginning of this century.

As as, however, was originally known as as, how came it to lose that name? It seemed to be a puzzle, and this question must be looked for in the language of the people who brought the game from Europe, if they did not bring it.

It is said that it is to New Orleans that the poker of today has been brought, or if some resident of that city was familiar with the Persian game, and thought it an improvement on the French game of ambigu and break, the introduction was probably French, and more familiar with French games and French terms than with Persia. If this theory were correct, the next thing to do would be to examine all the books published in the French language on the subject of playing cards and card games.

Curiously enough one of the oldest and most authoritative works on card games was published in France, and ran through a great many editions. This is the famous "Academie Universelle des Jeux," by Chevalier de la Roche, au Palais, Paris.

In the 1665 edition of this work we find the description of the game of hoc.

The game of hoc continues to be described until the edition of 1702, with no mention of any improvement or change in its form. In 1733, however, page 260, we find a description of "Jeux du Poque," which exactly agrees with the game known to all German children as as, or poche.

"Academie des Jeux" speaks of poque as a descendant or offshoot from the older game of hoc.

The peculiarity of poque is, that after the cards are dealt and each player has taken from the common pool the counter for the rank of the highest cards held, he is at liberty to bet upon the various combinations of cards he holds, triples, pairs, etc. In the French description of the game we are told that a player opened the betting by saying: "Je poque d'un jeton, ou deux chips, or the others could see him, raise him, or drop out in their turn."

In the German game of poche, as it is played today, we find exactly the same expressions still in use. In poche the players are instructed to say in English: "I poque for so much," and the following players are to respond: "I poque against you."

Show this word "poque" to any ordinary English-speaking person, not acquainted with French, and he would undoubtedly separate it into two syllables and call it po-que. In the German word poche is already as near poker as the vowel sound will admit.

What more natural than that a resident of New Orleans of French birth or extraction already familiar with the game of poque and seeing as and poche for the first time should use expressions "Je poque d'un jeton," etc., and that the English or German-speaking person, adopting the game, should say, "I po-que."

From this it is a short step to drop the curious and difficult foreign name of as and altogether and call the game po-que, and later to spell it poker.

remains of an ordinary seal in the stomach of a sea leopard, which is provided with a very fierce set of teeth, quite in keeping with the possible habit of feeding on other seals.

A kind of penguin, the adelle, is a laugh-provoking bird. Adelles are most inquisitive and at times are in such a hurry to follow up a clue that they will scramble along the ice on their belly, pushing with their legs and using their flippers alternately like the paddles of a canoe. They get over the ground at an astonishing rate, and it is hard work to overtake a penguin when it takes this means of locomotion, especially when it doubles. In the water the penguin is perfectly at home, diving and stooping, chasing in great style. He can jump clear out of the water and come down on the ice exactly like some one coming up through a trap-door on his feet. The penguins collect in enormous numbers and are sometimes seen marching about like a regiment of soldiers in Indian file, all acting in unison.

A much larger penguin, the emperor, weighs sixty or seventy pounds and stands well over three feet high. It possesses the most extraordinary muscular powers in its flippers.

SUTTEE WITHOUT FIRE.
Mrs. S. C. Bhattacharji writes: "The following case of suttee took place at Village Rynd, Bhawal (Dacca), during my stay there on inspection tour," says the Amrita Bazar Patrika.

"One Sheikh Akali, aged about 50 years, came to live with his relative in the above village a few months ago with his wife, aged about 40, and a son aged some 12 years. A fortnight ago Akali fell ill, and practically had no medical treatment worth the name, as generally happens to every poor man in the interior. His case grew more serious day by day, and on the last instant he showed worse symptoms, which convinced his assembled relatives and friends that his end was not far off."

"The wife of Akali was till then perfectly healthy and free from any kind of disease. On the date mentioned above, she did not leave the side of her husband for a moment except for half an hour at about 10 a. m., to have a hasty breakfast at the utmost importunity of her relatives to feed her body. A couple of hours later she complained of sudden giddiness and then of deafness. Rustics as they are, nobody paid any special heed to her representation; everyone was watching Akali, who was lying perfectly unconscious. Then she was caught by cramps all over her body, especially the extremities. She had acute spasms and lay prostrate. A little before dusk she, who was unable to utter a word so long, uttered aloud 'Allah,' and closed her eyes forever."

"The poor boy of Akali then realized the gravity of the situation and went crying to his father and reported the death of his mother. The father, long motionless and speechless, simply uttered a deep moan and died a few hours after. The father, husband and wife were the next morning buried side by side. God bless the soul of the happy couple."

THE DIRTIEST PEOPLE IN THE WORLD.
With possible exceptions in the cases of Thibet and Lapland, we are compelled to admit that the English working-classes are probably the dirtiest biologically in the world, alike in their clothes and in their persons, and that they display themselves in public, and even travel by public conveyances, in conditions which would not be tolerated in any other civilized country, says the London Lancet.

Nothing like English working class dirt is ever seen in public on the continent of Europe, unless in its far eastern portions; and dirt is prejudicial to health, not only by its direct physical operation, but in a still greater degree by reason of the absence of self-respect which it entails and which removes from the dirty man or woman at least one safeguard against drunkenness and against misconduct.

CHRISTIANS IN JAPAN.
The present (twentieth) diet contains seven Christian members says the World Today. They include one Baptist, two Congregationalists and four Methodists.

The proportion of seven out of a total membership of 22 makes one Christian for every 3.14 members. The total number of nominal Christians in Japan is about 10,000,000 in a population of about 50,000,000.

JUDGE A. B. PARKER UNANIMOUSLY NOMINATED FOR PRESIDENT BY DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

JAPANESE ARMY CAPTURES THE IMPORTANT CITY OF KAI CHOU FROM RUSSIANS

No Details of the Battle

Kai Chou Will Be Strong

St. Petersburg, July 9.—The capture of Kai Chou by the Japanese, announced from Tokyo today, is not officially confirmed at the war office, but there is no disposition to question the probable correctness of the report as the latest advices received here made it plain that the Japanese were advancing in force along the railroad against the Russian position. The emperor and his military suite, who left St. Petersburg last night for the Volga region to bid farewell to the Fifth and sixth army corps, may already have received Gen. Kuropatkin's report. The general staff has not yet received Gen. Sakharoff's report, which usually follows Kuropatkin's at short intervals. The occupation of Kai Chou, while it is not believed that it will exercise any material influence on Kuropatkin's strategy, is of importance to the Japanese as it brings them within reach of Newchwang, facilitating Gen. Oku's junction with Gen. Kuroki, who may already be in touch. How far the Russian commander-in-chief attempted to control the possession of Kai Chou with the Japanese, the war office says, will be revealed when the official report arrives. The Japanese reports of the severity of the fighting might indicate Gen. Kuropatkin's desire to hold Kai Chou so long as possible, for the purpose of preventing a junction of the Japanese armies, but the threatening position of the Japanese columns eastward may have rendered Gen. Kuropatkin's withdrawal further north imperative. It would not be surprising if, after the junction of the Japanese armies, Kuropatkin decided to retire even from Tai Tche Kiao and Hui Cheng and concentrate his forces about his main position at Liao Yang. This would render easy the Japanese plan to repeat the capture of these places, flank the Russians out of Newchwang, force a line from Newchwang across the head of the peninsula to Taku Shan and Feng Wang Chung, secure control of the railroad, establish a new base at Newchwang and prepare to advance, as the case might be, at the close of the rainy season.

News of the evacuation of Newchwang by the Russians would seem to be the logical sequence of the announcement of the occupation of Kai Chou by the Japanese. The capture of Kai Chou (Kai Ping) throws the Japanese line clear across the Liao Tung peninsula and from the river to the sea. The Japanese line is about twenty-five miles south of Yin Kow, the port of Newchwang, and Yin Kow is about thirty-five miles south of Hui Cheng, which is on the railway and twelve miles to the southeast of Newchwang.

The announcement of the occupation of Kai Chou by the Japanese did not have any effect on the house; important forces did not lose a single point.

FOR FUTURE POSITION.

Object of Russia's Fight in the Far East.

St. Petersburg, July 9.—M. Souverin, manager of the Novoe Vremya, in a leading article in that paper which is attracting much attention, declares that it has not Manchuria nor Korea for which Russia is fighting, but it is for their future position in the far East, where covetous hands are stretched out, not only by Japan, but by the United States and Great Britain, which is the cause of the American and English sympathy for Japan. Russia, he continues, has been spoiled by easy, bloodless victories in the far East and, consequently, was not prepared for the struggle which was only avoidable by following Tolstoy's teachings and by giving the nations spirit and the unity of the empire. The contest, therefore, was accepted under unfavorable conditions. The Russians, as plainmen are out of their element in the mountains. The Japanese at the outset are able to put in the field twice as many men as was Russia and they have displayed marvelous skill, but these advantages are being overcome.

Causes Waters to Rise Again.

Government Orders 1000 Tents and Rations for the Sufferers.

Kansas City, July 9.—Flood waters at Armourdale, Argentine and Lower Kansas City, Kas., on the raging Kaw, and to Manhattan, half way across Kansas, have fallen steadily since late yesterday and today, continued to recede. The water at Manhattan became stationary at midnight, after rising steadily all day, and then began to go down, eliminating the last danger of further damage at the head of the Kaw and along its course. The stage here was two feet lower than yesterday. In Armourdale, however, the water is still over six feet deep in the lowest places.

The Missouri at Kansas City and north also receded fast, and no additional damage to Harlem or the east bottom will result from the overflow of that stream. In the west bottoms, on the Missouri side, where the floods resulted from backwater, the Kaw's fall was more noticeable than elsewhere, and confidence was restored and merchants began to restore their goods, hastily taken away at the first sign of danger. At the stock yards the fall was slow, and conditions were still bad. Most of the pens were flooded, and it will not be possible to handle receipts before Monday. The railroads have been closed since the night of Sunday and West, operated some trains in and out of Kansas City, although the only means of getting to and from College Hill, has been closed. No trains have reached Wichita since Monday. The town is practically isolated and the only means of moving about is by boats. Valley Center and other points south report a fall in the Little Arkansas of more than half a foot during the night.

Topeka, July 9.—Soldiers creek has returned to its channel and the backwater receded from the yards and streets. Business men are opening up their stores and citizens moving back into their homes.

ANNUAL CAMPFIRE OF YOUNG BAPTISTS.

Detroit, July 9.—The first session of the third day of the Baptist Young People's Union international convention was devoted to the annual campfire. This picturesque ceremony, consisting of the carrying of the banners of the various states, territories and provinces to the platform, each accompanied by the delegates from the locality, the banner represents, was carried out amidst great enthusiasm. Over $9000 was raised in pledges from the various states during the morning. Rev. Walter C. Kelley, of Chicago, was reappointed general secretary of the union, and the announcement created much enthusiasm among the delegates. The board of managers also reappointed Rev. W. H. Geiswert, editor of the Baptist Union.

PARKER WILL DEAL WITH FINANCIAL QUESTION.

St. Louis, July 9.—A Parker man who declined to permit the use of his name, but who is so close to the Democratic candidate as to make his words specially an echo of those of Judge Parker, declared this morning that Parker will, in his letter of acceptance, deal with the financial question in a specific manner and according to lines advanced by Hill, of New York, and Williams, of Mississippi, before the committee on resolutions.

returning to their homes in the higher part of the flood district, as the water recedes, but it will be many days before the great majority of the flooded houses are inhabitable.

Washington, July 9.—Acting upon a report from Gen. Bell, who investigated the conditions at Kansas City, Kas., growing out of the flood, Acting Secretary of War Oliver telegraphed Gen. Bell to make an emergency appropriation for the relief of the flood sufferers. The supplies will be drawn from the War Department's storehouse and measure and will be followed by further relief if necessary.

Arkansas City, Kas., July 9.—Although the Arkansas river is stationary, and the water is falling slowly, Arkansas City faces the worst flood in its history.

The dikes are weakening, and people in the lowlands have been warned to leave their homes. Part of one bridge is out and all railroad traffic is at a standstill.

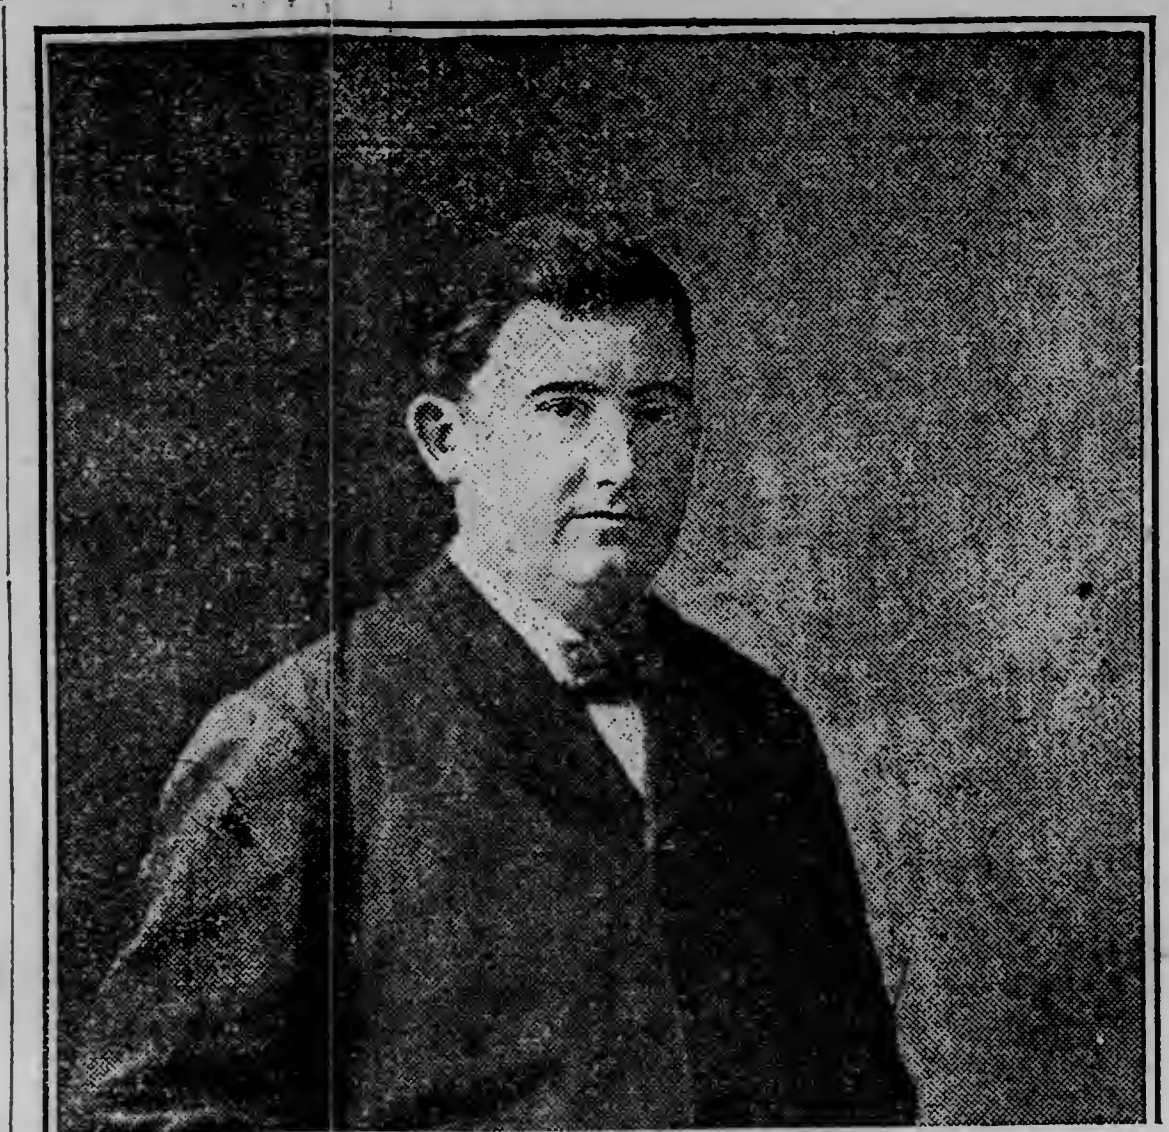

Wichita, Kas., July 9.—The flood situation in Wichita today shows little change. The Little Arkansas receded slightly after midnight, but an early morning downpour caused the backwater to return to its old mark. This is causing the most trouble. The high water during the night and day is now higher than it has been at any time. Second street bridge, which is the only means of getting to and from College Hill, has been closed. No trains have reached Wichita since Monday. The town is practically isolated and the only means of moving about is by boats. Valley Center and other points south report a fall in the Little Arkansas of more than half a foot during the night.

THE FLOOD REPORTS OF HEAVY JAPANESE OPERATIONS JULY 4 AND JULY 5, AGAINST PORT ARTHUR, AND THE RESULTS OF THE ALLEGED SINKING OF A RUSSIAN GUARDSHIP, JUNE 27, AS REPORTED FROM TOKIO.

General Slessoff says that up to the time his reports were forwarded, not a single fortress battery had fired a shot at the besiegers on the land side, and that the railroad was then running twelve miles beyond the perimeter of the fortress.

NOT A FORTRESS At Port Arthur Has Fired on Land Besiegers.

St. Petersburg, July 9.—Official reports from Lieutenant General Stoessel, commander of the Russian military forces at Port Arthur, dated July 9, confirm the reports of the attempt of four Japanese impetuous destroyers to enter the harbor of Port Arthur, June 27, but do not confirm the

HON. MARTIN W. LITTLETON,
Of Brooklyn, N. Y., Who Nominated Judge Parker for President.

AN ELOQUENT ADDRESS BY MARTIN LITTLETON

Abounds in Original, Catchy Phrases and Bursts of Oratory.

St. Louis, July 9.—Hon. Martin W. Littleton, of Brooklyn, N. Y., is a "phrase maker," and his eloquent speech nominating Judge Parker for president was one of the most eloquent addresses ever heard in a national political gathering. Mr. Littleton said: "Without the master whom they learned to love they fingered listless under the whip of one whom they have learned to fear. Stripped of premeditated pomp and sham of soothing phrases the occasion meant no more or less than an era of boots and spurs."

(FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)
St. Louis, July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—Jones of Rock was the only reading clerk left in commission at the adjournment of the Democratic national convention this morning. His voice was as clear as a bell, while half a dozen other reading clerks were completely worn out. He announced the vote of the states all through the last roll call.

In the last ovation to Bryan, at daybreak, when he finished his last appeal to the convention, all the Minnesota members heartily joined.

ROOSEVELT HAS NO COMMENT TO MAKE.

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 9.—News of the nomination by the St. Louis convention of Judge Allen B. Parker for the presidency was communicated to President Roosevelt at breakfast time today by Secretary Loeb. The information was given the president by telephone from Judge Parker or any other action of the convention. What he may have to say concerning the platform and candidates probably will be said in his letter of acceptance of his own nomination by the Republican party.

The Convention Again Adjourns to 5:20 p. m.

Judson Harmon in Lead for Vice Presidency.

St. Louis, July 9.—The effect of last night's protracted and harassing session was plainly evident when the hour arrived to which the convention recess had been taken. Chairman Clark was not present. Not more than 300 delegates were in their seats, and the galleries showed more empty chairs than visitors. The pyrotechnics were over, the red fire dying out, the curtain was about to descend and the general interest in proceedings was comparatively gone.

For the first time since the convention opened it was possible to walk the aisles without treading upon the feet of other people and fighting for a passageway. The chairman arrived at 2:05 o'clock, and the incident, which hereafter was the signal for applause, was this afternoon entirely unnoticed.

The prominent men in the party were conspicuous by their absence. Hill was in conference at the Southern hotel, trying to settle upon the nominee for the vice presidency. Col. Guiley of Pennsylvania, Hopkins, of Illinois, and Daniel, of Virginia, and numerous others were absent long after the hour set for the commencement of the day's work.

As time passed and few of the leaders of the party came in, it became evident that the cause for the delay was the general desire to reach an agreement upon vice presidential nominee before calling the roll. Word was passed around that Harmon would be the man, then it was said it would go to Williams, of Illinois.

Chairman Clark resumed the gavel today and at 2:48 o'clock began his effort to call the convention to order. Before the formal opening of the session, the hand was signalled for a tune, as many delegates began to arrive, making too much confusion for the chair to be heard.

The rumor of a recess had spread and every one was anxious to know the procedure. The delay continued, however, word being awaited from the vice presidential conference at the Southern hotel. The band was utilized again for entertainment and got a rousing cheer as it struck up "Dixie."

Rev. John T. Johnston, pastor of the Delmar Avenue Baptist church, was introduced to pronounce the invocation.

A. M. Lawrence, of Illinois, took the platform to read a telegram from Hearst, pledging support for Parker. A motion to adjourn until 5:20 p. m. was agreed to. It is believed Judson Harmon, of Ohio, will be the nominee for vice president.

St. Louis, July 9.—Chief Judge Alton B. Parker of the New York state court of appeals was nominated at about 5:45 o'clock this morning for president of the United States by the Democratic national convention. But one roll call ensued, and a decisive result was reached by that one roll call. Parker was nominated by a vote of 667 to 1.

The scene was dramatic in the extreme. Darkness had descended upon the convention when the Democratic hosts, while broad daylight, the sun paled the electric light, witnessed the close.

The convention was in session from 8 o'clock last night until nearly 6 o'clock this morning. In that time eight names were presented to the convention. Nominating and seconding speeches innumerable were made, and when dawn appeared it became necessary to limit the seconding speeches to four minutes each. An extension was

President Percault of the Duluth Trades Assembly, Re-elected.

Spirited Discussion Over the Coming Labor Day Picnic.

Duluth trades and labor unions will meet during the coming week as follows: Building Trades council, Monday evening in Kalamazoo building. Stone masons, Monday evening in Axa building. Tug firemen and firemen, Monday evening in Hunter block. Plasterers, Monday evening in the Kalamazoo building. Butchers, Tuesday evening in Kalamazoo building. Machinists, Tuesday evening in Ajax building. Sheet metal workers, Tuesday evening in Kalamazoo block. Steamfitters, Tuesday evening in Hunter block. Cooks and waiters, Tuesday evening in Kalamazoo building. Painters, decorators and paper hangers, Tuesday evening in Kalamazoo building. Carpenters, Tuesday evening in Kalamazoo building. Plumbers, Thursday evening in Kalamazoo building. Stationary engineers, Thursday evening in Lyceum building. Builders' Laborers' union, Thursday evening at 221 West Superior street.

President, Henry Percault, cigarmaker, (fourth term). Vice president, T. G. Freshney, painter. Recording secretary, J. A. Barron, printer. Secretary-treasurer, C. J. McDowell, leather worker. Reading clerk, John McDonald, printer. Sergeant at arms, N. P. Peterson, tailor.

plumber, E. Hansburg, builders' laborer. Labor day committee appointed last July 1st, consisting of: C. J. McDowell, J. W. Morton, E. S. Kromroy, John McDonald, H. Schubitzky.

The above list of officers was elected for the ensuing six months at the meeting of the Federated Trades assembly last night. President Percault won out on the first ballot over delegates Baker of the carpenters, and Freshney of the painters. Mr. Percault was nominated by James Walsh, of the tugmen, in a neatly worded address, telling of the president's good work in the past and of his excellent qualifications for the office.

The only contest during the election was for reading clerk. Five ballots were cast before Mr. McDonald finally won out over his two opponents, Geo. Skinner and H. Schubitzky.

The meeting was called at 8 o'clock in the evening and did not adjourn until 11:30. The election of officers and a discussion of labor day arrangements took up a good portion of the time. Mrs. G. Hood Thompson of the W. C. T. U. spoke early in the evening regarding the labor day preparations. She told of how the W. C. T. U. always worked towards the advancement of the laboring man's interest, and she was the wife of a union man. She was greatly interested in unions and work. She objected to prizes of flowers and cigars being offered in the various contests held under the auspices of the Federated Trades assembly on Labor day, and strongly recommended that all such prizes be cut out this year, on the ground that they might work great harm. She also wished to ask, on behalf of the section, that the picnic be held on grounds in any manner owned or controlled by saloon men, saying that should the affair be so held no one could attend without patronizing a saloon-keeper.

President Percault in trying to adjust the difficulty, was appointed to hold a meeting in the Kalamazoo block at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The report of the secretary-treasurer showed a balance of $100.00. The report of the secretary-treasurer showed a balance of $100.00. The report of the secretary-treasurer showed a balance of $100.00.

There was quite a discussion over the labor day picnic. George Skinner expressed the opinion that the picnic should be given by the assembly alone, without the assistance of labor unions. The assembly decided that the picnic should be held as in former years, the Federated Trades assembly and Building Trades council working in conjunction. It was also decided that the picnic should be held on the grounds of the city, and that the picnic should be held on the grounds of the city.

The labor day committee will hold its first meeting Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Labor World office, Manhattan building.

striking Colorado miners. At the meeting next Tuesday evening the election of officers will occur.

The organization of a marine cooks' union, with Harry James Walsh as official. More members will be taken in at a meeting to be held this evening in the Kalamazoo block. Following are the officers of the new union: President, William Benton; vice president, J. C. O'Brien; secretary, Late Montroy; treasurer, E. Johnson; chairman, John Smith; recording secretary, C. W. Branton; secretary-treasurer, C. D. Rogers; guard, Charles Ginzburg.

Following is the list of officers elected for the ensuing term at the last regular convention of the Duluth Workers' union: President, William McLeod; vice president, E. Johnson; secretary, C. W. Branton; recording secretary, C. D. Rogers; guard, Charles Ginzburg.

Typographical union, local No. 135, installed officers at the regular meeting this week as follows: President, James A. Barron; vice president, James Walsh; secretary-treasurer, A. Murphy; recording secretary, E. Eastman, sergeant-at-arms, John McDonald; J. A. Barron has been elected delegate from the union to the convention of the national association at St. Louis early in August.

Officers were elected this week by the Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers' union, which was held Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Fred McGuire, vice president. C. Brandt, conductor, C. Carlson, warden, E. Omes.

The postponed meeting of the Building Trades council will be held Monday evening when an election of officers will be held. Probably a discussion of labor day arrangements will also be taken up.

Tickets issued for June 21st available for this excursion.

CRIPPLE CREEK DISTRICT. The Production For June Reached Large Figures. Colorado Springs, Colo., July 9.—The production for June reaches the big figure of $1,007,000, with an average value of $2 and a tonnage of 137,000 tons. The month of June would eclipse all others this year except for the fact that all properties except the Portland were closed for a full week after the Independence holiday, and later the Portland mine was closed for ten days. If the above time had not been lost the production for June would have exceeded in tonnage and value the production of any other month of the year.

The directors of the famous Stratton's Independence have decided to open the mine to lessees. They came to this conclusion after receiving the recommendation of John Hayes Hammond to stop work on the property and lease it to the lessees. The directors of the mine are more than willing to lease the mine to the lessees.

The construction work on the large cyanide mill to be erected on the Anaconda's property was started today. The mill company has shipped a gross output of 100 foot pump for the purpose of treating all the Anaconda dumps, which contain in the neighborhood of 100,000 tons of material. The company is not going into the matter blindly by any means, as they have taken hundreds of samples from different portions of the dumps, from which they have received an average of 4 to 10 per cent of cyanide. It is also being tested as to the purity of the cyanide, and the results are very satisfactory.

The Mine Owners association has issued the following statement: The mine owners of this district are now working on the normal capacity of the mines as developed at the present time. The shaft of the main El Paso property on Beacon Hill has now reached a depth of 250 feet. It is the intention of the company to continue sinking to the 1000 foot point as fast as possible. No trouble is anticipated from water, although the shaft is now 20 feet below the level of the district. This is a water level in the granite where the water is so tight that the water cannot easily percolate through. During June Lessee Granfield, operating the Rader claim owned by the C. K. & N. company, has shipped out 500 tons of ore having an average value of $10 to the ton. The company has a gross output of $9,000 for the month. This tonnage is being taken from the El Paso mine, and the company is putting their spur to the property. The company is putting their spur to the property. The company is putting their spur to the property.

George town, Del., July 9.—Word was received here today that Edward Bowen, the negro who is accused of having kidnapped and murdered the 14-year-old daughter of Perry P. Joseph, near Hollywood, was in custody at Shallowford, Md., 21 miles below here. He was captured by the authorities there. The police officials here infer from a confession the negro made that he killed the girl. There are threats of lynching. The child's body has not been recovered.

DASTARDLY ASSAULT. Floodwood Said to Be Excited Over One. The little village of Floodwood, Minn., on the Great Northern, about 25 miles from Duluth, is greatly wrought up over the assault Thursday upon a 2-year-old girl, daughter of John Derrosier, by an unknown man. As yet there seems to be no clue as to who the vicious assailant was.

The crime was committed while the girl and her little brother were alone in the house, their parents being absent at the depot, to see a friend off. Mr. and Mrs. Derrosier were absent about an hour. Discovering the dastardly outrage on their return they questioned the boy, who said that while they were away a man came to the house and attacked his sister. He said he had never seen the man before.

ORDER TO EXAMINE ACCOUNTS. State of Minnesota, County of St. Louis. In Probate Court, Special Term, July 9, 1904. In the Matter of the Estate of Mary A. Jackson, Deceased. On reading and filing the petition of J. W. Bowers, administrator of the estate of Mary A. Jackson, deceased, representing among other things, that he has fully administered said estate, and praying that a time and place be fixed for examining, settling and allowing the final account of said estate, and for the appointment of a guardian of the property of said estate, and for the assignment of the residue of said estate to the parties entitled thereto by law. It is ordered, that said account be examined, and petition heard by this court, on Monday, the 8th day of August, A. D. 1904, at ten o'clock a. m., at the probate office, in the court house, in the city of Duluth, in said county.

And it is further ordered, that notice thereof be given to all persons interested, by publishing a copy of this order once in each of three consecutive issues of the Duluth Evening Herald, a daily newspaper printed and published at Duluth, in said county. Dated at Duluth, Minn., the 9th day of July, A. D. 1904. By the Court. J. B. MIDDLECOPP, Judge of Probate. (Seal Probate Court, St. Louis Co., Minn.) Duluth Evening Herald, July 9-16-23-1904.

3, for they cure constipation in every case, they have no equal on earth gentle laxative, and they give to who use them, clear complexions, bright eyes and continuous good health. Cheaper is their price, a golden guinea value.

ended, for they cure constipation in every single case, they have no equal on earth as a gentle laxative, and they give to those who use them, clear complexions, bright eyes and continuous good health. A quarter is their price, a golden guinea their value.

How often do you see men and women who seem to have let go completely their hold on life, whose eyes are listless, whose color is or is slow, who seem to drop beneath the weight of an unknown woe.

What you go to ask them is, "What is the trouble, what is wrong?" They would answer, "I don't know exactly what it is, but I seem to have gone all to pieces." Were you to inquire further and get at the real facts of the case you would find their life to be the real cause, and underlying it all, the usual condition—constipation.

It is for such people as these that the sterling remedy, Becham's Pills, is intended, for they cure constipation in every single case, they have no equal on earth as a gentle laxative, and they give to the system a new vigor, and a new life, bright eyes and continuous good health. A quarter is their price, a golden guarantee.

RACES ARE PLANNED

Three Events With a Half Dozen Entries in Each.

At a meeting of the amusement committee of the St. Louis County Agricultural and Fair association, held in the office of Peachey & Lounsbury last evening, it was decided that a race matinee should be held at the driving park next Saturday afternoon, commencing at 2:30 o'clock. If the matinee proves to be a success, and the management has every reason to believe that it will, probably one or two more like affairs will be held during the date set for the St. Louis county fair.

There will be three events in each, with at least half a dozen entries in each. One will be free-for-all, one the 2:40 class and one for colts. All three will be open to pacers and trotters. There will be no running races. Local prizes will be offered, and local enthusiasts are looking forward to an afternoon of good sport.

No steps looking towards the laying of further plans for the county fair were taken last night, owing to the fact that several of the directors of the association were unable to be in attendance at the meeting, which adjourned to next Monday night, when several matters relative to the holding of the fair will be taken up, and further arrangements for the big event will be made.

Following the meeting, advance tickets and the list of names of the colts booked, good for ten admissions each, for the fair, were distributed.

From now on, those having the fair in charge will work energetically to make it a success.

A considerable repair work has already been done on the fair buildings, and within the next few days $500 will have been expended on them. The track is now in fine shape. For two months past a man and team have been working on it, putting it in the best of condition.

THE SPECIAL TERM.

Nixon Contempt Case Is Before the Court.

The special term of district court today lasted well into the afternoon. At a late hour this afternoon a hearing in the contempt of court proceedings against Richard Nixon, was in progress. Nixon's attorney has asked that the custody of the child, which was taken to the mother, be returned to the father, following the divorce proceedings, now pending in the father and mother's case. The court has refused to grant the father's request, and the child will remain with the mother.

The case of John J. Nixon, who is charged with the murder of his wife, is also being heard. The court has refused to grant the father's request, and the child will remain with the mother.

Myron Mitchell has removed his family from Superior to F. G. Brewer's residence, and will take charge of the property.

ATTEMPTED MURDER FOILED

Young Man at Carlton Tries to Kill His Sister.

Carlton, Minn., July 9.—(Special to The Herald).—On July 4 Emil Hill, a young man of this place, attempted to kill his sister, Miss Ida Hill, who is employed as a waitress at the Carlton hotel.

He was closely examined by County Attorney McClinton, who found that the young man had been in the hotel for some time, and that he had been drinking freely during the day and about 3 o'clock in the afternoon rushed into the hotel with a drawn knife, but fortunately was prevented from attacking his sister by Proprietor Moriarty, who, being attracted by the girl's cries for assistance, rushed in and overpowered him, succeeded in ejecting him from the hotel. He was immediately arrested and brought before Justice Anderson, who sentenced him to ten days in jail and bound him over to the sheriff for $500 to keep the peace for one year.

Mrs. Charles Shaver, who has been seriously ill for some time, is now almost recovered.

Mrs. William Shole, who delivered the oration on American Independence at Moose Lake, July 4th, and was enthusiastically received by the large crowd who attended the celebration at that place.

The case of John J. Nixon, who is charged with the murder of his wife, is also being heard. The court has refused to grant the father's request, and the child will remain with the mother.

RIFTERS HELD

Two Must Answer to Grand Jury for Stevenson Trouble.

Third One Is Discharged—All Now Quiet at Mine.

The preliminary hearing of Matt Germbao, Guerino Liberio and Mike Bonaventura, the three Italians charged with engaging in a riot at the Stevenson mine was held this morning in the municipal court before Judge Windom.

None of the men could speak good English and the witnesses in the case were principally Austrians.

The chief witness was an Austrian named Joe Grellwitz, who appeared in court with his head bound up in a white cloth to hide a wound sustained from rocks thrown during the riot.

He was closely examined by County Attorney McClinton, who found that the young man had been in the hotel for some time, and that he had been drinking freely during the day and about 3 o'clock in the afternoon rushed into the hotel with a drawn knife, but fortunately was prevented from attacking his sister by Proprietor Moriarty, who, being attracted by the girl's cries for assistance, rushed in and overpowered him, succeeded in ejecting him from the hotel. Hottest Fads & Fancies FOR WOMEN

AND PUTS IT UP

DURING THE DAY

BY MISS MANHATTAN.
New York, July 7.

In warm weather more than at any other time does a woman need to give her hair every possible care and attention. In the first place it requires shampooing oftener than in cooler weather, and to offset the effects of frequent washings the roots must be treated scientifically and systematically.

To put oneself in the hands of a good professional is always the best plan, but this is not so easy to do as vacations or to out-of-the-way resorts. At fashionable places the manicure and hair-dresser make their appearance simultaneously with the smart set, but, after all, this gay, fashionable clique does not compose the entire list of summer pleasure-seekers.

For the woman who does not expect to have a maid or a professional shampooer at her beck and call for the next three months, a few valuable hints may not come amiss and may help her to not only keep her hair from getting into a very bad condition, but actually improve its appearance.

Salt-water bathing is always ruinous to woman's crowning glory. This is a trite remark, but there are some women who seem to forget about the bad effects sea water has on their hair. Caps should always be worn if one does any swimming or jumping of breakers and if, by chance, the spray does dampen the edge of the hair then it should be dried immediately upon coming out of the water. If it gets quite wet the only thing to do is to wash it thoroughly in fresh water and dry it, preferably in the sun, or at least in the open air.

There is nothing better for the hair than to give it a delightful rest by letting it down for a short period each day. In this way the hair has a chance to circulate through the roots, which is almost as good as a washing. There is really very little time when the hair is an opportunity to fall loosely as it will. During the day it is always on dress parade, and on hot nights one doesn't feel quite equal to the discomfort of having it cover the neck and shoulders and make one seem hotter than ever. It is advisable to sit in a "reezy spot" when the hair is let down. Sometimes if the hair is kept twisted up in one way or another it has a close and sticky odor which would soon disappear if the fresh air and sun could get at it all over.

If it is necessary to come to town periodically in order to get a regular shampoo, remember that a dry one can be given without the slightest trouble or special knowledge. It is always a good idea to alter the style of hair dressing every few days. This will keep the head from getting overheated in one spot, and it seems to give the hair new life and vigor. A low coiffure should be succeeded by a high one, and then there are different degrees of height, which can be followed with beneficial results to the head as well as the hair.

If the hair is heated, a brushing is apt to pull it and make it come out. For that reason it is a good plan to let the hair down before giving it a shampoo and to run the fingers through the locks gently until they have become well separated and thoroughly dried. Then the brush should be used vigorously and until the hair feels smooth and glossy. It is much harder to make it look shiny in warm weather than in cool, because of the difficulty in drying it.

The real shampoo depends on individual hair, for some require one thing and some another, but, generally speaking, there is nothing safer and better than castile soap, which has just enough oil to keep the hair from getting dry and brittle, a possibility even in summer. Give the scalp a vigorous massage just before the hair is dipped in the water and then, with a brush made for the purpose, rub a tonic into the scalp and at the same time loosen the dandruff with the bristles. The preparation for a shampoo requires more time and skill than the actual washing, but it is this part of it that does the hair good.

Next, it should be given a thorough soaping and washing in warm water, the soap being rubbed on the scalp, as well as through the hair. Four or five rinsings, first with water the same temperature as the first and then with water that is cooler, until the last rinsing is with really cold water. A bath towel or one that sheds the least bit of lint should never be employed in the drying process. Rubbing comes first, then fanning is resorted to, and when the hair begins to feel rather well dried the head should be gently massaged all over with the fingers and palms of the hands.

If these few simple rules or suggestions are carefully regarded during the summer there is no reason why one should come back from a vacation with hair that is less beautiful and luxuriant than it was at the beginning of the season.

It is always hard, of course, to find time to give even a moderate amount of attention to the shampoo, but a few seasons' experience at the seashore has taught most women that a shampoo in time will save a good many more than nine hairs, and no woman wants to part with a single one if she can help it.

One of the prettiest fashions for summer weddings is to have the bridesmaids carry parasols instead of wearing hats.

It's an old style revived, but since the smart set has been responsible for the reintroduction anybody whatsoever may follow the new fad with perfect ease and confidence. To go with the wedding parasol, which at present is almost of more importance than the gown, costumes that are noted for their picturesque appearance are chosen in preference to thoroughly up-to-date twentieth century styles. All sorts of dainty organdies, or rather wash chiffons, are pretty for such occasions, and if the gowns are flowered then the parasols are more effective when made of plain fabric.

Wedding parasols are of moderate size, with rather long handles, on which are fastened flowers, either in single blossoms tied with broad satin ribbons or in bunches, but the single rose, which was introduced by one of the society brides of the season, has charms far exceeding those of bouquet. White bridesmaids' gowns and white parasols with pink roses and ribbons make a stunning combination, and so do pink frocks, parasols to match and large La France roses. Of course, smaller flowers, such as sweet peas, are very dainty and delicate, but they are not half so effective utilized in this manner as larger flowers on account of the stems. It needs long green stalks to lie against the stick of the parasol, otherwise the decoration looks clumsy and "dinky." The parasols are not necessarily raised, on the contrary, they produce the prettiest picture when they are carried after the fashion of La Tosca sticks, in which case it is found more effective to choose very long handled ones.

While on the subject of these dainty summer dress accessories I want to mention the newest fashion in everyday ones. To begin, colors of every hue are seen, except green, which once was the choice of the fashionable woman. Now, however, she has realized that a green parasol invariably gives the tip of her nose a rich emerald hue, and she is no longer satisfied with the effect, or rather she has learned what it is and has abandoned that which was responsible for it.

These parasols are rather smaller than last year's styles and the prettiest are in pink, pale blue, lavender, maize, ponce de tin, and champagne, while occasionally a sight of an all white or an all black serves as a charming relief from the variety of colors. The handles are the ornamental part of the parasol, the most expensive, and consequently the most desired, have the long sticks and knobs entirely encased with jet. This is much handsomer than all black wood which is carved in fantastic shapes of French poodles, cats, birds, monkeys or any animal one happens to like. Jetted sticks are not very heavy and they are not rough to the hands. In the sunlight they give a beautiful sparkling effect that makes one wonder if the next move will not inaugurate a fashion for gem encrusted, brilliant beaded handles. I'm sure it would be prettier and not a bit more absurd than the fad of the Marquis of Anglesier that led him to have his bed jeweled and inlaid with precious metals.

About three-fourths of the umbrellas sold nowadays are provided with straight wooden or pearl and silver trimmed handles. It's as difficult to find a crook in natural wood as to find a badly dressed woman.

In a visit to our largest jeweler the other day I saw some of the most remarkable uses of gems. One thing that struck me particularly was a dear little pair of opera glasses, the foundation of which was a mottled blue metal and the rims of the lenses, as well as the center pivot, were solidly encrusted with diamonds. Between the two telescope tubes there was a spray design which quite concealed the shaft by which the focus is regulated and this was a mass of tiny brilliants. Imagine the gorgeousness of such a pair of opera glasses used under the light of a thousand incandescents. It would be nothing less than dazzling.

Some vinaigrettes were fashioned of opalescent shell, which, either by clever art or nature, had assumed a shape exactly filling the requirements of a bottle. While very irregular the shell curved and grew slender at the base ending in a point. The tops of these vinaigrettes were invariably finished with gold or platinum lids, on which were the most elaborate ornamentations of diamonds and sometimes just on the top would be seen a single large diamond or pearl. These were suspended by means of tiny chains set with the same precious stones. To go with them one had the choice of hundreds of beautiful jeweled brooches, which carried out the pattern of the vinaigrette. The favorite chains, however, are those set fairly close with diamonds cut en quise, which is really diamond shaped, with a rim of platinum to hold them. Pearls do not require a setting, but all cut stones, whether they are cabochon or not, are usually rimmed with platinum, though many women prefer to have the pave ones strung like pearls.

There is a new way to set rings which is pretty and so odd as to be quite worth the copying. Jewelers take a large square sapphire, emerald or ruby and surround it with a double row of very small brilliants set in platinum, so that it looks as though the block of royal blue, rich green or pigeon blood were outlined with two narrow rivers of light. The band of the ring does not show at all, but the sides that hold the stone are wrought in some pretty design, with more tiny diamonds. This setting is somewhat newer than the princess and is totally different in effect from any other that have seen. On top the entire ring is perfectly flat like a plateau.

Women now have a fancy for neckwear that is tall, like, yet soft. All the stocks recently shown have been made to fasten in front, with the opening covered by a small ribbon bow. The stocks are about an inch and a half deep and are put on a band of equal depth, so that it isn't necessary to wear anything under them. If the outside is not slashed, then there are two vertical buttonholes just back of the ends, and through this is run a two-inch taffeta ribbon, preferably in black, which is tied in a small bowknot like a necktie.

The ribbon goes over the two middle slashes, then through and out of the next two, so that any space in the stock that might show between the ends is hidden by the band of ribbon. Other stocks are made with buttonholed slashes at intervals around the entire piece of linen, and the ribbon is crushed up and run in and out of this so that it comes to the front, where a small bow gives a neat finish. Between the slashes where bits of the linen show stars, wheels or any conventional design is embroidered in a cut-out pattern. These stocks cost $1.50 when made by hand, and machine ones can be had for 50 cents apiece. The ribbon comes extra, and you can choose any color you want. The solid comfort to be found in these soft stocks makes them very popular, and it has suggested the idea of converting ordinary straight turnovers into little collars worn with ribbon ties slipped underneath and tied in a knot. If the band on which these turnovers are put is wide enough there is no trouble at all in reversing the order in which they were originally intended to go. The tie isn't always necessary, either, for many women fasten the turnovers in the back to the neckbands of their shirtwaists with two small cuff pins.

There is no more important adjunct of the summer costume than these same little pins. Every collar seems to need something of the sort to keep it in its proper place, and there are dozens of ways in which they can be made useful in closing blouses and holding bells in order. Plain gold pins are the best, long as the simpler designs they serve their purpose well enough to be looked upon in the light of a good investment. It is almost like heresy to hint that bags are going out of style. Besides, it would not be true, but there are some women who positively refuse to carry small satchels for their money, and yet they don't like to be burdened with an ordinary purse. For such as these a new edition of the favorite finger purse has been devised, and it is already a great success. Fingkin, in which finger purses always came, soon began to look dirty after it was carried, but the new patent leather purses—which, by the way, are a little broader than the old ones—are both convenient and good looking. The strap across the back is of the same shiny leather, and the snap on the flap is black enamel, so that the whole is daintier than the old ones. There is this difference between the new and the old: The latter had merely a flap of leather, which was held down by the strap through which the fingers were slipped, but the new ones have the strap across the back, and the front is closed with a snap.

Artistic Window Coverings.

The art of covering windows so as to produce really delightful effects in the days of scorching sunshine has become a complicated one. Blinds, of course, we have always with us, but there are other hangings which the truly artistic prefer either in connection with the blinds or as a sole means of keeping out the hot air and draping those important features of the up-to-date mansion, the windows. Lace curtains of the famous Scotch net, Brussels lace and the real lace Marie Antoinette curtains are now in vogue in the country houses of London, which really fix the American fashions along these lines. For, curiously enough, while the wealthy American buys garments fashioned after the ideas of the French shops, he furnishes his home along British ideas only. No touch of the French chateau or country box is visible either in English or American country homes.

The "Androsian" Scotch net curtains are the cheapest grade of so-called lace window coverings which can be gotten, and these are bargain quotations, as prices begin at about $1.00 the pair, and the result is very pleasing. For Americans this price would be about $4.00 per pair, thanks to freight rates, packing, middlemen profits and, above all, the tariff on these goods. In England the swiftest country houses have now in every instance both the inside and outside blind. The first is made of embroidered Holland, costing about $3.00 the blind. The outside blind is a good stiff quality of Holland, but without embroidery. The inside blind must match the color scheme of the house, and being just inside the window glass, it must be able to stand the summer sun without bleaching or fading in the least. The interior blind of embroidered Holland is set to match the color scheme and finish of each particular room. Thus the outside blind carries out the exterior design of the whole mansion and they must be all alike, while the interior blind is meant only to blend with the decorations and color tones of an individual room. These blinds are indispensable in country homes of the swifter sort, and have now made themselves secure in aristocratic homes throughout the United States.

London's Most Beautiful Costume.

Nothing is so hard to create as a really appropriate costume with any approach to novelty in it as a gown that exactly suits the requirements for a garden party, concert or other afternoon function. Here is one recently observed in the Princess Park, London, that serves the purpose admirably. It is made of tulle, Regence, of a charming tint of bluish dove gray, which gives a background of soberness that acts as a set-off to the marvelous luxuriance of the trimming and detail. Make such a skirt absolutely long, full and sweeping as to the train, and there is a slight fullness at the waist made in half indicated plaits, which should on no account be stitched.

In front diagonal openings fastened in silk of the same color should reveal the underskirt of the same silk drawn perfectly tight. A bodice after the Louis XV. bodice slopes into the long point of the Bourbon style court costume, which was borrowed from the Austrians. This bodice is draped toward the left, and in the instance referred to in London was caught by real diamond buttons, but cut-glass will look almost as well and cost very little. The bodice is cut low around the bust line and dove gray chiffon covers the shoulders and goes up high on the throat, trimmed with lace insertion and bunched at the collar and chin with lace insertion.

In front two handkerchief points of white guipure are caught to the right side with a band of pale turquoise velvet. The elbow sleeves are pure Louis XV. and are finished off with wide engorgantees falling over long gloves of the palest blue suede. The broad straw hat is of a palest blue fine-braided straw, while it is trimmed only with a gray blue heron with sweeping tall feathers. The costume would be seen on a dark-haired one, tall and with blue eyes and milk-white skin. The requirements are admittedly difficult, but the result apparently could not be surpassed by mere mortal ingenuity and good looks.

PARKER THE MAN--A CLOSE-RANGE PERSONAL STUDY

Human Side of the Democratic Candidate for President--A Strong, Simple, Practical and in Every Sense American--Grave Dignity Which Suggests Immense Power--His Method of Work and Play--His Farm Life at Esopus--Worth About $30,000.

Early in April, when the country was calling for information about Chief Judge Alton Brooks Parker, to whom millions of Democrats were turning for safe leadership in the struggle for control of the nation, James Creelman visited Albany, where the court of appeals in which he presides, was then in session, and wrote for the New York Herald a personal study of the man. Now that Judge Parker has been selected by the Democratic national convention as the party's candidate for president, this presentation of the human side of the most-talked-about man in the public eye today becomes doubly interesting. Here is what Mr. Creelman said regarding Judge Parker:

HAS NOT AN ENEMY.
Even in this center of political and legislative intrigue, where the weaknesses and selfish ambitions of public men are soon searched out, this strong, brave, modest man has not an enemy. At the top of the Albany hill he sits, black-robed, on the bench. At the foot of it is the law office from which David B. Hill is directing the campaign to make him president of the United States. Yet men of all parties including his associates on the bench, bear witness that Judge Parker, in the face of exceptional flattery and against the pressure of a thousand influences, has maintained the highest traditions of his great judicial office by his consistent aloofness from politics, his simple, unpretending dignity and his devotion to his public duties.

It is not that he is colorless or without ambition. There is no more warm-blooded or aggressive man in the country, and he is known to be deeply attached to his party. His silence is the result of self-discipline and a conception of judicial propriety which nothing can shake. It is not a political posture, but a deliberate line of conduct which he has followed for 19 years.

The kindly looks turned upon him in the streets, the deference paid to him wherever he moves, without respect to party, the frank admiration expressed when his name comes up in private conversation in this cynical and spiteful neighborhood, show how fully his sincerity, breadth of mind and modest independence have impressed themselves upon those who have him under daily scrutiny.

A MAN OF GIANT STRENGTH.
Judge Parker is six feet tall and a man of giant strength. His shoulders are broad and chest deep. His muscles, developed by hard work on the farm and by daily horseback riding, are the muscles of an athlete. He shows perfectly, as a man should, from his shoulders to his feet, and in spite of his nearly 52 years and his weight of 165 pounds his step is as light as a boy's and he can vault into the saddle with ease.

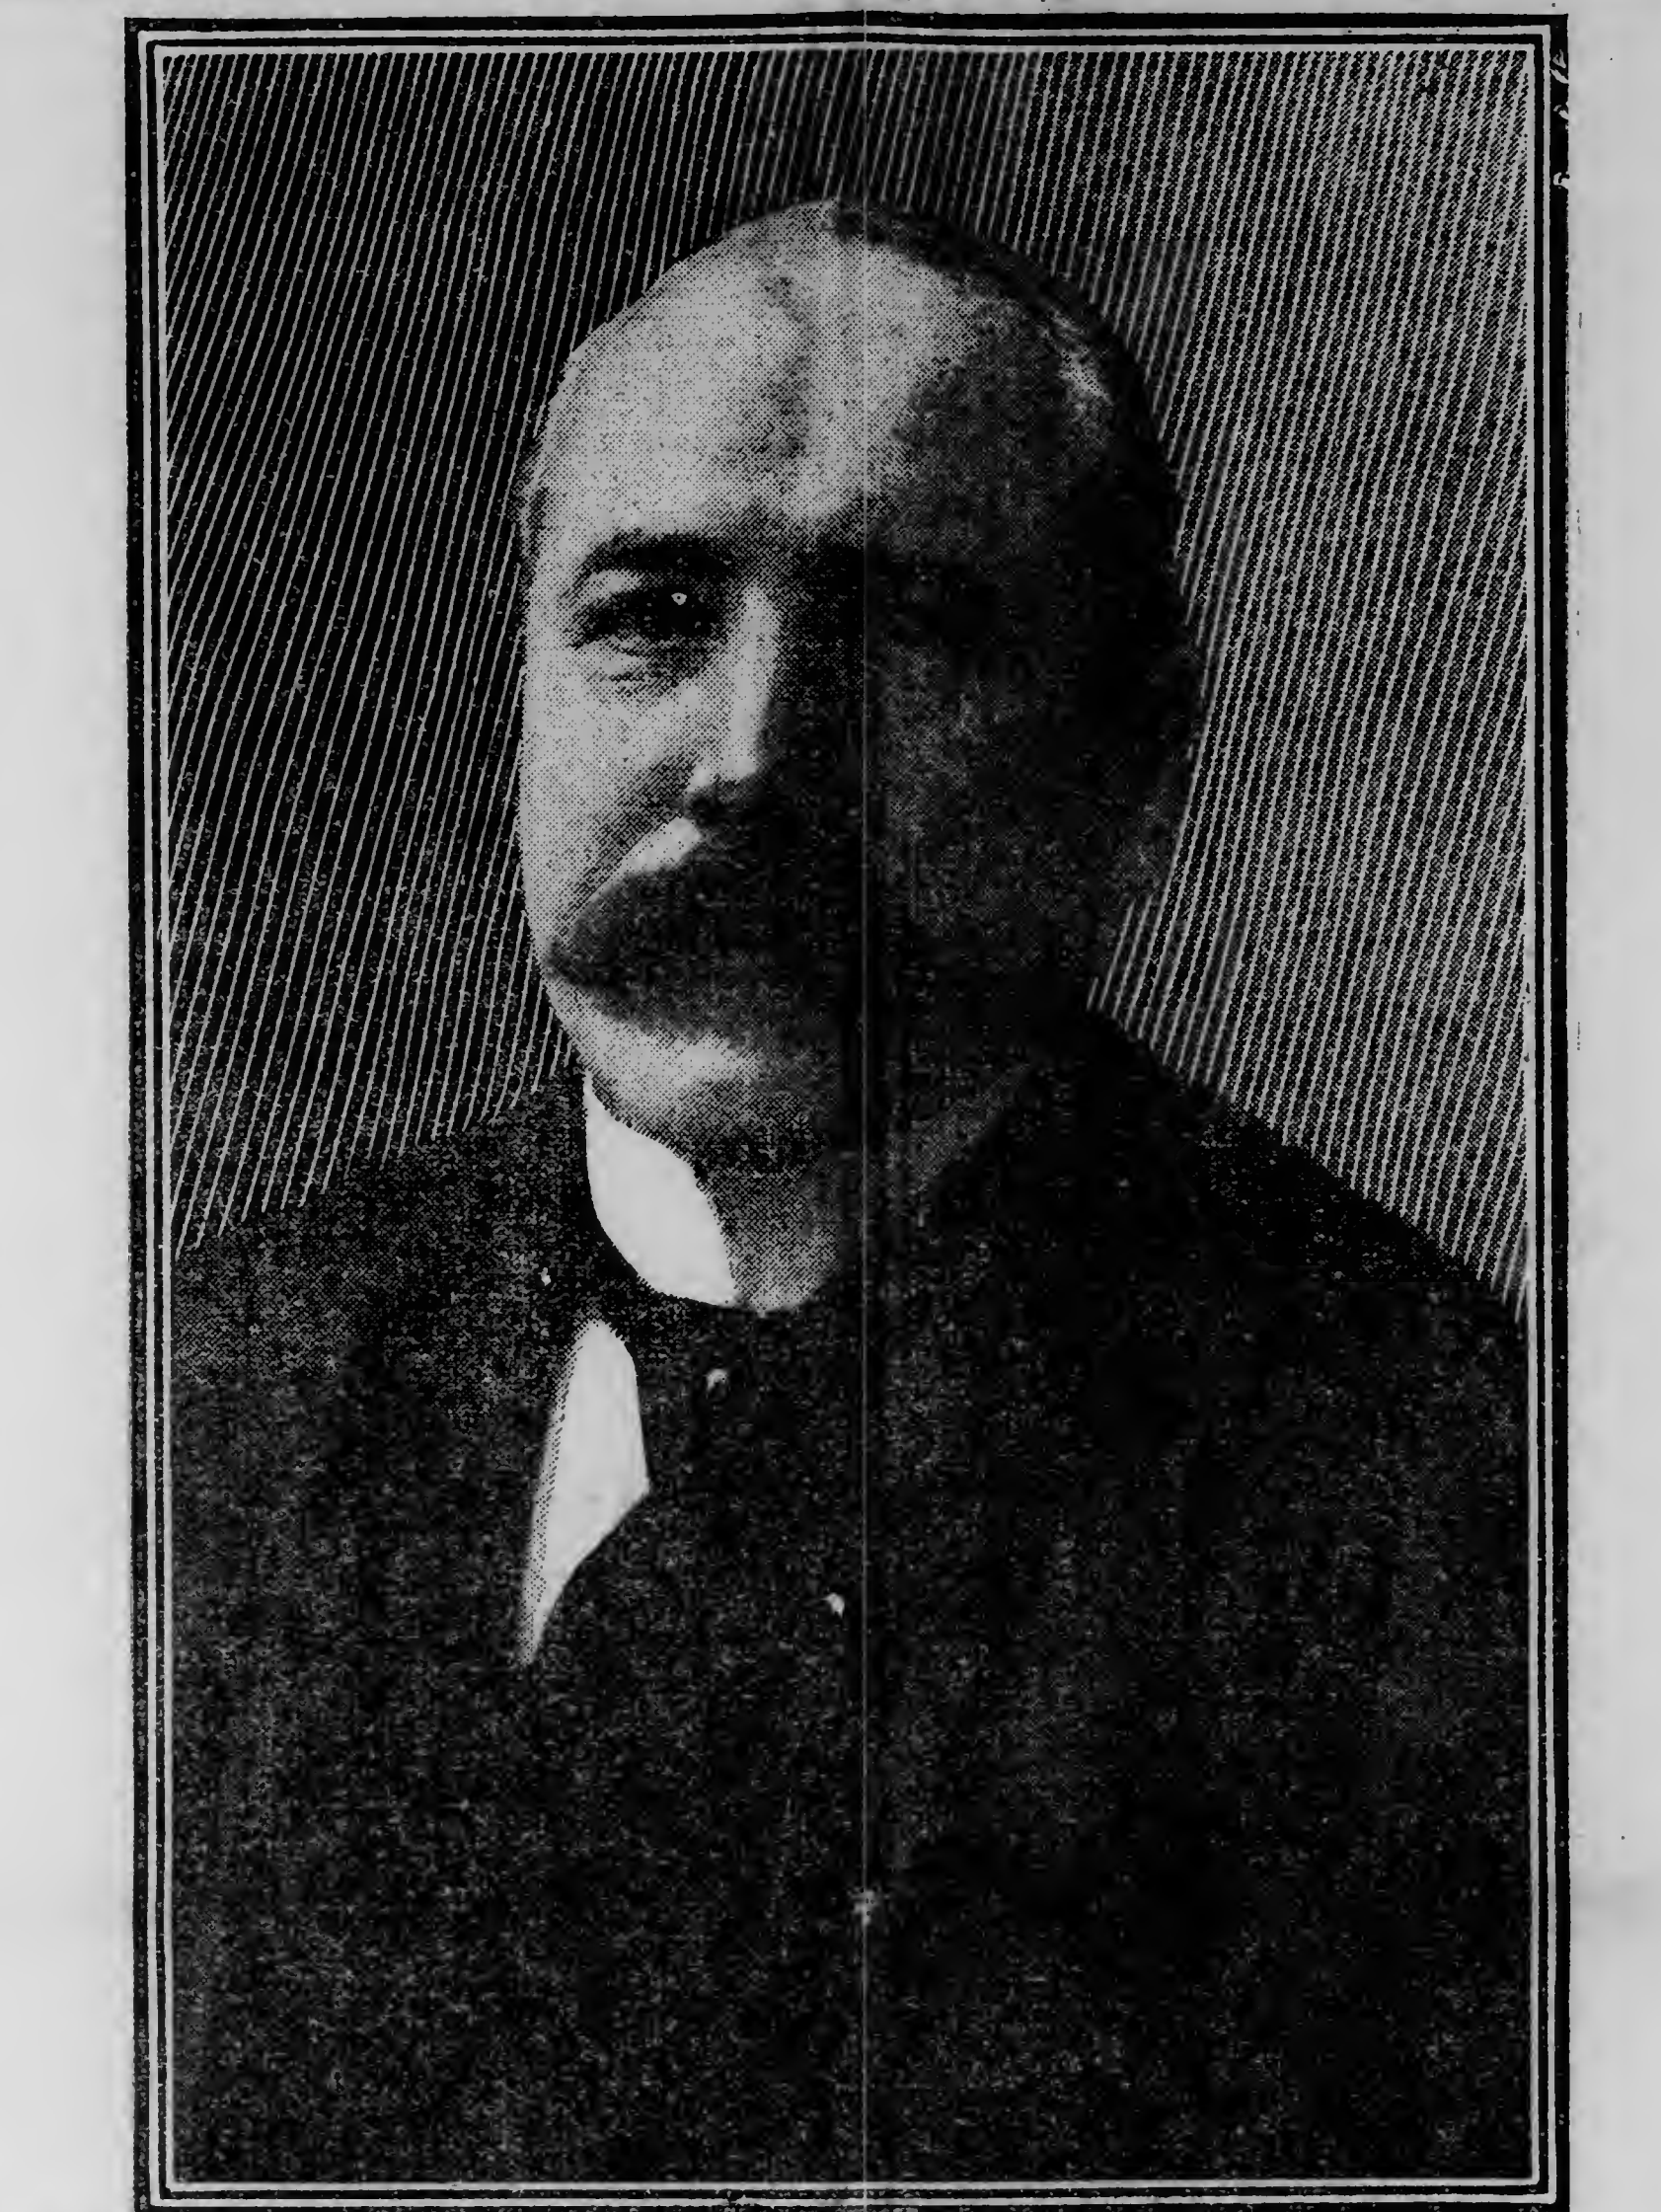

His face is that of a country-bred man, strong and alert. His eyes are large and of an agreeable brown; his nose is straight and his mouth is a firm, pleasant line. He has a powerful jaw and outward thrust that suggest tremendous will power. The mouth is large and masculine, with a thick lower lip. The upper teeth are big, flat and white. The lower teeth are smaller. The coarse, tawny mustache grows well with the brilliant brown eyes and the reddish brown hair.

The judge's nose is aquiline. He has high cheek bones, but the characteristic is not marked. His high, broad forehead slopes back without a bump. It is a singularly symmetrical brow, showing penetration, observation, ambition and energy. The head is not large, and is somewhat straight, so that it does not balance with the great jaw and the lightning collar and the muscles.

NOVEMBER IN THE FACE OR HEAD IS THERE A SUGGESTION OF CHARTER ANCHOR THERE ANYTHING SIDEWIND OR SLIP IN THE EYES. THEY LOOK AT YOU STRAIGHT, THE PRACTICAL AND LOGICAL DOMINATE THE IMAGINATIVE QUALITIES--IMPULSE IS A SLAVE TO WILL. The lack of wrinkles between the eyebrows and the smooth forehead indicates a man who can concentrate his mind without the great effort which contracts the facial muscles.

Judge Parker dresses well and always in dark colors. When in his ordinary attire is a cutaway coat of rough gray cloth and gray trousers. He wears a sturdy collar and a simple black cravat held by a small pearl. Few men are more decorous or careful in their dress. He has a passion for work and his many pressing duties, he usually dresses three times a day for riding, for business and for dinner. And his clothes fit him school in a country school house and established his authority by thrashing the school bully. Then he taught school at Binghamton. Presently he was a teacher at Accord, in Ulster county, at $3 a day. He intended to go to Cornell university, and was saving money for that purpose, but his father's death cut off his income. He came to Kingston, and entered the law office of Schoonmaker & Hardenbergh. He soon became a partner, and was elected to the Albany law school, and upon graduating, he returned to Kingston, where he was elected to the bench. Within a few months he took a partner, named Kenyon, and opened a law office at Kingston.

For twelve years the young lawyer practiced and won several important cases. During that time he was quite free from the control or influence of large corporations. In 1877 he was elected surrogate of Ulster county, and was afterward elected for a second term. That was his experience of public office.

His entrance into politics was due simply to his love for his old employer, Judge Schoonmaker, who had been driven out of politics. He believed that the judge had been wronged, and set out to restore him to popular favor. So earnest was his campaign that he soon became a recognized political factor in Ulster county, being a favorite of Mr. Tilden and Mr. Manning, who trusted and consulted him. In 1885 he was induced to become chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, and in the campaign which he managed David B. Hill was elected governor. Mr. Hill appointed him to seat on the supreme court bench when Justice Westbrook died.

ON SUPREME COURT BENCH AT THIRTY-THREE.
When Judge Parker was 33 years old he was unanimously nominated for the supreme court bench by the Democrats. The Republicans would not nominate an opponent. Not a vote was cast against him. He served on the supreme court bench until his election as chief judge of the court of appeals in 1887, by a plurality of about 60,000 votes.

DURING HIS NINETEEN YEARS ON THE BENCH HE HAS IGNORED POLITICS. IN 1898 AND 1900 HE VOTED FOR MR. BRYAN, BUT IT WAS WELL UNDERSTOOD THAT HE WAS A SOUND-MONEY MAN, AND MERELY ACCEPTED THE WILL OF THE MAJORITY OF HIS PARTY.
Judge Parker's wife was Miss Schoonmaker, of Accord, a woman of rare refinement and good Dutch revolutionary blood. Their daughter married the Rev. Charles M. Hale, rector of an Episcopal church at Kingston, which is within easy driving distance of Esopus. The judge's son died two years ago.

It is on the farm at Esopus that Judge Parker's personality has full scope. Here he wears his most important judicial opinions. Here, too, he works in his fields, prunes his trees and cares for his thirty registered red poll cattle, his full-blooded Poland

China pigs and fine flock of Shropshire sheep.
Rosemont, for so the farm is called, is a beautiful place, all up and down hill, fronting the Hudson and extending for miles in the distance. It is a Dutch house, built by the great-grandfather of the judge, and is one of the most beautiful of its kind in the country. The judge usually drinks water with his dinner, save when he has guests, and then Mrs. Parker sets forth wine. He occasionally takes a whisky high ball with his meal. Altogether he is a strong abstemious man. He smokes after dinner, but never before.

SLEEPS ONLY SIX TO SEVEN HOURS.
Notwithstanding the early hour at which he rises and the steady vigor with which he works, Judge Parker does not retire before 11 o'clock or midnight. He sleeps soundly and is up again, clear-eyed and smiling, at 5:30 o'clock. He averages less than seven hours in bed.

To understand the judge's business capacity and his judgment in dealing with difficult situations, it is necessary to know how he saved the Ulster County Savings Institution in September, 1891, this important bank, which had deposits of $2,500,000, closed its doors in consequence of mismanagement by the treasurer and assistant treasurer of sums, which, with the dividends due, amounted to $1,500,000. This wiped out the supposed surplus and left the institution with a deficit of $1,000,000. The usual action was taken by the attorney general to wind up the business and distribute the assets and a temporary receiver was appointed.

LIKES MAGAZINES AND NOVELS.
He is a confirmed magazine reader, delighting in such periodicals as Harper's and the Outlook. He seldom reads poetry, but is fond of good novels. Mrs. Parker is always on the alert for a good new story for her hard-working husband. But his natural taste is for Dickens, Thackeray and Scott. He delights in the vigorous and out-of-door atmosphere of "The Scottish Chiefs." Jefferson is his favorite political writer. Any book or article on agriculture or cattle breeding is sure to interest him.

His daughter, Mrs. Hale, is an accomplished musician and used to sing in a choir at Kingston. The judge took her to Germany to study music, but Mrs. Parker's health failed suddenly and her daughter insisted on returning to the United States. Mrs. Hale plays the piano for her father and occasionally sings. His musical tastes are very simple and classical compositions are apt to bore him.

After he has spent a morning working on his judicial opinions--hours of grave concentration, when no one is permitted to interrupt his quiet--and when he is waiting for lunch, his secretary, Arthur Macdonald, will at his sweet tone voice, sing the old-fashioned ballads or hymns, "I Feel Just as Young as I Used to Be," "Only an Armor Bearer," "Hold the Fort," and so on.

It is all very simple and natural in that home. And hospitality is the first law. Indeed, the judge carries hospitality to an extreme. All his neighbors are his friends. When he sits at the head of the long mahogany dining table with his wife, mother, brother, daughter-in-law and grandchildren, with one or two guests, and perhaps, a neighbor visitor, he is the life of the scene, gentle, dignified, helping the conversation, but never forcing it--a rare gift in a man of strong mentality.

A DAY WITH JUDGE PARKER.
It seems a small thing to write about a man's private habits, yet they throw some light upon his character, and, in the case of this farmer chief judge, who has shrunk so long from public notice, a description of his ordinary day is suggestive of his type. Nothing in the life of a candidate for president is unimportant.

He rises usually at 6:30 o'clock in the morning, takes his cold shower, shaves and dresses himself in thirty minutes. His riding dress is a brown corduroy jacket and breeches, cloth cap and leather leggings. After taking a cup of coffee without sugar he is ready for his ride.

Then he mounts his big bay saddle-horse and rides at a hard trot for an hour over the country roads. The whole region is full of historical interest and the judge knows every house and story. Now and then an early-rising farmer sees him riding at a full gallop, talking to his horse and sometimes throwing up his arms in sheer excess of animal spirits.

After his daily ride, which he takes whether in Albany or at Esopus, regardless of the season, he dresses for business and eats a hearty breakfast, usually of fruit, oatmeal porridge, beef-steak or sausage or bacon and eggs, with buckwheat cakes, maple syrup, hot corn bread and two cups of coffee. When breakfast is over he goes to court for consultation, if he is in Albany, or works on his opinions, if he is at Esopus.

His ordinary lunch consists of thin soup, tea without milk or sugar, fruit and custard or pumpkin pie. Then he goes to court and sits on the bench until 6 o'clock, or, if he is on the farm, he divides his time between his cattle, crops and judicial writing. He always puts on evening dress for dinner. That meal is generally made up of soup and roast beef, with lamb or mutton--principally of his own killing--followed by a salad and fruit or pie. His one allowance is "buttermilk pie."

After dinner he takes a leisurely walk, which he enjoys, but seldom serves when he is present. The judge usually drinks water with his dinner, save when he has guests, and then Mrs. Parker sets forth wine. He occasionally takes a whisky high ball with his meal. Altogether he is a strong abstemious man. He smokes after dinner, but never before.

When he sits at the head of the long mahogany dining table with his wife, mother, brother, daughter-in-law and grandchildren, with one or two guests, and per-enjoyed the depositors from drawing out more than 25 per cent of their deposits till further judicial orders were made. And now a tremendous excitement was stirred up in consequence of local political disturbances. The leading newspaper of Ulster county, to embarrass the bank and thus injure some of the official trustees, advised the depositors to draw out their allowable 25 per cent as soon as the bank's doors opened, as it would probably be all they would ever get.

A frantic crowd of depositors stormed the bank. The "run" meant ruin. But when the doors opened there was Judge Parker, with a bag of money which he had obtained in New York. He was determined to prevent a panic. Leaping on the treasurer's desk, with flashing eyes and the white-faced, excited crowd, and flinging a roll of money down, he cried: "Come on! We are ready to pay. Come on! Do you think we would waste our time on a broken bank?"

Instantly the panic ceased. Judge Parker had saved the day. The depositors departed, and only 11 per cent of them drew out their money. That saved the Ulster County Savings Institution, which has since worked out of its difficulties. The general term of the supreme court and the court of appeals both sustained Judge Parker's novel plan as sound in law. The judge never rested till the thieves' treasurer and assistant treasurer were sent to the state prison, where they both died.

After a while Judge Parker was asked to become president of the bank. He declined, but he would only accept the position on condition that the salary should be abolished. This was agreed to, and he was elected president. He did not retire until the depositors of the bank were several hundred thousand dollars greater than they were before its doors were closed.

The rescue of this savings bank and its depositors is the achievement of which Judge Parker is proudest. It is the most stirring incident of his private life.

ACCIDENTS PURCHASE SAFETY.
Safety in railroad traveling is only to be purchased at the price of much tragic experience. From every serious fatal accident a reason may be learned which would make it possible for the same accident to occur again, says the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean. Many cases will be recalled of accidents of the same nature occurring from the same causes. Railroad accidents, which repeat former disasters can only be the result of carelessness, neglect to improve the rules or faulty equipment, despite experience.

A review of the accidents of the last decade makes it possible to lay down a definite philosophy of railroad accidents. From the hundreds of accidents, costing many thousands of lives and the loss of millions in property, it is possible to learn, at least, to build a railroad, equip it with rolling stock and install a system of transportation which will render life and property safe. Accidents, of course, will always happen on the best regulated roads, but it is never the less true that most of them are avoidable.

In several recent accidents attention has been recalled to the danger which most travelers are in when in the sleeping or passenger coaches. By far the greatest number of lives lost in railroad accidents are due to this. In a recent accident in Western Pennsylvania most of the deaths were due to the telescoping of a single car, while the horror was increased by the wreckage catching fire. In one west of Toledo it was telescoping. And every accident this problem of building substantial cars is discussed. The fact is, of course, that the most violent collisions are the parlor and special coaches rarely, if ever, collapse.

Judge Parker was on his farm at Accord when he got a hint that there was something wrong. He left his fields, hurried to Kingston, made a quick investigation and had the assistant treasurer lodged in jail that night.

To save the depositors from loss Judge Parker took the leadership. He tried to get some strong institution like an insurance company to take an assignment of the mortgages, with some local bank as discount agent. No institution willing to take the assignment could be found. It looked as if the mortgages would have to be foreclosed to pay the debt, which meant a destruction of values and little for the depositors who were in a state of terror and confusion.

Judge Parker began to look about for an honorable and wise way to save the institution and its depositors. He got a number of the old trustees to assist him.

His scheme was a new one in New York state. The idea was to ask the equity court to substitute in place of the temporary receiver twenty-five prominent citizens to act as trustees. The judge worked day and night, urging the strongest men in the county to his aid in saving the bank. He got presidents and cashiers of banks and other business men enlisted. Everything else was thrown aside until the twenty-five trustees were secured.

Fortunately the institution Charles M. Preston, the state superintendent of banking, who lived at Kingston, gave Judge Parker's bold plan his official support. The legal battle was before Justice Pearsman, in the special term of the supreme court, at Troy. It resulted in a decree substituting the twenty-five trustees for the temporary receiver, and scaling down the amount due to each depositor to his pro rata share of the assets. The court also

An Artistic Ensemble.

There is an air of modish smartness in this street costume, which is due to the harmony of the different items. The gown which was part of the exhibit of the International Society of Dress-makers, and to whom courtesy for the reproduction is due, is in Havana brown velvet with trailing lace appliques, touched up with Empire green, the same tint furnishing the foundation silk and showing faintly through the meshes of the veil. The hat, a black crinoline straw which tones well with the brown of the broad brim, lifted in the Gainsborough manner on the left side. Long black ostrich plumes are posed around the crown and under the brim, where they rest on the hair. The extremely stylish fichu is in a very faint biscuit tint, which tones well with the brown of the gown; the inner portion is in ruffled tulle and the border in ruffled silk, coo feathers and chiffon plaiting, long streamers of velvet ribbon making a smart finish at the front. The parasol is in the same tint.

Sortie de Bal.

This quaint and old-fashioned hood is cleverly combined with a hint of a shoulder cape, to which long stole ends are applied in the front. There is a chiffon foundation to the hood, the outer part shirred and ruched all around the portion which comes next the face, and the "curtain" hanging cape fashion over the shoulders. The long ends are in chiffon shirred at intervals, and the point d'esprit silk net is edged with a chiffon ruche.

Set of Hat, Boa and Muff En Suite.

The liking for matched sets is one of the newest features of the current fashions. In the illustration the hat is made of pleated tulle, mounted upon a wire frame having a bell crown and smartly upturned brim. A huge black polonaise in black velvet, centered with a jet buckle, is posed on the face of the left side, and loops and ends of the same ribbon hang at the back. Sprays completing the garniture. Both boa and muff are fashioned upon a silk foundation, and the liberty noisette lace is shirred with alternate satin and velvet tiny ribbons, the long stole ends of the boa being repeated at each side of the muff. This is a set which will readily lend itself to any costume, for the touch of black is just as piquantly modish as it ever was.

Draped With a Lace Mantilla.

There is rather more than a hint of the romantic possibilities of the Spanish mantilla, timed in song and story, in the disposition of the lace upon this picture hat. The large floppy frame is in pure white crinoline straw, and over this the scarf is deftly draped, the patterned edge hanging in certain fashion all around the face. The long ends are brought around from the back and coquettishly knotted in front, while a spray of bluish pink roses with velvet foliage on the hat is repeated on the long scarf where it knots on the shoulder.

All Black With Tea Roses.

Here one of the plateau shapes is mounted upon a velvet-covered bandeau and dented becomingly in front, so that the brim curves gracefully over the face. A large, splashing bow of black velvet ribbon is projected over the crown, and beneath the brim a paradise plume falls toward the back. The hat is in the same tint as the scarf, on each side of the front, and lend the only color relief to the otherwise all black hat.

A Fascinating Set.

For garden party or fete champetre this quaint set of hat, parasol and fichu, all fashioned in suite, will be delightfully pretty. The hat is an adaptation of the poke bonnet which we have been hearing so much about, but seldom see. Made altogether of shirred chiffon, both crown and inner brim are encircled with a wreath of tiny buttons and forget-me-nots, and the long white satin strings are brought around and tied demurely under the chin. The fichu of supple white satin and lace has a thick garniture of the small flowers, and long lace-cloved sash ends tie in front. The parasol is likewise of chiffon and lace, mounted over white satin, and sprays of the flowers are artistically disposed over the canopy portion. The long handle is in natural boxwood.

Home-made Floor Stain.

For the economical housewife who wishes to darken floor floors innocent of any coloring a good and very cheap staining can be gotten by buying five cents' worth of permanganate of potash which, when mixed with two quarts of water, will stain a floor nicely. The cost of coloring a room need not be over two or three cents aside from the labor of applying the permanganate to the wood. Be sure and wash your floor carefully and then allow it to dry thoroughly. If you want a darker color than results from the first coat of staining, let it dry well and repeat the operation. This staining will take a splendid polish from beeswax and turpentine or hard oil can be used, but the home-made staining and its beeswax and turpentine can be made more effective by almost nothing aside from the extra trouble of preparing the articles.

are always more or less pretty. This year any woman with a little taste may trim her own chapeau successfully. All that is necessary is a becoming shape. She may select flowers to be arranged as advantageously as possible. Nine hats out of ten have no other trimming than flowers, and surely nothing could be prettier. Half the well-dressed Parisiennes trim their headgear themselves. This is why we meet with such an infinite variety of hats on the street. If all were intrusted to the artists there would be a great monotony. As it is, every woman is her own milliner, and we are treated to a great and agreeable diversity.

Feathers, in spite of the existing summer mists and humidity, are very much used. A large shaped picture hat of fine white straw is trimmed with shaded violet ribbon and a long plume in the palest tint brought from the back of the crown and artistically drooping over the brim at the side. Another hat of the Louis XVI. order is rather large and of black straw. It is wreathed with pink roses. These are veiled with a chintilly scarf which knots at the back. In a hat of black chintilly lace the entire crown is composed of small roses. At the side roses and foliage mingle.

The enormous roses which made their appearance a fortnight or so ago have changed into the flat variety, which are much prettier and more becoming. Now, one big rose with a little foliage is sufficient decoration for any chapeau. The hats this season are, unfortunately, very heavy, made so from the quantities of flowers employed. Then, the straws are by no means light, so that, together with the garniture, the woman who escapes headache after wearing one an hour will be difficult to find.

Some of the best hats in straw are colored over the face, while the top of the brim is white, and vice versa. Soft straws are no longer in vogue, but those presenting a hard, stiff surface. This effect is very trying against the face, and the woman who shuns this must adopt the lace or embroidered chapeau. These are dainty and most becoming to young faces, but the woman whose visage shows that she has passed middle life had better leave the capeline alone. The hats this season are undeniably pretty, but they are pre-eminently for young women. However, the well-dressed woman understands her business, and after giving the matter long thought (as such care is a duty she owes herself as well as others) decides which will suit her style best. In the picture hat there is more opportunity for adaptation to individual becomingness than in almost any other shape. It lends itself agreeably to the lace drapery that is so prominent a feature of the new modes, and to the youthful face is generally becoming. Button roses are closely massed against the sides of the crown of these hats and also over the bandeau.

Picturesque in the extreme is a director hat made of black chintilly lace associated with cream white lace. Black velvet ribbon and a cut steel buckle are the only trimming. The black lace covers the low crown and also the wide brim. On the brim it is draped in veil fashion, with a curtain effect at the back. Wide black velvet ribbon encircles the crown and is tied in a bow with long loops and ends that fall over the lace at the back. The buckle is placed in front against the crown, the ribbon velvet being passed through in soft folds.

Veils are fashionable, particularly lace veils of fine mesh chintilly is much used, also d'esprit and thread laced, by those who have family heirlooms. The object of the veil appears to be to serve as a decoration to the hat rather than as a face protector. Indeed, all the picture hats have veils, which are deftly and coquettishly manipulated.

For the warm days, when the veil over the face is likely to prove oppressive, the veil is draped in just the same style as though it is to be worn down all around, and then the front is thrown back over the crown of the hat, while the back hangs down in curtain fashion, thus conforming to the latest style. The chenille-dotted veils are shown with a tape border, this latter sometimes in contrasting color, which affords an added firmness to the selvage.

When flowers are the fashion the hats

edge. Deep founces of knife-plaited lace or chiffon all the sleeve opening and peep from beneath the lace border below. An elaborate carriage wrap for an afternoon drive is rather long, made of string-colored lousine and plaited chiffon of the same new tint, and is voluminous in shape and trimmed in tiers of twice fringe.

For summer costumes there is nothing that will rival the little bolero or eton in the shape of a serviceable wrap. And so many pretty fancies can be adapted to it. Below yokes the fronts and backs hang in accordion plaits, side plaits and box plaits or in no plaits at all, but with all sorts and conditions of points and scallops and waved lines. With girlish figures, the little coat, as a rule, reaches only to the upper edge of high girdles. With matronly figures a waist and length is preferred.

For dress occasions there are seen at the largely attended dances of the leading hotels no end of variations on the little Louis XVI. wraps, and all are made as airy and frivolous as possible with frills and plaits, ruffles and puffings. For these small accessories thin silks in pretty shades are being very much used.

For shoulder "throws," lace scarfs and fichus are lined with chiffon and mouseline de soie platings. Women who have to study expense are making the inexpensive little liberty silk flat ruffs found at the neckwear counter presentable and becoming by topping them with little fancy collars of lace or embroidery. As much in evidence as ever is the greatly favored feather boa. Nowadays it is long and flat, and tends to give a broad look across the shoulder. The marbou is very soft, but is only suitable for evening wear. One would think that, after so many years, the boa would take a much-needed rest; but since it is graduated into the stole it has taken a firmer hold than ever, and the chances are that it will last through a good many seasons. Other tones come and go, but the stole in black and white outlasts them all. There are hosts of possibilities in little shoulder wraps which may be produced at moderate cost.

A pretty little affair made of a softly lined silk dotted gauze net is a dainty convenience for cool evenings on the veranda and other occasions. The net is shirred at the top and bottom of the cape, which extends half way to the elbow, and the full shirred tabs fall from the throat to the knees. The entire edge is finished with a double ruffling of the same net, which is shirred also.

The first warm spell has brought out capricious little wraps in great variety and they are made of every material which is modish. With elaborate costumes of silk or wool (of course very light weight) the fancy little bolero is the leader. It also agrees the smart linen suits so much in evidence in this year's warm weather wardrobe. This diminutive garment is abbreviated or amplified to suit all figures, its lines knowing no restrictions. The bolero, in fact, of this day of grace, runs the gamut of the once popular zouave and Eton and encroaches on the domain of the blouse, in name at least. Then there are all sorts of plays on cape and pelerine effects, so after a connoisseur has taken the second look at many of the most fashionable wraps she is still uncertain whether the sleeve is a sleeve in fact or in appearance only.

No daintier attire for a young girl, or, for that matter, for the pretty matron, was ever invented than the flowing sleeve bolero, with its dainty lingerie blouse and under-sleeve. Accompanied by trig fixings, wide, crushed girdle and becoming hats, many such gowns are every whit as attractive as the canvases the artists display.

A stunning little bolero of changeable blue taffeta is trimmed with a galloon which mingles blue, black and gold. The shoulders are very low. The flowing sleeve falls over the lingerie sleeve frills of the blouse. Brass buttons and black cord trim the front. The same buttons also finish the sleeves and the deep suede girdle.

A pretty Parisian idea, and fascinatingly attractive, is the combination of the shoulder wrap, picture hat and parasol to match. This thought can be charmingly carried out this season at the many elaborate affairs held at the leading fashionable resorts where garden parties and other appropriate occasions afford the display of magnificent attire, particularly of the important accessories which are essential in completing the toilette. Strikingly beautiful was a set combining hat, parasol and fichu. The hat was designed in the new poke bonnet shape and made entirely of shirred white chintilly.

Within the edge of the inner brim, also on the crown, were gracefully arranged wreaths of tiny button roses and forget-me-nots. Long, white satin strings, brought around from the back of the bonnet and tied loosely under the chin, add a quaint touch. The fichu has a double ruffle of the super white satin, which continues in two long sash ends at the front. The ruffles are edged entirely with a dainty accordion-plaited Valenciennes lace, which idea is continued upon the ruffle of the parasol. Both fichu and parasol are strewn with sprays of the small flowers. The long sash ends are carelessly, though artistically, tied below the bust and extended just to the knees. The same materials are employed in the parasol, the handle being in the natural wood and straight.

The hats that accompany these beautiful pelerines of chiffon lace and flowers are great Gainsboroughs, trimmed with birds of Paradise and exquisite drooping sprays of flowers, or with graceful plumes that seem a very part of the picture hats.

At a big garden party held recently in London's social circles many of the hats worn were enormous. They may suit the taste of the English woman, but are extraordinary, nevertheless. True, the general effect is good; and, after all, that is the only test of a chapeau. The Louis XVI. which is so very broad across the face, has been a little foliage, is all that some of the hats are garnished with. The shepherds' hats are much worn, but it takes a severely become ensemble to set off the shepherdess to advantage. No doubt these hats will suit the women who will wear them, for the English certainly have a peculiar style. After a while one becomes accustomed to their loose way of dressing, but it causes rather a shock at first.

When flowers are the fashion the hats

By Our Special Correspondent.

MIHAM SPIER.

Shoulder folds occupy a large place in the fashionable woman's toilet this summer. They are of all shapes, including such time-honored styles as the mantilla, dolman, shawl, fichu and the like. Chiffon, taffeta and lace are made up into some of the quaintest little garments. There are all sorts of little wraps which have sprung up like the dandelions that may contribute greatly to the limitless extravagances of the up-to-date summer girl. The bolero, eton, blouse, dolman, cape and pelerine are the original types to which these pretty garments owe their origin. Two-piece gowns of the thin, sheer materials and silks will be worn with little loose outdoor shoulder coverings of silk or lace. By preference both silk and lace are of the same shade as the frocks. For example, with a gray-green taffeta, shot with self-colored jacquard figures, there is a lace bolero dyed to match exactly. This is trimmed with narrow fringe and the tiny shirred bands of the silk, which are introduced on the deep Spanish flounce of the skirt and also on the waist.

To make skirt, waist and bolero one in scheme was the plan. A gown of gray crepe de chine had the most frivolous of little wraps, made of plain taffeta of the same tone. On this were used the same ribbon fringe and flowered wattleau discs as appeared on the waist. Plain taffeta is used in a similar way, with figured silks, the color of either ground or design being matched to a nicety.

The broad, drooping effects that characterize this season's modes have led to the rage for whimsical shoulder draperies, which will be seen in all their variations at the leading fashionable summer resorts. The stole of many evolutions yielded its place to the pelerine, which in turn has given way before fichu and dolman shapes, closely followed by the old friend, the cape.

Deceitfully crossed fichus and surplice effects are always contemporaries, and this season is no exception. Some of the newest wraps, like the gowns, are distinguished by their richness. They are of white, black or champagne colored lace, chiffon or net, accordion plaited and overlaid with motifs of heavy lace. The points and leaves on these are frequently interlaced with knotted narrow ribbons. The wraps are kimono shaped and collarless. Many show the new flat bows of velvet ribbon.

Some are unlined, others show through their transparent material a lining of flowered silk or chiffon, and flower petals to match for a fringe along their

Elliott-Courtenay Company in "Jim, the Penman," All Week At the Lyceum--Metropolitan Will Reopen With the Clara Mathes Company in "Tennessee's Partner."

Beginning Monday, July 11, the Elliott-Courtenay company will present for one week, at the Lyceum theater, Sir Charles Young's great play "Jim, the Penman," which was originally produced at A. M. Palmer's Madison Square theater, New York, in 1902, and the play has been presented by some of the best known artists as Frederick Robinson, Alexander Salvini, N. J. Ferguson, Frank Bangs, Nelson Wheatcroft, Herbert Kely, Agnes Booth, and others. The play is a comedy of manners, and the scenes are laid in England and the story is written around the life of a retired farmer, James Robinson, played by Robinson, who is accompanied by his wife, played by Kely, and his daughter, played by Booth. METROPOLITAN TO OPEN.
Monday evening the Metropolitan theater will open for the summer season and the attractions will be the same as last season. The company, headed by Clara Mathes, a comedienne of whom many fine things are said. The company has been together for a number of years and has played all over the country. Just now it is coming from the Pacific coast states, where it has been touring for some time and meeting with much success. "Tennessee's Partner" will be the opening bill.

TWO BIG PLAYS And a Little One All Entitled "Louisiana."

St. Louis, July 9.—American drama pertinent to the Louisiana purchase is on exhibition on and off the fair grounds, and it broke out patriotically on Independence day. Columbia, Uncle Sam, Louisiana, and other personages were met in the middle of the South and West are in the midst of a patriotic drama, entitled "Louisiana," and there is a ludicrous little play on the Pike which is the first in a series of three. Old times in St. Louis are being recalled in a most interesting and patriotic manner. About half of the space is set apart for a show of rough riding by military frontiersmen of the long ago. The other section is given up to an incongruous mixture of the characteristic negroism of the plantation type is given on the present stage. A hundred feet aloft, at one side is a reproduction of Father Chouteau's church of 1783, and in a lecture room a reproduction of the original papers relating to the Louisiana purchase are exhibited. In a theater, richly built, a frontier way, a drama of that great event is acted every hour or two, and it is hard to get to be very funny.

I think that nothing but the strains of our good old national hymn saves that show from open ridicule, and perhaps from angry resentment.

The fair is, of course, replete with sentimental exhibits of our national greatness. The government displays its Indian, Eskimo and Philippine collection, by in native wilds; its varieties of army and navy fighters; military camps, some of its sciences, moving in the midst of these are the dignified, but who have to go a little way to see the two big stage spectacles that I have mentioned as being impressive. One is a grand and temporary theater, Delmar Gardens and the other in the spacious old Odeon Theater. The former, "Hiram," is a "Louisiana" and the latter is "Jim, the Penman." There are other exhibits, though the two shows are alike in general form. Each begins with the critical of the white revolution, the Mississippi valley, proceeds with the efforts of the red man to repel the white, and transfers the action to France for the Louisiana domain to the United States and finally returns for a glorious glorification at the fair.

Having outlined the fair in St. Louis, and the loyal citizens are bound to think it better than any extravaganza that ever came here from New York or Chicago. I call it extravaganza because, unlike "Jim, the Penman," it is written in the prevailing manner of song, dance and foolery. Not that it isn't spectacular, too. It crowds a wide, deep stage with people in scenes of theatrical splendor. The opening view of a lake, the stream of actual water to float the canoes of the Indian chiefs, and live birds sing-opened the fourth, and got through before 1 o'clock. Then the eight Japanese gentlemen arose, however, and toward the stage withdrew with no sign that they had enjoyed themselves. Perhaps they were for me, I was sorry the representation was curtailed, not alone because the second act was necessary to see it in a completed state, but also because there might have been more fun. Besides that, it reminded me of the first performance of "The Black Crook," as last fall, till 4 o'clock the morning, and here was a chance to break that record.

dramatic critic, who has held the most prominent position of the critical guild in London for the past 20 years, removes a figure who has really been identified with the development of the modern English drama to a considerable extent. The closing days of Mr. Scott's career were marked by many a moment of unguarded discussion with a writer for one of the English religious periodicals. Mr. Scott gave out a rather too analytical interview on the morning of the English stage as far as the players on it were concerned. This brought down upon the head of the eminent writer the clamor of those who claimed he had maligned them. The crusade resulted in the removal of Scott from his position on the Morning Telegraph, and subsequently he came to this country, taking a prominent part in the criticisms of that season. Some of his notable reviews, which met with the approval of the English stage, were "Ben Hur" at its opening performance in New York, "The Merchant of Venice" after a year in this country, Scott established a weekly paper of his own, but was stricken by ill health and for the last year or two had been in poor physical condition, and only a few days prior to his death a benefit which netted over $500 was tendered him by the foremost actors in London, led by Sir Henry Irving.

At one time Clement Scott occupied the proud position of a reviewer who was accepted with being able to make or break any dramatic production in London. He was far more than a critic, for his criticisms were always tempered with consideration, and in reviewing those performances which met with his approval he was decidedly enthusiastic. In fact, concerning the English stage, he was always to be rated as an enthusiast, and his praise of plays and players was not without effect. He had the singular knack of writing about a performance in a vein that was more than interesting, for it generally inspired a desire for more. The managers and actors came to realize this most forcibly after Scott's death, and his removal from his position after his return from America.

Scott was a stickler for the straight-out old-fashioned English drama. He had little use for the modern French, German and Italian drama, and he was also something of an adapter and an essayist. Many a play of the English stage, however, was the work of an adapter, and Scott's management and cheer support that Clement Scott extended to him in days gone by. He was not a pillar of the drama, but he rose to a position of prominence, and he was quite a supporter of the play in England.

New York and Chicago continue the only places where theatrical interest is still centered during the off season. Gotham is provided with its roof gardens and a few summer theaters that are doing fairly well, but, according to the city ordinance, passed since the Ironsides theater, the prospects of any actual places of amusement being opened there are not promising.

Through official vigilance, which seems to be carried to the extreme, Chicago theater-goers are not permitted to see the Ironsides theater. In every theater, the strictest watch is kept on every exit and aisle, and from continually passing the theaters, the great crowd of people is not on view with every succeeding act. The instant an act closes, the regular door opens, and then a few seconds after it, with a slow roll, that casts a shadow over the audience, down the big aisle, and the curtain is closed. The instant the curtain is closed, the regular door opens, and then a few seconds after it, with a slow roll, that casts a shadow over the audience, down the big aisle, and the curtain is closed.

The real big bite of the summer is the lively little farce, "The Pajamas," at Powers. This, however, is not a farce, but a comedy, and it is not on view with every succeeding act. The instant an act closes, the regular door opens, and then a few seconds after it, with a slow roll, that casts a shadow over the audience, down the big aisle, and the curtain is closed.

The subject matter is a bit risky and flirtatious, to say the least, but it is a lively summer comedy, and when played with the snap and crispness that the "Pajamas" has, it goes extremely well. Such clever farces as "The Pajamas," directed by Harry Campbell, and "The Pajamas," directed by Harry Campbell, are not very long on novelties. COPPER CIRCLES

Substantial Progress Invade Superior District This Year.

The Production is Heavier Than Ever Before in Mine's History.

Houghton, Mich., July 9.—(Special to The Herald.)—A review of the production of the first half of 1904 in the Lake Superior copper district does not bring to view any spectacular developments, but does disclose substantial progress along a variety of lines. The development of a copper mine is a matter of years under the most favorable circumstances, and owing to the exceedingly low grade of the native copper deposits of Michigan, unusually extensive underground and surface development is required to produce and treat the heavy rock tonnage required to make a mine profitable in this district, hence even more than average time is required for the making of a mine here.

Production is heavier than ever before. During the past three and one-half years the lake mines have greatly increased their output, as is shown by the following figures of production: 1900, 14,151,721 pounds; 1901, 15,504,145 pounds; 1902, 17,325,595 pounds; 1903, 19,239,151 pounds; 1904, 20,800,000 pounds.

The production given for the current year is necessarily an estimate only, but under a continuance of normal conditions will closely approximate the actual figures of output. Ten years ago, in 1894, the production of refined copper was 114,308,750 pounds, the largest ever secured to that time, with the single exception of 1902. The output of the district did not reach one hundred million pounds in any year previous to 1890. Twenty years ago, in 1884, the production was 63,332,202 pounds, which was ten million pounds in excess of any preceding year. The output of the district did not reach one hundred million pounds in any year previous to 1890. Twenty years ago, in 1884, the production was 63,332,202 pounds, which was ten million pounds in excess of any preceding year.

The preceding figures make apparent the fact that actual production is far larger than the figures in the history of the district, the 1904 output promising to be almost double that of ten years ago, which in turn was nearly double that of twenty years ago. Relatively, the lake mines are doing better than ever, and the new and highly important sources of copper supply have been developed during the past few decades in Arizona, Montana, Utah, California and elsewhere. In 1899 the lake mines made 85 per cent of the copper produced in the United States, but under the influence of western competition the proportion of the copper produced in the United States has decreased to 47 per cent in 1904, 32 per cent in 1894 and 26 per cent in 1884. The output of the lake mines has been greater than the production of any other mine in the world since the United States in a year so comparatively recent as 1887, and nearly as large as the average annual production of the entire world for the decade 1881-1890. The impression, prevalent in some quarters, that the superior copper district is a played-out field is not supported by the figures of production. The output of the district in the world that produces more metal is the Butte camp of Montana, though Arizona as a whole, and especially the Phoenix district, has made a great deal of progress in the past few years. The output of the superior copper district is now rivaling Michigan in total output within two years.

During the first half of the present year the Calumet & Hecla has completed the rebuilding of the first section of the mine, and will begin work on the second section. The work of rebuilding the old mills, or rather, the old shaft, has been a heavy task, and will require three years for completion, and the end of which time the productive capacity of the company's milling plant will be greatly increased.

The Wolverine shows small change, but is moving along like clockwork, and is justifying the expectation, bestowed on it locally, of the "little Calumet & Hecla." The Wolverine mine, now owned by the Wolverine Consolidated, is earning good profits, though the percentage of copper secured has not been as high as in the past. The Wolverine mine is now producing about 100,000 pounds of copper per month, and is expected to reach 200,000 pounds per month within a short time. A second shaft is now being worked at a depth of 1,000 feet, and a third shaft is being opened at a depth of 1,500 feet. The Wolverine mine is now producing about 100,000 pounds of copper per month, and is expected to reach 200,000 pounds per month within a short time.

HIS SALARY DOES NOT PAY HIS RENT

CHARLEMAGNE TOWER

Berlin, June 28.—Mrs. Charlemagne Tower, wife of the United States Ambassador to Berlin, has left for her annual summer visit to America, after having given Uncle Sam the most brilliant social representation he has ever known at the German court. It has, indeed, been of so notable a character that the representation of other great powers has seemed modest by comparison. No one knows what a powerful adjunct to diplomacy hospitality constitutes in a glittering capital will deny that America is fortunate in having in "Kaiserstadt" so experienced and accomplished a hostess as Mrs. Tower, who, alone of our Ambassadors, enjoys the distinction of having represented her country at three great European capitals in succession—Vienna, St. Petersburg and Berlin.

The Towers came to Berlin from Russia with a reputation for magnificent entertaining, which they have more than upheld at the Kaiser's court. Rumor had it that they spent $200,000 a year "keeping America's end up" at St. Petersburg. Soon after their arrival in Berlin they became the envy of the local diplomatic corps, and it was not long before they had leased for an embassy the famous Pringheim palace on the fashionable Koenigs-Platz, directly in front of the Reichstag building and in the heart of the city's most aristocratic and exclusive quarter. Owing to the fact that they expect our ambassadors and ministers to foot their own bills, none of America's diplomatic representatives in Berlin had ever been able to afford anything but hotel apartments or small villas. The Pringheim palace was secured for the Towers at a rental of $15,000 a year, just $500 more than Mr. Tower's salary as ambassador.

Having been despatched for several years, they returned it from top to bottom, and turned it into one of the most gorgeous private houses in all Berlin. Its stately exterior, with the Stars and Stripes flying from the top of the central tower, fills every American who sees it with justifiable pride that his country is so substantially represented in this metropolis of the world. The interior is richly decorated with mural paintings, tapestries and art works, and imposes its luxuriousness upon the visitor at first glance through a wide marble foyer and staircase leading to the reception room, dining room and dancing hall on the second floor.

Equipped with her magnificent home, Mrs. Tower, early after her arrival here, in 1902, set about to entertain in keeping with the status her country had come to occupy in the diplomatic and political realm. Loyal American, her first formal "at home" partook of a splendid reception to the Berlin American "colon," which numbers, with its fluctuating student element, some 150 or 200 persons. Her most brilliant affair—at least, the one which made the capital ring with her fame as a clever hostess—was the dinner party in honor of Emperor William in December of last year, when the Kaiser for the first time in the history of the American diplomatic representation in Germany "set foot on American soil."

THE PRINGHEIM PALACE

As he himself put it, "The Kaiser marveled at the hospitality of the embassy, and remarked that it was in full accord with the importance of the United States as a world power." A hint that blind believers in "Jefferson's simplicity" may take to heart, His Majesty escorted Mrs. Tower to dinner and devoted himself almost exclusively to her during the long and elaborate meal. Prince Henry was among the other guests, as well as a number of German cabinet members and distinguished army and navy officers. This was the Kaiser's first appearance at an embassy dinner for the season, and the fact that he did not pay his customary visits to the Austrian, Italian, British and Russian embassies until later was properly interpreted as a compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Tower and to the United States.

The emperor remained at the embassy long past midnight, and conversed good-humoredly and in the most informal manner with the members of the dinner party, wandering about between the library, smoking room and saloon with a lack of reserve and gaiety not common when he is in diplomatic society.

A few weeks later Mrs. Tower entertained Prince and Princess Henry and a brilliant suite of court people. This function was followed by a dancing party for the younger members of the court and diplomatic corps, at which Crown Prince Frederick William was the guest of honor, and had the opportunity of making the acquaintance of a bevy of pretty American girls. Besides these set affairs at which royalty has accepted Yankee hospitality, the Kaiser and Kaiserin, Prince Henry and the crown prince occasionally drop in at the embassy for tea and informal chats. Last Christmas day Mrs. Tower gave an informal luncheon in honor of William Jennings Bryan, who happened to be passing through Berlin.

Mrs. Tower always looks for opportunities for throwing open her home for the benefit of fellow countrymen and women resident in or passing through the Kaiser's capitol. Her periodical luncheon parties to the women of the residential colony and her receptions on Thanksgiving day are well known. The patriotic spirit runs high among exiled Yankees, and always looks forward with delight. A few days ago she gave a handsome reception for the American delegates to the International Congress of Women, while Southey, Anthony being the special guest of honor. Mrs. Tower's chief supporters in the brilliant social season have been the ladies of the embassy—Mrs. Robert Hitt, Jr., wife of the second secretary; Mrs. Templeton A. Hottel, wife of the naval attaché; Mrs. William S. Biddle, wife of the military attaché, and Mrs. Frank H. Mason, the widely beloved "mother of the American colony of Berlin" and of the United States consul general. Mrs. Tower has been particularly gracious in extending the hospitality of the court, as far as they are at her disposal, to visiting American girls, and at all her functions at which royalty has been present she has always managed to invite "American beauties" to grace the occasion. Her sister, Mrs. Thomas A. Reilly, of Philadelphia, was a guest at the embassy last winter and participated in many court functions.

Mrs. Tower dresses magnificently and in exquisite taste. Her jewels are famous at court, although she exercises praiseworthy restraint in wearing what the best authorities describe as "just enough." Her gowns are exclusively Parisian made and have kept up in Berlin American women's reputation as the best dressers in the world. She is a woman of extremely cordial temperament and rare tact, is witty and cultured, and a fluent speaker of German and French. With all her exacting social duties, she is a first-class housekeeper and finds time to personally superintend a staff of twenty-seven servants.

Her plate, china and glassware excite the envy of all observers. All china and glass bear the family "crest"—a singularly appropriate emblem for a woman who, in her personal life, while her two older children, boys of 11 and 14, are being educated in America, to give one of their mother's pet hobbies to have her sons grow up amid strictly American surroundings. Her tastes, when youthful characters are taking shape. Her annual visit to the United States, for which she has just left, is being devoted to the purpose of spending the summer vacation with her boys. Mrs. Tower was a Miss Johnson, of Oakland, Cal., and Americans may feel assured that she is doing her country real service in the successful social campaign she is waging at this punctilious court.

Bleekering, Jon Sæterf sings "visor" of the kind the country troubadours performed for the popular people. When I heard him, he was singing the fourteenth verse of a ballad which recorded the wars with Napoleon. There were many who had been fifty-two verses and every one had the same refrain.

At 7:30 the star number of the festival began. This was a combination performance of folk songs and folk dances on a platform in the open, with rising ground on each side for spectators and a back ground consisting of a cliff covered with the deep dark verdure of pines and firs. The performers came down a half-concealed path, their bright many-colored costumes closely copied from the old national dress once in common use. It certainly is a picture. They gather in a large ring facing the center. Clapping hands they move slowly in a circle following the leader and his partner. Then the leader sings a verse from one of those beautiful folk songs in a minor key. It was "Sven i Rosen-gård." The chorus sings the refrain then the step is much livelier. Once more the leader sings. It is the second verse and the dance movement is slow and quiet so all may hear the words of the ballad. Thus it changes about solo and chorus, the dancers furnishing their own music with their singing.

For the "folkvisa" was never intended to be sung in a concert hall or to a piano, the only way in which we now hear it. It and the folk dance were intimately connected. It appears that at one time these were sung all over Europe. At least the songs were very similar. But most of them have long been forgotten and the dances that accompanied them also. Some of the songs were collected in Sweden by Geijer and others, but the dances nearly all passed into oblivion. There is, however, one dance of Europe where the traditions have been kept up. On the Faeroe Islands many of the old songs are still in the possession of the common people. Fru Hilda Garborg, from Norway, has taken great pains to study these dances and has had much success in reintroducing them in Norway and this spring here in Sweden. Thus a new word has come into the dictionary. Fru Hilda Garborg's work is very much appreciated and is very much in line with similar efforts in Sweden. The society "Folkdansens Vanner" has some time picked up the shreds of what is left and revived dances that were all but forgotten. The folkdance is now very popular with the young people, but the steps are nearly always to instrumental

East End Fire Hall Is Particularly Noticeable On This Account.

A good example has been set in the matter of keeping lawns neat by the members of the Duluth fire department.

Last year in its efforts to have the city present a good appearance to visitors, the Duluth Commercial club offered prizes for the best-kept lawns in the city. For several years past the firemen have taken an especial pride in keeping the lawns about the different buildings neat and well trimmed, and in this respect have set a good example to the citizens.

A fire hall might easily become an objectionable neighbor if the building and grounds were allowed to remain in untidy condition, but the citizens residing in the vicinity of the fire halls have to take very careful care of their lawns to prevent them suffering from contrast.

No matter how small a space of ground the firemen have around their building they take particular pride in having it well kept. Most of the buildings have but a few feet of grass around them, but it is always green and evenly clipped. One of the best examples of the care that is taken with the lawns is the East End Fire hall at the corner of Second street and Fourteenth avenue east. A picture of the hall is shown in the illustration, the building being built of rather coarse speckled brick, and in its architecture, yet the little plot of grass in front of the building is kept in faultless condition and careful care is being taken of the two or three young trees that have been planted.

The firehall at the corner of Third street and First avenue, East also presents a very creditable appearance. Vines have been trained over the doorway and the trees and grass are well kept. At headquarters and the West End the men have no opportunity to form a grass plot, the buildings being set out close to the pavement.

The firemen, of course, have every opportunity to keep the lawns in good condition, having plenty of water at their disposal and leisure time in which to attend to them. The well kept condition of the lawns and buildings was one of the features remarked on by the alienation of fire commissioners at the recent inspection of the department.

DULUTH'S TAR MACADAM PLANT

Figured That Saving This Year Will Nearly Pay Cost of Plant.

Weighs About Nineteen Tons, But Can Be Readily Moved.

With the increased popularity of tar macadam as a paving material in this city more or less interest has been manifested in the new tar macadam mixing plant bought last year by the city, and which is now in operation on the lower side of London road between Nineteenth and Twentieth avenues East.

The plant was purchased by the city, during the administration of Mayor T. W. Hugo, on the recommendation of former City Engineer W. B. Patton. Its cost was about $3300. Before it was purchased Mr. Patton went to Detroit, Mich., and watched the operations of a similar plant in that city.

It is figured that the saving to the property owners on the East Superior street paving this summer, alone, the plant will nearly pay for itself, for the tar macadam pavement is now being laid under contract for $1.50 per square yard, where if the work was done under the contract of Warren Brothers, who own their own plant, the work would cost $2 per square yard. There is some saving of about 17,000 square feet of pavement to be laid.

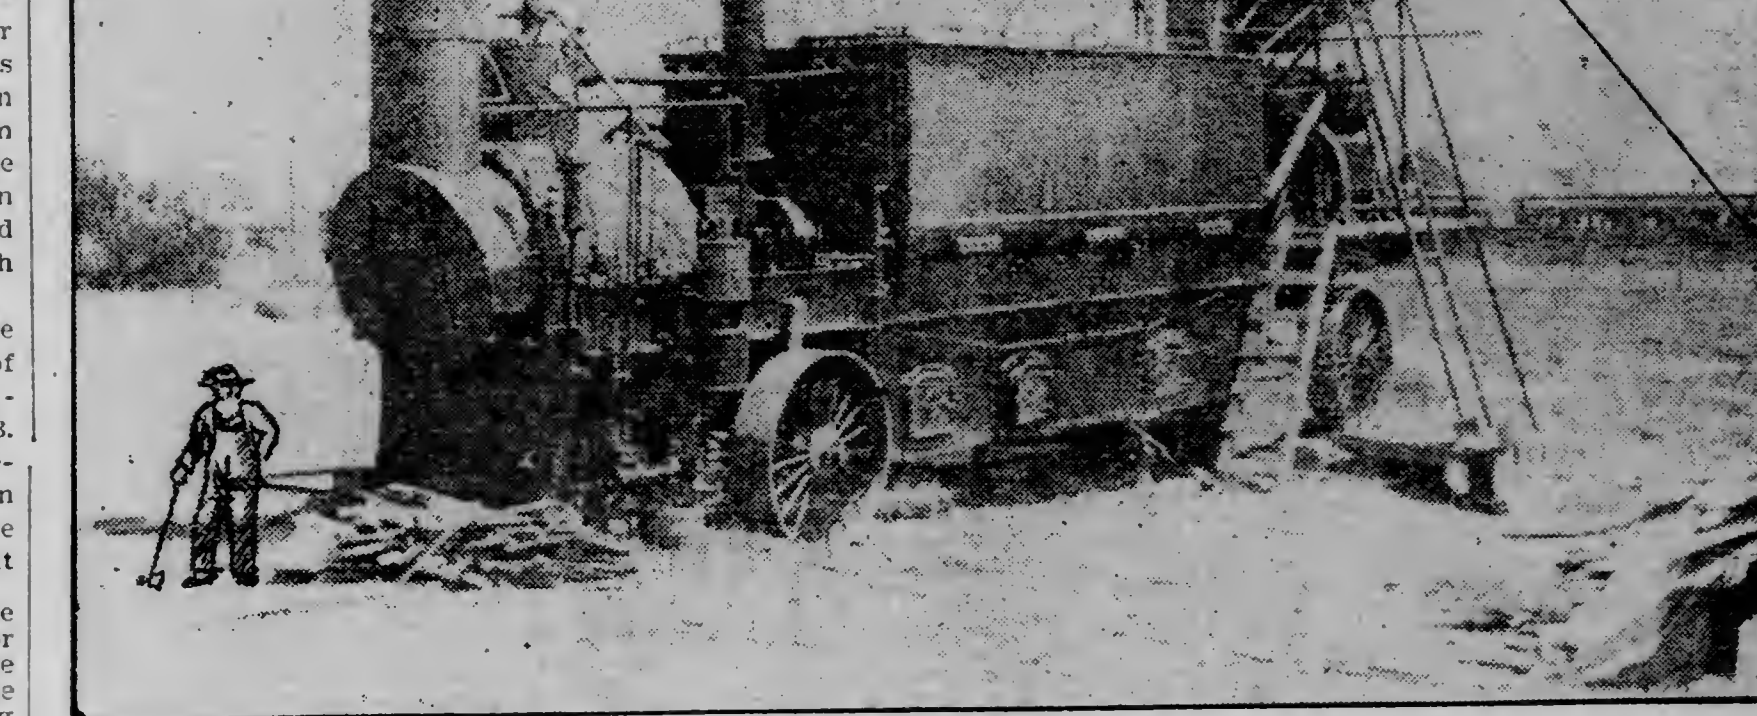

The mixing of the tar macadam for pavement, by hand, is a very unsatisfactory process, but a very satisfactory process, it being impossible to get the same consistency of material as can be obtained with a plant which makes its own weights and measurements and a uniform mixture.

The new plant has a guaranteed capacity of 1000 square yards of 2-inch pavement per day of 10 hours. It weighs about 19 tons, but can be readily moved about from place to place by horses or by a steam road roller.

In its general plan the plant is somewhat similar to that of Warren Bros., whose plant was semi-portable, having to be taken down and moved in parts, necessitating considerable expense and loss of time. The city's plant is entirely portable, all parts being on a steel framework supplied with trucks with wide and heavy wheels.

The object to be attained by the plant is the warming of crushed rock or tar, or bituminous cement to the proper temperature. The sorting of crushed rock into at least six different sizes; the weighing out of the broken rock after separation into certain definite portions; the mixing of the rock so measured with the proper amount of bitumen and the delivering of the mixture into wagons for hauling to the street where the pavement is to be laid.

At one end of the plant is the marine boiler to furnish steam and power. Following this is a Westinghouse air pump which forces air into the bitumen kettle and keeps the material in a state of motion to prevent burning, also to supply pressure to force the bitumen

The center of the plant is the stone drier, a revolving cylinder over furnaces. The stone is delivered to it by an elevator at the forward end. Straddling the drier is the bitumen kettle. This is a tight and heated with the waste heat from the stone drier. The kettle is provided with a safety valve to regulate the air pressure from the air pump.

The driers are revolved by an independent engine at the rear end of the plant and inclosed to prevent damage by dust.

The stone from the drier is delivered at the ground level into a hoist that carries it to screens which are so arranged to revolve within each other and elevated about 20 feet from the ground. The stone from each screen is delivered by gravity into a storage bin directly under and which is provided with six pockets for the different sizes of stone.

From the bin the stone is drawn into a box on a scale with six arms in the requisite amount from each size determined by the operator of the plant. From this box the contents are dumped into the mixer directly under the drier.

The bitumen is then drawn from a valve at one side of the mixer into a tank or balance, until the proper amount is secured, when it is dumped into the mixer and revolves until the proper mixture is attained.

Wagons are backed under the mixer which is supported on a projecting end of the plant, the bottom opens and the load is dropped into the vehicles to be hauled to the paving work.

The mixer is revolved by an independent engine, "C" bearing and inclosed to keep out the dust.

During nearly all this time the marine band has been performing on the top of the hill to a grateful public. At ten o'clock they surrender the platform. Three or four fiddlers enter, and couple after couple of young people, and some of them very young, step up to join hands in dancing the old-fashioned dances. They are all dressed in the national costumes.

At 11 o'clock it is time to quit, they say, but the light is still good enough to read by. And so I go home convinced that I shall long remember this beautiful sunny day in Skansen, where a happy populace has enjoyed itself, lighthearted and with abandon of all the worries of everyday life.

MINERS ROBBED

AND BEATEN BY MOB

Denver, July 9.—Four of the six union men who returned to their Cripple Creek mines were run out by a mob, gave an account of the deportation to President Meyer. They said they were horsewhipped and robbed of all their money and valuables, amounting to several hundred dollars by the white captives. They assert that the military and deputies connived at their seizure by the mob. The names of a dozen citizens of the Cripple Creek district whom the deported men recognized in the mob were furnished to President Meyer. Three of the men had returned to Victor on passes furnished, it is asserted, by Gen. Bell.

SAFEGUARD THE CHILDREN. Notwithstanding all that is done by boards of health and charitably inclined persons, the death rate among small children is very high during the hot weather. There is not probably one case of bowel complaint in a hundred, however, that could not be cured by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

There is a family safeguard and while especially beneficial to children, it is equally good in adult cases. I recommend it cheerfully and without reservation. For sale by all druggists.

THE NORTHMAN'S LOVE FOR SPRING

Finds Expression in the Yearly Festival Called "Skansen's Varfest"—The Program Presented At Stockholm Last Month.

Stockholm, June 5.—(Special to The Herald.)—This city is quite proud of what is here called "Skansen," or translated "The Fortifications." It is now a park, but it is also much more; it is an epitome of the Swedish people, how they build and how they spin and weave, an exhibition of how they work and how they play, and sing and dance; in fact, an illustration in most minute detail of how they live and how they think. Or rather, should it be said, how they did this in the past. For things change rapidly.

As an institution it is unique and deserves much more than the few lines there is room for. Be it said, however, the idea and gathering the fragments that can still be found of what has been. But time does not deal gently with the souvenirs of the past. Sweden was fortunate in possessing Aftzelius, who saw the value of these records and started in early and kept forever at it, gathering the priceless collection to be seen on the hills of this park and in its buildings.

Here there has been celebrated the yearly festival called "Skansen's Varfest"—one more expression of the Northman's love for spring. It lasted five days with virtually the same program each day. For all that I could not keep away. Having attended the first day I must needs go once more and found time to go the other days also. But the program varies from year to year. Several novelties were introduced, and judging from the large attendance was highly appreciated.

There was, also, some solo dancing by a young Norwegian, some of the movements verging on the acrobatic. Crookston 8, Grand Forks 0.
Fargo at Superior (3:30 p. m.).

Rain interfered with the games at both Duluth and Superior yesterday and but one game was played in the Northern League.

Only one game will be played today between the Duluth and Winnipeg teams. The evening game which was to have been pulled off at Duluth has been postponed until tomorrow and will be played at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The Maroons intend to make a desperate effort to take the first series from Duluth. They have reserved their two prize slab artists to do the trick and they will pitch the games today and tomorrow.

THE SHOOT FOR MEDALS

Final Contest, a Shoot of 100 Birds is Due.

The final shoot in the class medal contest at the Duluth Gun club, will be held tomorrow afternoon on the ranges at Thirty-second avenue East.

The contest consists of ten preliminary shoots of ten birds each, and a final shoot of 100 birds. The last of the ten preliminary shoots will be held this afternoon, and the final will be pulled off tomorrow.

The men are classified according to the number of birds they take in the preliminary shoots and the total average determines the winner in each class.

The number of shoot-outs to be made is as follows: Berry, Fulton, Jackson, Storey, Williams, Holmberg, Wilson, Morrow, one each; Abbott, Siltner, Young, two each.

F. D. Day Company Trophy: Class B.
F. D. Frank, Bob, Abbott, Holmberg, Williams.

T. J. Storey Trophy: Class C—Young, Wilson, Siltner, Morrow.

STANDING.	W.	L.	Pct.

Kelley-Hov-Thomson	2	2	.500
First National bank	0	5	.000

No games have been pulled off during the past week in the Commercial league, but the Kelley-Hov-Thomson and First National bank teams are scheduled to come together this afternoon on the fair grounds. The bankers have fallen behind in the race, but they will make a desperate effort to break their string of defeats this afternoon.

The Fashions will take a day off tomorrow, as they have no contest scheduled for that date. They had arranged a game with the Duluth Northern league team, but yesterday's rain, which caused a postponement of the game with Winnipeg, gave the White Stockings an opportunity to pull off a Sunday league game with the Canadians, and the game with the Fashions was postponed until some future date.

The Mark team will meet the Millers tomorrow afternoon on the grounds at Thirty-second avenue west. The two teams are very equally matched, and the contest should be a close one.

A pretty fight is in progress for the amateur championship of the northern part of the state. At least, two local teams may be considered in the running. The Fashions and the Big Duluth team have both won the majority of the games played and they have strong claims to the title. Bemidji has a fine line, but fully five of the men are drawing regular salaries. The Big Duluth team lost to Bemidji on July 3 by the score of 2 to 1, but the winners refused to play a second game on July 4, preferring to meet the Cass Lake nine, which proved an easy mark.

The Fashions have a clean record, with the exception of the game lost to the Superior league team, and the one game dropped to Hurley. The series with Hurley was won, however. Hibbing and Cloquet must also be considered in the running. Atkin was pushing the leaders hard, and should they show even a small improvement in form they will establish a claim to be considered in naming the amateur champions of Northern Minnesota.

All of the amateur teams in this part of the state are invited to send in the list of games they have played, won and lost this season, to The Herald, to assist in ascertaining just exactly how the different amateur nines stand, and what their claims are in regard to the championship.

Five Men Still Remain—Doubles to Begin at Once.

Some fast tennis is promised for next week at the grounds of the Endion Tennis club.

The club tournament which is now in progress is narrowing down, but the best men still remain in the race, with the exception of Finch, who was put out of the running by Graff Thursday afternoon.

The semi-finals will probably be reached at the close of play this afternoon, and on Monday some good games will be played. Graff, Grady, Hopkins, Davis and Kennedy will play each other, and the finals will be closely fought out.

Much interest attaches to the play of Kennedy, the Superior crack, who has joined the club this year. He has been coached by Charles of Superior, a national champion, and plays a strong, heady game. His style of play differs materially from that of Graff and Grady, the two local cracks. He plays a very steady and quiet game, trading almost entirely to his placing, and lobbing frequently when his opponent is playing the net.

Graff and Grady play an entirely different game. They play every stroke for all it is worth, driving the ball hard into the back line on every play. A match between either one of them and Kennedy should demonstrate the comparative value of the two methods of play, and there is every likelihood that they will meet before the finals are reached.

Finch also plays a strong game after the style of Kennedy, but is scarcely so sure of his strokes as the latter. His game against Graff on Thursday was a pretty exhibition.

The games for the doubles will take place this afternoon. There are only seven teams entered up to the present time. We have a partner will be in the race, making eight in all. The teams at present entered are: Graff and Grady; Finch and Kennedy; Davis and Hopkins; Ames and Ingalls; Palmer and Kiehl; Atkins and Martin; MacKenzie and Rock.

Special interest attaches to the match between Graff and Grady and Finch and Kennedy. These two teams have been the same reason as the interest taken in the singles between either Graff or Grady and Kennedy. The two teams are excellent in the different methods of play perfectly, and the club members are looking forward to a match between them.

Davis and Hopkins are also likely to be heard from. Davis is playing a very strong game this year, and while there are many who do not believe in his style of play, he does very material execution. Hopkins plays a strong line game, and the pair should work well together.

Palmer has also been showing up well this year, having run a very close race in the singles; but Kiehl, his partner, is in need of practice, having been out of the city.

Ingalls has improved greatly since last year, and with a steady partner, he should make a good team. The interest shown in the game is steadily increasing, and all are anxious to see the open tournament, in which they hope to see the club make a clean sweep.

The game between Duluth and Fargo is the most interesting feature of the week's play. The game was won by Duluth, but has been thrown out and will have to be played over during the approaching visit of the Fargo team. This takes one victory from Duluth's score, and one defeat from Fargo's list.

The game forfeited by Superior to the now dead King Eric, should be played over again. This takes one victory from Superior, and one defeat from Fargo's list.

The revised standing given today shows the positions of the six teams. After all the protests under consideration have been settled.

Without Trying and Passed Bogus $100 Bills.

New York, July 9.—Marcus Crahan, of Providence, R. I., who has just begun to serve two concurrent sentences of 15 years each in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., for uttering forged hundred and ten dollar bills, can blame his own astuteness for his long imprisonment.

William J. Flynn, in charge of the United States secret service here, told Crahan that he had been caught. Crahan thought was a sufficient defense before he set out to "shove the queer." Crahan used the money to pay for his expenses, and he was caught by the secret service.

On May 25 several of the bodyguards of Crahan and Flynn found themselves in possession of new one-hundred dollar certificates, which they later learned were counterfeit. The next day 20 of these one hundred-dollar bills were accepted at the same track, and Crahan and Flynn were caught.

When charged with circulating bogus money Crahan and Flynn pleaded that they had been deceived by the bodyguards. Crahan said: "I don't know anything about that. I found the money, quite New York's made to have "99" appear at the Empire City meet in New York on July 4, but Manager Pickens O'Dell says that "99" will lead the O'Dell cup if he has to break records. "99" is a 3-year-old colt and the colts will be in the big handicaps. The colts are equally positive that the cup shall not leave the city. The winners of the six class races and the "99" will start in the O'Dell handicap. About 100,000 spectators are expected to see the track yesterday afternoon trying the surface and turns. Races will be held from 12:30 to 4:30 p. m. but the races from the fence, so as to preclude the possibility of a repetition of the fatal accidents of last season by the fatal fall of the horse named "99". "Speaking with manager [sic] him, I never take a tip from President Ben Johnson, as I don't want to consider his judgment good. I am wholly responsible for my own actions, and I am not to be considered up by the New York club. When the player turns out good I want the credit as well as when he turns out bad. I don't want anything to say 'or do' about getting ball players for my team. I have the money to do business with and I play ball. I don't want to be a manager. I will do the business on our return," continued the manager. "We copied a nice piece of money out of the college people's pockets. There must be losing tail-enders as well as winners.

Baseball is a gamble, for a winner wins money and a loser drop it very fast, and no man likes to drop money in baseball, and the more money a man has the less chances he will take after the thing goes bad. Tom and the Little Leas

How Tom Cleared Himself and Started a Bank Account.

BY MANNING LEMEN.

The acquaintance began in the park. Tom Bradford was not given to truancy or refractory conduct of any sort, but it was the first soft, alluring day of the belated springtime, and to him seemed so much more worth while than to work that Tom yielded to the impulse. He stood looking over the low stone wall into the park during a moment of indecision. Then a squirrel flaunted its tail tantalizingly and a robin sang deliciously overhead. Tom hesitated no longer. He vaulted the stone wall, and thrilled with pleasure as his feet touched the elastic turf on the other side. He sauntered whistling into the center of the park, suddenly he stopped. "Hi!" he cried, "that's no way to pitch a ball; that's girl fashion." The boy to whom he spoke looked at him in surprise, but showed no resentment. "Will you come and play with me?" he asked. "I don't mind. If you'll play right." "I don't know how." "Well, I'll show you." The boy who had been tossing a ball back and forth with a maid said his name was Julian Bishop, and that his friends played just as he did. "Well, it's no way for a boy," asserted Tom, emphatically, "and what do you want a maid tagging round after you for?" "My mother won't let me come to the park alone." Julian was tired and dirty, but happy when he finally was dragged away from most that he had never known Julian. Life looked terribly blank with the long, vacant summer ahead. For the first time he was glad when the Saturday holiday came to an end, although it had been a particularly pleasant one, with an automobile ride and a dinner at a country club. Tom Bradford had no tales of adventure to relate that evening. He sat moodily and depressed. "I'm going to be rich," he said at last. "How are you going to manage it?" asked his father. "I don't know, but I'm going to begin right off. May I stop school and go to work?" "No." "You don't want to be ignorant, do you?" added his mother. "The Bishops aren't, and they wouldn't associate with you if you were, no matter how rich you were." "That's so," admitted Tom. "I'll have to go to school as long as I can afford it—but I can work in vacations," he added.

"Yes, that isn't a bad idea. If you can stand it," said Mr. Bradford, who was something of an invalid, and had been handicapped by it all his life. "I can," said Tom, with easy confidence. A week later he went to Mr. Bishop's office. "Can you give me a place for the summer?" he asked. "Certainly," replied Mr. Bishop. "I've been thinking about it myself. Come and spend the summer with us. Oh, no," replied Tom, shrinking a little. "I don't mean to stay with you, and I thought you might want a boy in the business."

"I'd much rather have you with Julian," he said. "I'll pay you twice as much as I can pay you here." "But that would not be right to be paid for just having a good time. Be satisfied with the average. A few weeks before he was to go to the Bishops' country house, however, there was trouble in the office. Somewhere there was a leak of determination came into his eyes. One by one the men washed their hands of guilt, until only Tom remained unshaken.

"He was told to destroy those letters," asserted the cashier, "and evidently he did not do it. It's my opinion he sold them."

"I told them to put them into little bits and throw them into the waste-paper basket," Mr. Bishop looked grave and puzzled. He had known the cashier and trusted him for a score of years, yet he did not want to believe Tom guilty of such a deed.

"Say no more about it," said Mr. Bishop. "I'll take it up again tomorrow." Tom was wretched. He knew that circumstances pointed to his guilt, unless he could clear himself perfectly it seemed to him that he was ruined for life. He started home with a heavy heart. He had gone only a few blocks, however, when he stopped suddenly, a look of determination came into his eyes. "I'm going to clear myself," he said to himself. "I'm going to clear myself."

would refuse to do it on his unsupported accusation. The only thing he could think of was to follow the man, finding out where he lived, and then to report to Mr. Bishop. If he could find him, the young man took an elevated train. Tom got aboard the same train. When the young man got off at One Hundred and Fourth street, Tom left the train there also. He saw him go into a certain house, took the number, learned from the janitor that the clerk, whose name was Twilling, lived there. Where to get Mr. Bishop was his next problem, but he heard him say that he was going to be in town all night—where?

Tom hethought him of his employer's club, and he went there. "No, he isn't here," was the reply when he asked for him at the club. "No, we don't know where he is," Tom walked out despairing. A carriage passed him. In it he recognized Mr. Bishop. "Hi, there! Hi, stop!" he cried, running after it madly. Mr. Bishop put his head out the window, and the driver checked his horses. "Why, it's Tom Bradford," exclaimed Mr. Bishop in surprise. "What is the matter, Tom?"

"I can't speak to you, sir," gasped Tom out of breath from excitement and running.

"Well, get in here and cool down. Then tell me what you want." "I want you to go to One Hundred and Third street."

"The man that steals the letters is there?" "The mischief! Who is he? And how do you know?"

"You told his story." "You're in the wrong business. You ought to be a detective. Well, I'll give you a chance. You will give me $100 willingly to have this thing cleared up. You don't know the man is?"

"Yes, Mr. Bishop; it is Mr. Twilling, of our office." "What! Well, I'm sorry, but he will have to pay the penalty."

Mr. Bishop telephoned for a policeman to meet him at the number. Tom had $100 with him. Then they drove up town together. The policeman was waiting for them, and he and Mr. Bishop went outside. Mr. Bishop came out in a few moments looking very grave. He had a piece of paper in his hands, and as they drove away he gave it to Tom, saying, "I would give to have this mystery cleared up."

"For me? Oh, Mr. Bishop, I am only behind to have you know that I had no part in stealing those letters." "I don't really doubt you, Tom, only I had to have it look as if you had anything to do with it."

Tom's first impression was to ask a policeman to arrest the clerk, but he reflected that the policeman probably

The Little Leas At Sea.

BY ELEANOR MCCARTHY.

When the little Leas left the country for the seashore they went at the parting from "Sir Robert," and the other friends they had made. Their first day at the beach, however, was enough to reconcile them to the change. Their cottage was built on rocks, and when the tide was high the water came right up over the rocks almost to their very door.

"It's not a moment's peace I'll be getting while I am here," said Norah the day they arrived. "I know the children will be getting themselves drowned every minute."

"We will learn to swim and then we can take care of ourselves," announced Betty confidently. "There is to be no swimming except when I am with you," said Mr. Leas, "and no wading unless Norah is with you."

For three days the little Leas were very obedient and Mrs. Leas wondered how much longer such an unusual state of peace could last. On the morning of the fourth day the little Leas took and they all set sail. "Miss Rosemary, you are the only one whose name I know; you will have to introduce me to your sisters." "This is Polly and this Betty," said Rosemary, gravely. "My name is Beverly Marshall," he explained, "but I am more often called 'Hank.'"

"We will call you Mr. Hank," said Polly. Mr. Hank roared with laughter. "Well, I've never been called that, he replied, 'but I shall like anything that you call me. And now we are going to sail away for a year and a day.'"

The three little Leas were very happy and Mr. Hank seemed to be no less so. "You know, I have been having a very dull time down here," he confided to them; "I had no congenial friends, but it is going to be different now that I have found you."

"I suppose they wouldn't let you swim or anything," murmured Betty. "That's the way it has been with us." The young man choked and then he

"Well, now, I think refusing to let one swim is about the limit of oppression. We shall have to run off some day and have a swim all by ourselves, shan't we?"

"I see you are not equipped with your bathing togs today, so we shall have to find some other form of amusement. By the way, there is a good friend of mine and a very interesting man. I would like to have you meet him. Mr. Hank called out: 'Hello, Captain,' to a man in a boat and sailed up near to him."

"What's he doing?" asked Polly, with interest. "Watching his lobster pots. What luck, Captain?"

"Why, those aren't lobsters," exclaimed Betty. "They're black and kind of green and lobsters are red." "Not the Captain's; that's the way they grow in these waters, isn't it, Captain?"

"I've ever ketch'd was pretty much on that order and I've been lobsterin' off'n on night on 60 years."

"What you have some red lobsters on land, haven't you?" asked Mr. Hank. "Wal, I will have if you come back past my place a couple of hours from now."

"All right, we will come and see them. We're sailing off now toward the Royal Light. Here we are now, Little one first."

"My name's Rosemary," said the little girl lives there, too, wouldn't you?" asked Mr. Hank, turning to the little Leas.

"The light we see every evening, if we stay up long enough?"

"And in the night, if we wake up and look out of the window?"

"That's the one." "We would love it." "To hear is to obey," Mr. Hank called his boat straight for the island. It rode over the waves with the greatest ease, and now and then the spray dashed in and baptized the little Leas with salt water. All the while they talked, Mr. Hank told exciting stories. Once, when he told a tale of a sea nymph, he ended with "And if you look in the water, you'll see her now." The three little Leas were so eager to see the sea nymph that they almost fell overboard.

"Hold!" cried Mr. Hank, clutching both hands full of sticks and pulling the little Leas back into the boat.

"What?" asked Betty and Rosemary, colorless. "Did she look like?" insisted Betty.

"She had a white face and long green hair."

"Well, now, I think refusing to let one swim is about the limit of oppression. We shall have to run off some day and have a swim all by ourselves, shan't we?"

"That's the one." "We would love it." "To hear is to obey," Mr. Hank called his boat straight for the island. It rode over the waves with the greatest ease, and now and then the spray dashed in and baptized the little Leas with salt water. All the while they talked, Mr. Hank told exciting stories. Once, when he told a tale of a sea nymph, he ended with "And if you look in the water, you'll see her now." The three little Leas were so eager to see the sea nymph that they almost fell overboard.

"Hold!" cried Mr. Hank, clutching both hands full of sticks and pulling the little Leas back into the boat.

"Don't you see a ladder? That is Mr. Lighthouse Keeper's grand staircase." Mr. Hank brought the boat close up by the rock and the Lighthouse Keeper, Captain Lincoln, came down the ladder and took Polly, Betty and Rosemary, one by one, up in his arms. The light-house was the cleanest place they ever had seen, white and shining. A little girl lived there, Anna Lincoln, the Captain's daughter. She had a parrot, a canary and a mourning bird in cages and she had a little garden with flowers in it growing right among the rocks. The little girl was as clean as the light-house, her hair brushed and braided and her face scrubbed and shining. Her checked gingham gown was spotless. She showed the little Leas where she played in crevices in the rocks, in places where they did not dare to follow her. She could row and swim and she had a great collection of shells and dried mosses, some of which she gave to her visitors when they went away. Her father said proudly that she knew very much about the light as he did, and if anything happened to him she could keep it burning. The two little Leas, Anna's mother being dead, the little Leas made to let her know the seed cakes that Mr. Hank and the little Leas and they had such a beautiful time. When Mr. Hank called out: "Sailing time, all hands aboard," they protested that the light-house was the light-house, however, making especial notice after Captain Lincoln had looked at the sky and remarked: "It looks a bit squally."

"In that case I can't get to shore too quickly with this cargo aboard," replied Mr. Hank.

They had not gone far when the wind began to blow and the water up into little waves, each with a big white crest upon it. Mr. Hank did not talk much, but paid all his attention to his boat. "Why, the sunshine's all gone!" exclaimed Betty.

"I'm cold," complained Rosemary. "My, but this boat does slope a lot," observed Betty.

"Do you think you can help me a little, Polly?" asked Mr. Hank. "Hold on to this rope for a minute, tight. That's it!" cried a voice suddenly. It was the lobster captain.

"Don't try to make the lower landing. Put into the cove here, quick." Mr. Hank obeyed orders. In a few minutes he and the little Leas were safe ashore and running through the rain for the Captain's cottage. That is, Polly and Betty were running and Rosemary was being carried in Mr. Hank's long strong arms.

"How in the name of Neptune did you happen to be out there just at that time?" asked Mr. Hank when they all were safe indoors and the wind was blowing like fury outside.

"Wal, I was out for ye," replied the Captain. "You see, I wanted to show you them red lobsters." Mr. Hank shook the Captain's hand and said: "Thank you. And now I'm going to leave you young ladies in your hands for a little while."

"You're not going out, in the storm, are you?" asked Betty. "Yes, I am. I eloped with these three damsels and I'm going to try to square myself with their parents."

"Oh, if that's the case, Wal, we'll get on without you for one spell." Captain Bailey proved to be an exceedingly entertaining man. First, he showed his visitors the red lobsters and told them they were some of the dark fellows they had seen him taking from the traps a few hours before. "These are the best," he said. "They're red when they're biled, I'm going to give you a lot of them with you when you go. Your ma might scold if I let you eat 'em now. I don't think there's no harm in fresh lobsters, my self, but some folks is skeery 'bout 'em."

That had come to them of adventures that had come to him in the days when he "followed the sea," and then he sang sea songs, some jolly and some sad. "I want to see in a dory. It's a terrible, terrible story. By-law, by-law!"

had to be repeated twice to satisfy his hearers. He was on the last verse when Mr. Hank returned.

"I've confessed and am to be permitted to live one day longer since the damsels are alive and well," said Mr. Hank, and here he sang, Norah, and the little Leas, and when he was done, the Captain said he could be returned to their parents. Captain Hank us for the night, Captain of this sort of things keeps up. It really is unfit for damsels to be abroad. Norah, you see, is winded and I confess to a little fatigue."

The Captain said that he had three beds in his house and he never slept in any of them, preferring a hammock for himself. "Got used to it when I followed the sea," he said. The storm did keep up until night, and the little Leas, after a hearty supper of clam broth and pilot bread, went to sleep in the captain's spare beds.

As sea came after they were a-bed, "You're safe, thank heaven and Captain Bailey," he said, as he kissed them good night.

"And Mr. Hank," murmured Rosemary, "No, I haven't any thanks for Mr. Hank," replied Mr. Leas, "and I don't want you running off to sea again with strange young men."

"I love Mr. Hank," persisted Rosemary. "So do I," said Polly. "And me," added Betty.

Before Mr. Leas could protest they all had drifted away upon the sea of slumber.

The Hermit Crab. The hermit crab is a funny fellow. You may meet him if you go when the sun is shining. One reason that he appears to be so unsocial is that he often has to live in a house that is too small for him. That's worse than having no house at all, for he is too tight, and you know how uncomfortable that is.

When a hermit crab cannot endure his cramped quarters any longer, he looks about for new ones. He looks first at one shell and then at another, considering which will suit him best. When he sees one he likes, he asks the occupant to get out, and if he refuses the hermit crab attacks him. They fight, and whoever is the stronger gets the shell house. Then the hermit crab gets into a shell that suits his larger growth better than his old shell. He stretches himself out in the new house, whatever shape it may be. His old shell he leaves empty on the beach.

THE FUN-MAKING MILLER.

Not every work-a-day miller is so pleased with his labors that he will dance at the thought, but here is one who thoroughly believes in a good time.

Tom miller can make almost as you choose, from a cardboard box or of wood, roughly tracing upon it the suggestion of rock and the door. Since times long past, children have known the art of constructing out of stiff paper the conventional paper windmill—the kind we stick on the end of a pencil and challenge the wind for a duel. A round pole should run through your mill at its top, a spool fastened firmly on one end, as in diagram 3—the wings of the mill on the other. The more delicate the mechanism, the more likely the scheme is to prove successful.

On a base not more than 1 foot distant another spool and another revolving peg is arranged, a string running from one to the other. Diagram one.

Now for the miller. He can be drawn out on stiff paper adjoined at his legs and arms with bent pins. You can make him just as grotesque as you wish, but see that his limbs move freely.

Fasten a hairpin or a piece of wire to the spool beyond the support—see diagram 2—bend the wire into a well handle and adjust the miller.

When the mill is placed so that a brisk wind can strike the paper wheel, the spools will revolve and the miller will go through a series of comical antics as he spins around.

ENDS LIFE BY LEAP

An Heiress Mourns Her Father's Death and Commits Suicide.

Throws Herself From the Ninth Story of New York Hotel.

New York, July 11.—Miss Bertha Dolbear, of San Francisco, 35 years old, heiress to a fortune of $5,000,000, and a sufferer from melancholia since the death of her father, eight months ago, leaped from a ninth story window in the Hotel Waldorf Astoria Saturday afternoon. She was instantly killed. Her companion, Miss Marion Warren, who has guarded her day and night for two months, and was powerless to prevent the tragedy, is prostrated and under the care of two physicians.

Miss Dolbear was a handsome brunette, unusually tall and of good figure. Her father was S. S. Dolbear, an importer of California hardware and an extensive dealer in San Francisco real estate. He was reckoned one of the wealthiest men in California. His wife died many years ago. Bertha was his only child. As Miss Dolbear grew up she acquired all the accomplishments of a girl of her station of life. Her schooling was completed in New York and Paris. She was a good athlete and an able horsewoman. When she returned to her father's home in California he was proud that ever of her. Their mutual devotion was increased, if possible, by the fact that she took none of them seriously. She cared only for her father.

After a brief illness, Mr. Dolbear died eight months ago. His daughter was distraught. She fell into a fit of melancholia from which nothing could rouse her. Her nearest relatives were distant cousins, who were very fond of her, and for a time she visited several of them in turn. But the long absence from her father's home and the death of her father had been so happy. She returned to the home where she and her father had been so happy. She was where they had lived and played and sung together. She would sit in silence before his portrait for hours.

Miss Dolbear's relatives became alarmed. They saw that her health was daily growing weaker. The family physician called others in consultation. They decided that the girl was suffering from melancholia and that the best chance of bettering her condition lay in giving her a complete change of scene. They induced Miss Marion Warren, a second cousin who had gone to the trip, to act as her companion on the trip. The girls sailed for England two months ago. In London, Miss Dolbear complained that the climate depressed her, so the cousins went to Paris. She could hardly be induced to eat. She said Paris was tiresome.

The girls sailed for America on the steamship Deutschland, and arrived in New York on June 30. They went to the Waldorf Astoria, where they occupied suite 522—a parlor, two bedrooms and bath on the ninth floor. They went to the Waldorf Astoria, where they occupied suite 522—a parlor, two bedrooms and bath on the ninth floor. They went to the Waldorf Astoria, where they occupied suite 522—a parlor, two bedrooms and bath on the ninth floor.

The girls took a long drive Saturday through Central Park and along Riverside. They did not return until after 1 p. m., and then Miss Warren ordered luncheon in the apartment. The sick girl ate little or nothing. For a long time afterward she sat gazing at her father's portrait. Suddenly she complained of the heat. "I can't stand it, dear," she said to her cousin. "I feel quite overcome." "But the windows are all open and I am very cool," Miss Warren replied. "Yes, but I think odors are blowing in here," Miss Dolbear insisted. They found out whether they came from the court.

Before Miss Warren could protest, the tall girl had raised both sashes of the window at the end of the corridor. She looked out upon a court twenty feet wide and seventy feet long. The window sill is two feet six inches high and two feet six inches wide. Miss Dolbear leaned far forward and looked out.

Miss Warren made haste to overtake her cousin. As she stepped out into the corridor, her skirt brushed against the lower hinge of the door and caught there. She stooped to untangle it. As Miss Warren after two or three seconds delay, stood upright, she saw Miss Dolbear standing on the broad window sill, holding the curtains aside in either hand. In another instant she silently stepped forward and was gone. Miss Warren's screams brought a maid and two bellboys running. Power of speech had left her, and she could only point at the open window. A man cleaning windows on the third floor had seen Miss Dolbear's body falling. She struck upon the heavy glass roof at the bottom of the court, just south of and above the billiard room on the ground floor. Few persons in the hotel heard the fall.

Quickly the porters and bellboys ran out on the roof and called Miss Dolbear into a room on the first floor. She was unconscious. Dr. Moore and Dr. Homer Gibney, who happened to be in the hotel, examined her within five minutes after she was picked up, and declared she must have died instantaneously. There was a fracture of the base of the skull, a fracture of the left elbow and fractures of the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh ribs.

Miss Warren was completely broken down. After she had made a statement to Detective Sergeant Sullivan of the West Third street precinct, Dr. Gibney gave her an opiate, and under its influence she sank to sleep.

DISPLAYS SIGNS

Ware Has One Door and One on Carriage.

Senator Stewart Has Sold His Costly Stock Farm.

Washington, July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The following lines now adorn the door to the reception room of the Hon. Eugene F. Ware, commissioner of pensions:

"The easy enough to be pleasant. When I flow by like a song; But the man whose while is the man with a smile. When everything goes dead wrong."

They were clipped from a newspaper and brought in to Mr. Ware by a few days ago. "Ironically," with the true instinct of a poet, recognized their merit, and probably their application to his present position, and they were pasted on the outer door that all who run may read.

In days gone by it has been hinted that the inscription upon the door to the lower registers: "All ye who enter here leave hope behind," was the proper one to adorn the portal of the office of commissioner of pensions, and the career of Mr. Ware might indicate that this idea is sane. Nevertheless, and notwithstanding, the present commissioner has evidently found what he deems a poetic epitome of the state of affairs as they now exist, and has stuck it up to express his personal appreciation.

But this is not the only sign the commissioner of pensions displays. There is another, far less conspicuous, but infinitely more important. It shows the power of a down-to-earth department official to outwit vindictive members of congress who seek to lower his dignity by depriving him of official perquisites he has long enjoyed.

When congress, at the last session, decided that there were too many free carriage rides at the expense of the government, and decreed that only certain officers should be allowed carriages, and then only for official use, Ware announced that he would be everlastingly blessed, or the contrary, if he gave his up. The list of July was the time limit set on this problem. Ware had already had the commissioner of pensions told Secretary Hitchcock that he would be willing to have the estimate of his carriages reduced to one, which would then be called a "wagon," if he might retain the use of it. He has had several talks with Secretary Hitchcock on this subject.

Now he has come out strong. On the dashboard of his vehicle he has had painted, in small white letters the magic words: "No carriages." Not, however, on the side where the sign would show prominently, but on the dashboard, where it would be everlastingly blessed, or the contrary, if he gave his up. The list of July was the time limit set on this problem. Ware had already had the commissioner of pensions told Secretary Hitchcock that he would be willing to have the estimate of his carriages reduced to one, which would then be called a "wagon," if he might retain the use of it. He has had several talks with Secretary Hitchcock on this subject.

Senator Stewart of Nevada has sold his 600-acre farm at Ashburn, Va., with all its farming appliances and stock to Judge James Y. Sullivan of the Interstate commerce commission. The price paid for the property is said to have been about $30,000. The farm was owned by Senator Stewart since he was a boy. The stories told of the adventures of the Nevada senator on his Virginia farm are quite similar to those of the great editor it was raising grain and producing that made inroads on his bank account. The farm was practically idle conditions was the subject of his attention. He was bringing about the sale of what has cost $140,000 for $30,000.

When Senator Stewart took Ashburn farm he was seeking to follow the advice of his physician and the dictates of his own inclination for an out-of-door life. He had then passed his 50th birthday and felt the need of recreation in the country. Whatever may have been the reasons, the farm fulfilled the main purpose for which it was bought. It prolonged that health for the senator, and he has been known during a long life. He is today a picture of healthful manhood at the age of 77.

DOINGS IN MICHIGAN

A Grand Marais Woman Has Painful Experience with Needle.

Grand Marais—Miss Sarah Phoenix, of Grand Marais, met with a painful accident the other morning by stepping on a needle while in her stocking feet. The needle penetrated the flesh, going in its full length and breaking into three pieces. The young woman was conveyed to a physician's office where she was placed under ether and the needle was removed. The other was probed for but could not be located. Later she was taken to the hospital, where it could be seen lying directly alongside the bone of the foot; and it has since been removed.

Escanaba—After being in Escanaba for a week to attend a family reunion which was to be held at the home of Mrs. J. B. Plamondon, at 1122 Ludington street, from blood poisoning, Mrs. Plamondon last week was condition regarded as serious and her husband was notified. Hurrying to the home of the sick woman, he arrived before death Mrs. Plamondon in the race and did not reach Escanaba until three hours after she had passed away. All arrangements for the reunion had been made.

The following rural free delivery carriers have been appointed: District—Regular, I. V. Thompson; substitute, Albert V. Westlin, Korah—Regular, Henry J. Meyer; substitute, Christ Meyer.

Rev. Eric Lunden Here. Rev. Eric Lunden, from Newark, N. Y., paid a short visit to Duluth yesterday, preaching in the First Swedish Baptist church in the morning and in the Swedish Bethel church in the evening. Pleasant reminiscences were exchanged with former members of his congregation in the old fatherland, and from Brooklyn, Mass., where he has been since his discharges were a fine revelation of the wonderful transformation of the world through Christ's coming.

Scrofula. Few are entirely free from it. It may develop so slowly as to cause little or no disturbance during the whole period of childhood.

It may then produce irregularity of the stomach and bowels, dyspepsia, catarrh, and marked tendency to consumption before manifesting itself in much more serious eruption or glandular swelling. It is best to be sure that you are quite free from it, and for this complete eradication you can rely on.

REPUBLICANS WILL CONSULT

President, Fairbanks, Cortelyou and Bliss Meet at Oyster Bay.

Oyster Bay, July 11.—National Chairman George B. Cortelyou, accompanied by his confidential secretary, H. O. Weaver, arrived here today. They came directly from Washington, where Mr. Cortelyou has established temporary headquarters preparatory to the opening of the regular Republican headquarters next month in New York and Chicago. Mr. Cortelyou will be a guest of President Roosevelt until some time tomorrow.

President Roosevelt will tonight confer with Senator Charles F. Fairbanks, Republican candidate for vice president, Chairman Cortelyou and Cornelius N. Bliss, of New York, treasurer of the Republican national committee. The entire party will remain over night. Cortelyou declined to be interviewed about the candidate nominated by the Democrats, or any other action of the St. Louis convention. It is understood that at tonight's meeting, the first of the Republican leaders to be held since the party issues were made up, consideration will be given to the nature and scope of the campaign.

PARKER STRONGER Than He Was Before He Was Nominated. Philadelphia, July 11.—In speaking today of the action of the Democratic convention, William F. Harris, former chairman of the Democratic National committee said: Judge Parker's timely telegram to the convention has strengthened his candidacy immensely. He is now a stronger candidate than before he was nominated. His action with reference to the platform of the platform of a gold standard declaration showed great courage and decision of character, and gave him a strong personality which overshadowed what many regard as a defect in the Democratic platform. Judge Parker himself will be the platform of the country. The Democracy is to be congratulated upon having a candidate of such heroic mould, and I predict that his strength will increase as the campaign progresses.

Kansas City, July 11.—William A. Clark, United States senator from Montana today said regarding a ticket named by the Democratic national convention: "It is good ticket and the platform is all right. The silver question as a political issue is dead. We will carry New York and West Virginia will go Democratic."

Injured in Runaway. While driving a borrowed rig on the Garfield avenue viaduct this morning, Charles Krebs, of Duluth, was struck by a street car, thrown out and sustained serious, though not necessarily dangerous, injuries. The horse Krebs was driving became frightened at the car and shield about in such a manner that the wheel was brought in front of the car. Mr. Krebs' injuries consist of a compound fracture of the knee, and his face is badly bruised. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

BASEBALL. TOMORROW 3:30. FARGO vs. DULUTH.

WATERS AT KANSAS CITY HAVE SUBSIDED. Kansas City, July 11.—With the exception of a part of Ashland avenue, in the lower part of Kansas city, the water in the Kansas city, Kan., suburbs has practically disappeared today. It will be several days, however, before some of the streets in the lower portion of Kansas city are dry, as the river has fallen below that level.

TWO HARBORS WON Easily Defeated the Floan-Leverors Ball Team. Two Harbors, July 11.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Floan-Leverors ball team of Duluth met defeat at the hands of the locals here yesterday afternoon in an easy game by a score of 10 to 5. Following was the line-up: Floan-Leverors—Monroe, Left field; Powers, Right field; Center field; Hope, Right; Shortstop; O'Connell, Second base; McDonald, First base; Burns, Pitcher; Arnold, Catcher.

PRINTERS PLAY BALL. Job Office Athletes Hammer the Leather. The printers took tossing toy, laid aside their aprons, and washed the ink from their hands, and turned out Saturday afternoon to show the good people of Duluth the great national game should be played. The employees of J. L. Le Tourneau and the Christie Co. were the opposing lines, and it was a finish fight, neither side asking nor granting mercy.

Minnesota Canal Company Amends Its Proceedings. An amended motion in the condemnation proceedings of the Minnesota Canal and Power company, filed in district court, asking that several other parties be made respondents in the case was granted by Judge Dubois Saturday afternoon. The parties thus made respondents are those owning lands the company seeks to condemn, and who were not named in the original petition.

OUR JULY CLEARANCE SALE

Is creating unbounded enthusiasm amongst women who buy the better class of goods—

Surpassing values which you cannot afford to overlook. Prices reduced to a figure where every purchase made here means a saving.

This week should be a record breaker. We've prepared for and expect the busiest six days of the year.

There's a share for every woman, the reductions are not confined to two or three departments, but are in order throughout the entire house.

Our buyers go East in a few weeks. Heavy stocks must be trimmed down to the proper figure before their departure.

We make it a rule never to carry a single style from one season to another. This accounts for the newness and freshness of the lines in every department. This is why Duluth women come here for the latest styles and the most reliable goods.

Tomorrow would be a good day to look around and acquaint yourself with what we are doing.

TURPENTINE PLANT.

Weyerhaeuser Interests Said to be Going Into One.

It is rumored that the Weyerhaeuser interests are figuring on starting a turpentine factory, a deal having been nearly completed, according to report, for the purchase by the Cloquet Lumber company of the turpentine plant at Hinkley.

The Hinkley plant has been operating for some time. The company owning it paid $2 per cord for pine stumps, or agreed to clear a farm of pine stumps for the stumps.

More Names Added. Minnesota Canal Company Amends Its Proceedings. An amended motion in the condemnation proceedings of the Minnesota Canal and Power company, filed in district court, asking that several other parties be made respondents in the case was granted by Judge Dubois Saturday afternoon. GAMES SUNDAY.

Grand Forks at Crookston.

From the great wheat center of the Canadian Dominion there came a bunch of champions. The pennant-possessors, who were remembered for their temerity to take the first game from the White Sox and Saturday and Sunday with all their slaughter house prodigiousness, they started for the ball grounds with the intention of breaking up Duluth's long winning streak.

lit and O'Leary flew out. Then Corrigan and Little Joe Wilkes broke Bartos' heart by slugging out a two-bagger which cleared the bases.

Wilkes wasn't satisfied with getting two hits out of four times up, one Corrigan 2, two-bagger, but he had to bring the fans to their feet by a circus catch in the ninth. Spooner, the first man up, jammed out something that looked good for about three bases.

The fans didn't even look at the grass and just as the ball was dropping down behind the center field fence only the fans saw a hit shoot under it and grab the sphere. It was one of the prettiest running catches ever seen in Duluth, and Wilkes got the ovation he deserved.

That called for an attempt at a rally, and the next three maroons went like lambs to the slaughter.

THE REAL THING
Herald Team Now Bounds Into Amateur Base Ball Field.

Would Play News-Tribune Bunch—Millers Get Slugged.

The real team has come forward at last. Held back by the natural modesty of its members and the aversion to notoriety, its debut has been delayed until late in the season, but no longer will it remain in the mists of obscurity, hiding its light under a bushel and its playing from a clamorous herald.

The Herald team is now an organized body prepared to play anything in the line of ball. The Duluth Evening Herald baseball team is now an organized body prepared to play anything in the line of ball.

CONDUCTOR KILLED
And Brakeman Injured on the Wisconsin Central.

Ashtland, Wis., July 11.—Wilbur R. Curry, a conductor on the Wisconsin Central railway, was almost instantly killed and Harvey Allen, brakeman, seriously injured as the result of the derailment of a caboose near Plumbers' Gap, a small station located a short distance from the city.

While the train, which was running about sixty miles an hour to make up for lost time, was climbing a hill, the coupling between two of the cars suddenly broke and one was hurled off the track. The conductor and brakeman were on the caboose, attempted to jump to save their lives, but failed to do so in time. Curry was struck in the head and died almost instantly. Allen received severe internal injuries and the physicians doubt that his life can be saved.

Curry was about 30 years old and married. He is survived by a wife and three small children. Both men lived in Ashtland.

AT IRONWOOD.
Ironwood, Mich., July 11.—(Special to The Herald.) Mrs. A. Lieberthal left Friday for Cleveland, Ohio, where she will visit for several days.

The home of Andrew Ryes on Marquette street was partially destroyed by fire Friday night. The fire was discovered by some neighbors, who notified the fire department. The fire was quickly extinguished. The damage to the building is $500.

CRUSHED TO DEATH
Ashtland, Wis., July 11.—In attempting to jump from an empty car to a loaded train yesterday morning, Amos Darby, a tapper at the Wisconsin Central ore docks, fell in between two cars, and after being dragged for fifty feet to a switch, was crushed to death by the sharp point of the frog and two hours later died from his injuries.

IN WOMAN'S SPHERE

Social, Musical and Art Circles.

One of the advantages of the city for the boys and girls which is greatly appreciated by them, is the children's department of the library. When the library moved into the Carnegie building, the books for children were put in a room for themselves and the department became at once one of the most popular in the institution.

One of the features of the work is the story hour on Saturday morning when the children gather in the club room and are amused for an hour with stories of an instructive nature. For a while the old German legends were told, Kipling's animal stories discussed and at present a story in which their interest may have been awakened by some outside event occupies the time.

Last Saturday morning the training of wild animals was spoken of by Miss Ruth Ely, who is in charge of the department.

During vacation ten or a dozen children may be found at the tables interestingly devoted to the literature there, while a steady stream of children are exchanging books. While no rules are laid down restricting their reading, a steady effort is expended to incultivate a taste for the best in literature. The department is one for which all parents should be duly thankful.

Miss Holmes' Musicales.

This evening the pupils of Miss Winifred Holmes will entertain at a musicale at the Spalding. Mrs. James McLaughlin and Miss Mary Syer Bradshaw will direct. The program includes the aria "Ernani, Ernani, Invola mi" by Verdi and Miss Bradshaw will sing a grand song, "A Discontented Duckling" and "A Little Fish I Wish I Were," by Jessie Gayzor, and a Tchaikovsky number, "Legend." The remainder of the program will be published. The first number will be given at 8:30.

Events of Interest.

Mrs. F. R. Leslie was hostess this afternoon for the Young Ladies' Card club at her home, 1431 East Superior street.

Tomorrow evening Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Bishop will entertain at a dancing party in honor of Miss Goodman, of Chicago.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Buffan, of Minneapolis, are the guests for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Warren, of No. 2, Munger terrace.

northern part of the state, where she will remain a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coleman, of Wichita, are spending the summer on Park Point.

Mrs. James McLaughlin and child have gone to Frontenac and Lake City to spend the summer.

Birthday Party.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. George Drewitt, of 826 East Fourth, entertained a birthday party in honor of their daughter, Miss Sophia Drewitt. Pedro was played and the prizes were won by Miss Gertrude Dwello and George Dwello. Those present were:

Misses—Zuck, McCue, Gertrude Dwello, Ella Dugan, Georgiana Anderson, Clara Stenberg, L. Messers—Faggarty, Henry Girth, George Kikin, E. Behning, W. Metter.

All the Same.

Young Caterby, who had been married only two months, leaped back into his chair and gazed pensively out into the distance, says New York Life.

"It's simply remarkable about my wife," he said.

Von Blumer, who had been married ten years, gazed at his young friend with some show of interest.

"Why," said Caterby, "I refer to the manner in which she has caught on. When I think of the luxury she had, it's remarkable. That girl—"

Von Blumer stopped him with an authoritative gesture.

"Yes," he said, "I know all about it. That girl, as you say, was brought up to have everything in the world. Why, she didn't know what it was to raise a finger. It was the one thing that troubled you, wasn't it? When you married her, you couldn't give her as much as you know, as she had had, and it worried you. But now, just look at her. She has caught on right hold. She gives the nicest little dinners. She superintends them all herself. She is developing all, she is, oh, so economical!"

"From what you were half afraid was a spoiled child she has grown into a thrifty, wise, efficient housekeeper. Isn't that right?"

Caterby turned in amazement. "My Jove!" he exclaimed, "that's just what I was going to say. How did you know so much about it?"

"Because I've got such a good memory."

"What has that to do with it?"

Von Blumer smiled. "At present," he replied, "I am not sure."

ent my wife is spending all her spare time handling me in a line of bills that would stagger a gas president, and she's so busy with the neighbors that I'm thinking of hiring a housekeeper. But, my dear boy, I can well remember when I, too, had only been married two months.

Charming Fruit Manners.

"She has such charming fruit manners," said a girl of a famous belle. "She doesn't know it, but she dips her strawberries in the powdered sugar, or holds her banana at breakfast, as if they were roses or violets. You forget that eating is a material process, and is sure it is poetry. I had seen so many people eat their bananas with a knife and fork that I looked for banana etiquette. I found that one may turn the skin back part of the way and hold the fruit in her fingers if she chooses, without shocking the proprieties."

Vacancy Filled.

At the meeting of the executive board of the Twentieth Century club this morning, Mrs. Z. D. Scott was elected to fill the vacancy in the office of second vice-president, caused by the resignation of Mrs. J. H. Crowley. Mrs. Scott will be chairman of the membership committee and all applications may be sent to her. The year book is being made up and will be ready for distribution in a week or two.

SAILING RACES.

Results in the Contests Saturday Afternoon.

A fifteen knot breeze and clear weather made ideal sailing conditions Saturday afternoon, and the members of the Duluth Boat club had some good sport in the harbor. Five of the boats in the one design class, number 3, finished as follows: Feather, Miss Modesty, No. 10, Northwind, Scud.

Mildred J. had of it in the schooner class walking away from her rival Water Lily, finishing nearly ten minutes ahead of her.

In the one design class, the gun was fired at 1:50 and Miss Modesty, Gooch, Feather, Lyman, at 1:50:15; No. 10, C. A. Congdon, 1:50:17; Scud, Holland, 1:50:18; and the Northwind, Hopkins, 1:50:20.

At the turn Feather leading rounded the buoy at 2:45:40; Miss Modesty was a close second at 2:46:30; No. 10 at 2:47:55; Northwind at 2:49:47 and Scud at 2:52:24. The vessels held the same position at the finish. Feather crossing the line at 3:42:55; Miss Modesty 3:41:16; No. 10 at 3:42:31; Northwind, 3:45:41 and Scud at 3:49:45.

THE EVENING STORY.

THE UNION LABEL

By Kennett Harris.

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

The goods were all right and there wasn't any trouble. Billy Hinton, the traveling salesman for Landanner & Co., the trouble was they hadn't got the union label. I had to knock the same proposition once or twice on my last trip. "Who didn't take the union label and 'em elated before they were shipped?" asked Mr. Landanner.

"You can't put union label on 'em unless they're union made," said Chornbly, "you can't stick 'em on a piece of goods unless you've got union labor. You haven't got union labor, so there you are."

"What's the matter with having the handle unionize?"

"Well, you can label your goods then all right."

"Then we'll organize 'em," said Mr. Landanner. "We can't afford to be missing orders this way."

He called to him Billy Hinton, the foreman of the factory. "Don't you want to organize a union?" Chornbly tells me we are losing business by not having the union label. And I want you people to organize right away. I don't know as we want any union, began the foreman. "I haven't got any time to spare for them hucksters."

"I don't care a cent whether whether you want it or whether you don't want it," said his employee with a frown, "want it and that will have to be enough for you."

"Very well, sir," said Hinton, submissively. "I'll tell the hands about it and I'll see 'em well organized."

"There's no 'souse' about it," said Mr. Landanner. "I'll see 'em well organized. The next morning Billy Hinton, shambled into Mr. Landanner's private office and in a hesitating, nervous manner told his employer that he would like to speak with him a minute or two.

"Well," snapped Mr. Landanner, "what is it now?"

"It's about that union, sir."

"The hands don't seem to like the idea. You see, it's the same way we said it was with me. There's going to be meetings 'an' we've got to get a place to meet. It's going to cost money for dues 'an' since the last cut in wages on the overtime on the contracts."

"Nonsense," said Mr. Landanner. "They don't need to meet that I know of. Who would they want to meet for? I'll give 'em time to meet and organize and I'll let one of the clerks make out your application for a charter."

"And about the dues?"

"You'll have to settle that among yourselves. I suppose you'd like me to pay 'em?"

"We thought as you wanted us to organize."

"I'm not going to argue the question with you. I'm not going to pay 'em. The union is a belief, and it's your own dues. In the cities they get apart from their wages to pay 'em. You'll have to do that if it's necessary."

"They got more wages than we do," said Billy Hinton. "I've been to a good deal of expense to please place for you to work. You've got good ventilation and light and I don't know what more you want. Now, see here, I'm busy now, and I haven't time to let you call a meeting for tomorrow evening—now meet here if you like—anybody who doesn't attend will get fired. That's all."

"I'll give them fresh air," grumbled Mr. Landanner. "His foreman had left. Billy Hinton went out and met a picnic with unlimited lemonade and yet when I ask them to go a little out of their way for me they don't want to do it. Talk about your gratitude!"

Within a week the union was formed and shortly after that a large stock of labels was had. There was a good deal of dissatisfaction in the factory and two or three men positively refused to join. These Mr. Landanner promptly discharged and the mutiny was quelled for the time being.

It broke out again, though, when the executive board levied a general assessment on the organization. The members had enough time to make both ends meet as it was without being led for the benefit of outsiders who were better off than they were.

"The assessment ain't coming," said Billy Hinton. "Strike! I'd like to see 'em take the assessment and beat it out of my employees' wages."

It looks as if you would have a strike on your hands, said Mr. Landanner, who was in from his last trip.

Mr. Landanner snorted contemptuously. "I'd like to know how they are going to take the assessment. I'd like to suppose any of them are a week's wages ahead of the world. Unless, perhaps, Billy Hinton. Strike! I'd like to see 'em take the assessment and beat it out of my employees' wages."

Nevertheless, Billy Hinton, acting as spokesman for the hands, actually did strike. He said that he was particularly insubordinate that Mr. Landanner actually argued the point with him. "I don't care a cent whether whether you want it or whether you don't want it," said his employee with a frown, "want it and that will have to be enough for you."

"Very well, sir," said Hinton, submissively. "I'll tell the hands about it and I'll see 'em well organized."

"There's no 'souse' about it," said Mr. Landanner. "I'll see 'em well organized. The next morning Billy Hinton, shambled into Mr. Landanner's private office and in a hesitating, nervous manner told his employer that he would like to speak with him a minute or two.

HOW THEY TAKE IT

Mayor Cullum Wants to Hear Further From Judge Parker.

The developments at St. Louis, where the national Democratic convention was in progress, have been received in Duluth with various emotions. The conservative element of the party looks with pleasure on the platform and the candidate. They were heartily pleased on Saturday, but when they learned of the many stunts taken by Judge Parker in refusing to accept the nomination with any false impression existing as to his views, they were more than ever satisfied.

The radical element of the party, who gave enthusiastic support to Hearst, accepts the situation, but is naturally not so well pleased with it. There is no talk of bolting the ticket, and while one of the most radical of the faction, one of the bolting party, most earnestly for "Hearst and Progress," remarks that "Judge Parker was silent, we can be silent now," most of them are accepting the situation as does T. T. Hudson. He says the platform and the candidate offer so much more than does the Republican party that there is no inducement for any Democrat to do other than support them.

Mayor Cullum does not as yet place himself upon the hand wagon. "I would prefer not to give any opinion just yet concerning the matter," said he, when asked of his opinion of the outcome of the convention. "Mr. Parker has not yet accepted the nomination, nor as yet made any public statement concerning it. I would like to read what he has to say to the people before expressing any opinion."

Bert Fesler, city attorney, when asked for his opinion of the ticket said: "I shall support the ticket. When asked for a more extended statement of his views Mr. Fesler said that he had been too much occupied with other matters to study the personality of the candidates.

F. W. Sullivan expressed his views of the nominee and the platform very concisely. He said: "Judge Parker is a Democrat, who is a good candidate and a good platform."

T. T. Hudson says today: "The East wanted Parker for nominee. Now they have him and I think they have a candidate that will win. I regard the platform as a very fair one; anyway, it is better than the Republican platform. It will be very much to the advantage of the Democrats in the East. I found that so when on my visit to Washington."

D. G. Cash said he would rather not express himself to any extent until he had time to think it over. Mr. Cash said that while the Democratic platform was not all that some of the Democrats would like to have it, it would probably answer the purpose for the coming campaign.

C. O. Baldwin declined to express an opinion. Mr. Baldwin stated that he is out of politics now and devoting his attention to his business and would prefer to keep out of anything soiling of politics.

Thomas F. McGilvray, the nomination of Mr. Parker pleases me first-rate. Not only that, but there are many things which would surprise me more than to see him elected.

F. L. Ryan was one of the firm believers in the strength of Judge Parker as a candidate. "I am more than pleased with the ticket," he said. "The telegram which he sent to the convention will have an excellent effect for it tells everyone that he is a Democrat and shows that he wanted them to know it. He would have no deception or misstatement in his mind, and he is perfectly honest with his party. People like that kind of a man and he will grow upon them every day. I have visited much in New York state and in that way have come to know how he is regarded there. He is held in the highest esteem and is recognized as a man of the highest of character. We have a ticket that will win."

"It's a very good ticket, indeed," said William McKay, the hotel man, this morning, speaking of the St. Louis nominations. "I don't see how the convention could have done better. Judge Parker is a clever man and it would be hard to find anywhere a man who will more creditably represent the party in the campaign this fall."

"With such a man as he at the head of the ticket it certainly gives little chance for misjudging the strength of the sentiment being strengthened right along against the Republican party, the Democratic ticket has an excellent chance. The manliness of Judge Parker in coming out and declaring himself on the gold platform is something that's going to make a whole lot of votes for him. It was a pointed statement on an issue that a great many people were thinking about, and his way of declaring himself was just about as keen and pointed as the public could ask. It removes an element of uncertainty about his candidacy that a large number of people were anxious to be clear on."

M. J. Filakowski. Every man has a right to his opinions, and Judge Parker is no exception to the rule. He was given the support of the convention and the big majority endorsed his views. Mr. Parker is entitled to the support of all good Democrats, and I will fall in line with the rest."

Frank H. Wade: I believe Judge Parker was the best possible man the convention could have picked to run for president on the Democratic ticket.

He did right in sending that telegram, letting the people know how he stood, and I think more of the man for it. Anyone who is afraid to have or express opinions is a pretty poor sort.

Alderman David Sang: Just the right sort of a platform was adopted by the convention. I am not prepared to express my opinion of Judge Parker or his nomination until we have heard further from him.

Body of Unknown Man is Taken From the Bay.

The body of an unknown man was taken from Lake Avenue ship yesterday morning by a crew of men from the vessel, and was taken to the morgue of Flood & Morgan to await identification. The body was that of a man about 40 years of age and it had evidently been in the water three or four months, as it was in an advanced stage of decomposition.

The name of Ole Olson was found in a little metal box in the vest pocket, but further than this nothing is known of the identity of the man.

The body had not been identified up to a late hour this afternoon. Peter Erickson, of Arvid, visited the morgue yesterday afternoon, and stated that his brother or sister had disappeared about March 25, and had not been seen since. He thought that the body bore some resemblance to his brother, but could not say for certain. He took some samples of the cloth and will endeavor to complete the identification by visiting the local tailors where his brother was accustomed to buy his clothes.

PROBABLY THIS WEEK

Cardinal Satolli Likely to Be Here in a Few Days.

Probably Cardinal Satolli will be in Duluth some day this week. He is scheduled to be in St. Paul today, where he will remain until Wednesday or Thursday. A dispatch from the Herald from Chicago, where the cardinal spoke to a crowd of several thousand people, says that he is expected to be in Duluth on Wednesday or Thursday, and that he is expected to be in Duluth on Wednesday or Thursday, and that he is expected to be in Duluth on Wednesday or Thursday.

Recovers For Salary.

Miss E. G. Smiley, a school teacher in Duluth, has recovered the sum of $100 in the municipal court this morning, after having been held for two months on a writ of habeas corpus.

The members of the school board for the district claimed that Miss Smiley had agreed to obtain a first-class certificate for the school, and that she had failed to do this. Miss Smiley denied this claim, and said that she had been told by the board that she had to obtain a first-class certificate, and that she had been told by the board that she had to obtain a first-class certificate.

Bitten By Dog.

Little Marie Rakowsky, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Rakowsky, of Fifty-seventh street, was bitten by a dog belonging to a neighbor.

The dog was playing when a boy, living in the neighborhood, claimed to have set the dog on her. The animal bit the child on the leg, and the child was taken to the hospital for treatment.

WOMAN DIES FROM EFFECT OF INJURIES.

PRIZE FIGHTING MUST CEASE.

Chicago, July 11.—Mayor Harrison today declared that prize fighting is a disgrace to the city and that it must be stopped. He said that prize fighting is a disgrace to the city and that it must be stopped.

NEW RANGE CARS

Observation Coaches Now Building For the Range Roads.

Two Excursions From the West Coming to Duluth This Week.

Plans of the new observation cars, which are to be placed on the Duluth & Iron Range and Duluth, Missabe & Northern road this summer, indicate that the equipment will be very roomy and comfortable. Drawings on the scale of half an inch to the foot are in the hands of local officials of the road. Each car is to be sixty-five feet long and about nine feet wide. The main apartment will be the observation room, which, extending over half the length of the car, will contain twenty-six wicker chairs, thirteen on each side. These will be movable and readily adapted to any position the tourists may wish to sit in to look at the scenery. The chairs will be equipped with velvet cushions and will be arranged in the observation room, near the center of the car, will be a series of apartments for the use of the passengers. Between the observation room and end of the car, will be a series of apartments for the use of the passengers. Gen. Kuroki's headquarters, Tuesday, June 8, via Peking, July 10 via Seoul, July 11.—For the first time during the war, newspaper correspondents and military attaches have been permitted to accompany the Japanese troops on an advance, instead of remaining behind with the headquarters of the army. Almost all the correspondents are now attached to the staffs of the division generals, and although they are not on the fighting line, they now witness the operations from a closer range than heretofore. Lieut. Gen. Kuroki, one of the British admirals, travels with Gen. Kuroki. Col. Hume, another British attaché, and Col. Crowder, of the general staff of the army, are to go with the western column. Captain P. C. March of the artillery corps, U. S. A., is to travel with the eastern column.

Wheat Rate Advances an Eighth on an Improved Demand.

Woolen Not Yet Loaded at Escanaba—Vigilant Breaks Down.

The grain rate on wheat from Duluth to Buffalo has stiffened slightly and is 1c instead of 1c as it was during most of last week. Shippers have been selling more wheat to the East since the west has been short of grain in the north.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that the power of the court obtained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and titled, the said mortgage was closed and the premises described therein covered by said mortgage, viz: section (24), Town fifty-one (51) north, southeast quarter (se4) of section (24), Town fifty-one (51) north, range nineteen (19) west, according to government survey, hereof.

Said premises will be sold at auction to the highest bidder for any said debt and interest, and for $25.00 on said premises, and fees ($5.00) dollars, attorney's fees hereon, and more to be added, to clear and the disbursements at law, which sale will be made by the sheriff of St. Louis County, Mo. at the front door of the court house in the city of Duluth, in the said state, on the 15th day of May, 1906, at 10 o'clock a. m., subject to redemption at any time, one year from date of sale, as by law.

THE WOLVIN'S TRIP.
Her trip with a record breaking cargo of ore and lumber was completed August 8. Wolvin before the middle of the month had been loaded with 1000 tons of lumber. The big freighter arrived at Escanaba about 10 o'clock and the cargo was light as expected and it is believed that from the congested condition of things at Escanaba the ship will be filled early and had been hoped.

VIGILANT BRAKS DOWN.
For the second time this season the tug Vigilant, of New York, has broken her keel. Yesterday while towing logs, she was towing a large raft from the Goose-e-river, on the north shore, across the river to a log boom. The tug was in the middle of the river when she occurred. The tug, Zenith, of the Union Wrecking & Wrecking company, left last evening to complete the work of taking the raft across the lake. The tug was in the lake for the past two days, so no serious results to the raft resulted from the accident.

OCEAN STEAMSHIPS.
New York, July 11.—Arrived:—

PAID FARE BACK.

According to an order issued by United States Commissioner Pressnell, Fred M. Smith, Capt. J. S. Brewenell, will have the fare paid back to Chicago by the shipper.

Duluth, claiming the man was innocent, because he did not belong to the union, and that Smith, with this meaning to delay him in his return to Chicago, but rather than to delay here he guaranteed the return.

ALL WANT CARGOES.

Chicago, July 1st.—(Special to the Herald.)—The Chicago market for cargo today was a cent for small lots as well as for large cargoes. One lot outside the lines were paid. While some vessel-owners seem to be providing cargo at a low rate, others are not, so that all of them get into line and are anxious to get cargoes. If the rate were as high as it is.

THE MIDLAND RELEASED.

The Midland, Capt. J. H. Kincardine, July 1st. The ship was released by the Midland Queen which was near here, was taken by the Fairweather and sent to the coast.

Several Hundred Beautiful Waists Go Into the Riddance Sale of Women's Wearables Tomorrow!

Several hundred of the handsomest waists—the best made waists and the most perfect fitting waists that have ever graced the shelves of a Duluth store. We've done a wonderful business on them—and have sold them to the most critical and best dressed women at the Head of the Lakes! The time for cleaning up this stock also has come—and tomorrow will see the beginning of the most important selling of Women's Waists that Duluth has seen for some time. In many instances we're satisfied to get half—in some instances slightly more than half—but in every instance you can see our desire to rid our stock of summer goods, meaning dollars to you! Here are instances:

About twenty dozen Waists of fine lawn—pleated front and back, made up for fine trade—are perfect fitting—neat and tasty—regularly sold at $1, some at $1.25, all on sale tomorrow at 50c.

The Remarkable Selling of Women's Tailored Suits and Silk Coats and Covert and Black Jackets, Costumes and Dresses Continues!

When it is considered that this store has been open only slightly over three months and that everything offered in these sales are practically new, fresh goods, then women can understand what values they are getting. We know it to be a positive fact that the same style garments being sold in this sale now, are being shown by prominent manufacturing firms in their fall samples—this because most of the present stock was bought late this season—so that in buying now, and here, you have the satisfaction of knowing that your garment can be worn next fall and winter—and you're buying it at a mere fraction of its regular worth—because we must make room for new stocks that will be sent on by our buyers, who will soon go East.—We repeat these values for tomorrow:

Stylish Women's Tailored Suits that were $25.00, $29.50 and $32.50, at $9.75—That were $35.00, $37.50 and $39.50, at $13.75.

ITS HEART OUTSIDE.

An infant living 16 days and 4 hours with its heart entirely exposed, reposing upon the outside of the tiny body and performing its functions in plain view of more than a score of people who came to behold the remarkable phenomenon that has astonished the physicians and physiologists hereabouts, says the Cape Charles correspondent of the New York World.

So far as known there is no parallel case on record.

That the uncanny thing should startle and awe the simple folk of the eastern shore, just across Hampton roads from here, is not at all surprising.

A few weeks ago there was born to Capt. and Mrs. William E. Owens, of Northampton county, Va., a daughter. It was the first child that had come to brighten the lives of the afterman and his wife. In all respects save two the tiny bit of femininity was a perfect specimen of babyhood. One of the defects, however, was fatal.

The heart, instead of being in the place where nature intended it to be, was on the outside of the left breast. And there, in full view of all who chose to observe, it performed its functions 15 days before the little life began under such extraordinary conditions, was snuffed out.

The second strange feature of the case was that the left arm was fixed to the body, nature seeming to take that method of protecting the vital organ from a collision with the arm, which would necessarily be fatal.

Dr. Goode, of Cape Charles, attended the mother and child. He says he can offer no explanation of the phenomenon. It is merely a fantasy of nature, and he believes there is no similar case on record.

The heart had evidently worked its way through a small hole through the side, there was a small hole through the side, through before reaching the growth it showed at birth, because the cavity was not sufficiently large to admit of the heart being replaced where nature intended it to do its work, even were it possible to perform such an operation.

The child was never dressed, as clothing would have interfered with the action of the heart, and every possible effort was made to prolong the life of the little one.

The mother has her own theory regarding the case. She says a few months before the child was born she was with her husband on one of his fishing trips. A sudden storm arose and a boat near theirs became partly swamped. Capt. Owens went to the rescue of the imperiled craft. As his boat neared the sinking boat, he was thrown violently forward. His wife was looking on in agonized suspense. For an instant she thought her husband had gone overboard into the sea.

"My heart," she says in telling the story, "seemed to burst right up into my throat," she says in telling the story.

The neighbors of the Owenses accept this as a logical explanation, but the medical men smile at it.

Dr. Goode says the phenomenon case has attracted wide interest, judging from the numerous inquiries bearing on it he has received from men eminent in the world of medicine and surgery. Drs. Johnson and McGuire, distinguished surgeons of Richmond, have evinced the liveliest interest in the case. All admit that they have never known of a parallel for the Owens infant.

Dr. Goode says he has been asked by several surgeons why he did not attempt to save the child's life by the use of the surgeon's knife. It has been suggested that he might have performed a successful operation by opening the walls of the breast and letting the heart into its place through the aperture thus made.

He replied to this saying that the careful investigation he made convinced him of the impossibility of such recourse. The lungs, he says, were expanded to such extent and so peculiarly situated that the heart could not have withstood the pressure; its beatings would have been stopped in short order.

"It is apparent," says the doctor, "that while the body of the child was undergoing formation in its earlier stages the heart became entangled with something that drew it to the outside of the chest. There it remained and grew with the gradual development of the other parts of the body. Being a heavy organ, its own weight held it out, while the flesh and cuticle beneath it slowly closed."

The case of the Owens child is the only known instance of a deformity in that family in four generations—a remarkably good record.

The apprentices but comfortable little home of Capt. and Mrs. Owens is situated on the shore of Chesapeake bay, five miles to the northward of Cape Charles. It is an ideal country home of antique style. The house has been occupied by the Owenses for four generations.

OPPOSING ARMIES NOW FACE TO FACE READY FOR BATTLE

Grimly Await Death Grapple on Either Side of River.

Russian Army Anxious to Get at Gen. Kuroki's Forces.

Sickness Increases Among Czar's Forces Since Rain Began.

Headquarters of General Count Keller, Nuts King, Eleven Miles west of Lian Dian Shan, July 12.—The opposing armies are grimly facing each other on the heights across the Lian river, ready to engage in a death grapple.

The Lian crosses the main Liao Yang-Feng Yang Wang, Cheng road, twenty-eight miles east of Liao Yang. It flows north into the Tai Tse river, which passes through Liao Yang and empties into the Liao river.

The correspondent of the Associated Press, who arrived here after a thirty-five mile ride from Liao Yang, saw long lines of infantry and transport trains winding through the mountains. At Lian Dian Shan, a lookout, stationed in a tree top pointed out the way to Gen. Keller's headquarters, near Nuts King.

There the Russian eastern army was found, hidden in the hills, in a plain tent the correspondent saw Gen. Keller, living like a simple soldier, his staff being quartered in a native hut nearby.

The Russian army, which is well equipped and well trained, is expected to be the Russian capital. They have been hard fighting, for hardly a day passes without collisions between the advance posts of the eastern army and the Japanese.

The whole army is anxious to fight Gen. Kuroki, whose headquarters are at Lian Dian Shan, and whose men are entrenched on the other side of the river. The burning question is who will be the first to cross the dread valley of the Lian river.

SICK AND WOUNDED.

Increase in Manchurian Army Since Rains Began.

St. Petersburg, July 12.—An official statement of the number of sick and wounded belonging to the Manchurian army shows a great increase in sickness after a few days' rain and also a large proportion of the sick and wounded are according to the listed strength of the army. Before the rains, to June 26, the total was 10,000. Officers 71 and men 39 per thousand, of whom wounded officers numbered 29 per thousand and the men 9 per thousand.

Contagious cases had risen to 9 per thousand, affecting in equal proportions dysentery and typhus and introducing scurvy and smallpox, of which there were 3 cases, and bringing up the plague to 1 case. Twenty-two cases of horse and cattle plague were also reported.

RUSSIAN RETIRING.

Newchwang, July 12.—Chinese coming in from the country report the Russians retiring before the Japanese, who are soon expected here. Active preparations are being made for the defense at Ta Te Kiso. Business at this city, despite the situation, is brisk and many shops are in the port.

A TORPEDO ATTACK.

Tokio, July 12.—Admiral Togo reports that at midnight, July 11, torpedo boats approached the boom which blocks the entrance to Port Arthur harbor and attacked the guardship Diana with torpedoes. The result has not been ascertained. The Japanese boats returned undamaged.

RUSSIAN SHIPS MAKE SORTIE.

Chefoo, July 12.—It is reported that five Russian cruisers and several torpedo boats left Port Arthur at 8 o'clock on Saturday morning last and shelled the enemy's positions on the east coast, returning undamaged at 6 o'clock in the evening. It is believed they encountered Admiral Togo's ships and were forced to return.

A junk which arrived here this morning reports hearing two terrific explosions at Port Arthur yesterday.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN HOLIDAY.

St. Petersburg, July 12.—This is the festival of St. Peter and St. Paul, one of the greatest holidays of the year. All business is suspended and the government departments are closed.

The papers here are again exploiting the prospects of an Anglo-Russian understanding. The Novosti declaring the idea is no longer utopian, but holds out advantages to both countries, which are recognized more and more every day, a remarkable feature being that the war, which one would think would have driven them apart, is really drawing them together.

MAY EVACUATE NEWCHWANG.

St. Petersburg, July 12.—Col. Stepanov, of the general staff, in an interview today, says:

CLEVER SMUGGLING SCHEME UNEARTHED

Inspectors' Labels Pasted on Trunks Without Examination.

New York, July 12.—Behind the arrest of the wireless telegraph operator and a hospital steward employed on one of the largest trans-Atlantic liners, charged with smuggling Sumatra tobacco, the customs officials claim to have unearthed a new and ingenious method of smuggling of diamonds, silks, tobacco and other merchandise which should pay a high duty.

Frauds on the government of enormous proportions are believed to have been perpetrated by this method. Its successful conduct required a combination of expressmen, steamship employees and possibly government officials. Its beneficiaries are possibly its promoters, are believed to be merchants of this city, some of them men of wealth and prominence.

Smuggling in trunks, carried as passenger's baggage, upon which labels indicating that they had been properly examined and passed by the inspectors were surreptitiously pasted, is the method. In addition to the persons mentioned, two others have been arrested and a large force of special treasury agents is at work seeking out persons accused of participation in the frauds.

The conspirators arranged to smuggle into the United States, under the scheme said to have been in use, marked with a private mark, and placed with the hundreds of other trunks owned by passengers, a trunk no larger than the confederates of the smugglers on board the ship were in a position to reach the baggage and upon the trunks of the smugglers they pasted the special label, indicating that an inspector had examined the contents of the trunk and found nothing dutiable therein. When the customs officials came across a trunk with such a label on it, they passed on, the trunk was then carried to the pier and passed into the hands of its owners.

To get these labels was the first requisite of the successful prosecution of the new method. They may have been printed and placed in the hands of men who could affix them to the trunks or they may have been washed off trunks properly passed by express men who are employed to transport them from the piers.

In a single trunk passed by the duplicate label system a smuggler might bring into America enough diamonds to make him independently wealthy. How far the ramifications and the extent of this new scheme have gone has not yet been determined. The express men working on and waiting for bigger game, they were compelled to take action through the wrong address placed on a trunk, found later to contain leaf tobacco intended for a manufacturer of cigars in Brooklyn. The duty on the leaf, there were 65 pounds, is $1 a pound. Two other trunks which came by the same steamer were found to contain 137 pounds of Sumatra leaf. One of the prisoners is said to have revealed the secrets of the band.

CANNOT CURE MAN'S BROKEN BACK

New York, July 12.—Louis M. Gardner, of Milwaukee, Wis., a trapeze performer, whose back was broken three years ago by a fall during an exhibition in London, has arrived here, and is being taken back to his old home, after having been treated by the best European specialists, who, however, gave no hope for his recovery.

Gardner's fall in the London circus was witnessed by the New York Times. The performer, although badly stunned for a moment, was so cool over his misfortune that the banker became interested and gave directions that a nurse be employed and the young man treated regardless of expense. His directions were followed, and during three years passed the injured spine, but the surgeons declared that it could not be accomplished and advised sending Gardner to his home in Milwaukee.

An agent of the largest of the New York night guests of President Roosevelt, at Sagamore Hill, left here for New York today. Senator Fairbanks will remain in New York until this evening, when he will return direct to Indianapolis.

Chairman Cortelyou will stop in New York for several days to make preliminary arrangements for the coming campaign, before departing from Sagamore Hill today the president, Senator Fairbanks and Chairman Cortelyou were photographed.

The conference at Sagamore Hill continued until an early hour this morning but no information concerning it was obtainable.

Judge William F. Hunt who, until July 1 was in the hospital, has arrived here today. He came to pay his respects to the president and to discuss Porto Rican affairs with him.

WOMAN BROUGHT HOME POISONED

New York, July 12.—Minnie Bardorf, 27 years old, a hair dresser residing here with her mother, is dying from the effects of poison alleged to have been administered by a woman, whose identity has not yet been ascertained by the police. Miss Bardorf was brought home yesterday by the mysterious woman and placed on the stoop of the house in a state of collapse. The woman called some children, who were playing nearby, and leaving Miss Bardorf with them hurried away. When Miss Bardorf's condition was ascertained by a physician, she was hurried to a hospital, where she has not since regained consciousness.

BEY OF TUNIS VISITS IN FRANCE

Paris, July 12.—The bey of Tunis arrived here this morning. He was accorded military honors, received a notable, popular reception and visited President Loubet at the Elysee palace, where they had a long and cordial exchange of friendly sentiments. This afternoon the bey visited the senate and chamber of deputies. He will be the guest of honor at a garden party tonight at the Elysee palace. The picturesque costumes of the bey and his party attract widespread attention. The visit of the bey to Paris is significant of the strengthening of the French protectorate over Tunis and the development of the government policy of building up the French North African empire.

CREOLE PONIES FOR THE JAPANESE

Chicago, July 12.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Tokyo says: Creole ponies, with wonderful staying qualities, easily fed and kept, are considered ideal mounts for the Japanese saboteurs, and it is understood that negotiations have been opened with the traffic department of the Southern Pacific railroad for a large amount of stock cars so that everything may be in readiness to rush the ponies to San Francisco, thence by ship direct to Korea.

The Creole ponies and Texas broncos, with wonderful staying qualities, easily fed and kept, are considered ideal mounts for the Japanese saboteurs, and it is understood that negotiations have been opened with the traffic department of the Southern Pacific railroad for a large amount of stock cars so that everything may be in readiness to rush the ponies to San Francisco, thence by ship direct to Korea.

FIGHT WITH COUGAR.

Timber Inspector Rumps Into Big Cat's Home.

Helena, Mont., July 12.—Anton Ruppo has arrived at Whitefish after a remarkable encounter with a cougar, and it was only by a lucky grab at the animal's throat that he is alive. After inspection of some timber lands Ruppo sat down on a side hill and fell asleep. He lost his balance and began rolling down a hill landing on top of a large cougar and her cub. The animal was in a wild frenzy in an instant. Ruppo being unarmed made a grab for the cougar's head with his hands. He was bleeding freely and was unable to get up. The cougar, however, turned to her cub while Ruppo's legs carried him in an opposite direction as fast as possible.

JONES IS TO RESIGN.

Indian Commissioner to Quit His Position.

Washington, July 12.—William A. Jones, commissioner of Indian affairs, is shortly to resign his office and return to his home at Mineral Point, Wis.

Commissioner Jones has not been at his desk in the department for nearly three months. He has been spending his time in Chicago and New York opening bids for supplies for various Indian schools and the breach between the secretary of interior and Indian commissioner, which occurred early in the winter over the removal of Gen. Pratt as superintendent

LIBERATED THOUSANDS OF MEAT CROOK CUTTERS AND OTHER EMPLOYEES ON STRIKE

Three Masked Men Release Prisoner at White Bear Jail.

Watchman Held Up and Keys Taken Away from Him.

St. Paul, July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—A bold jail delivery, during which three masked men liberated a pickpocket named Kelly, occurred at White Bear about midnight last night. Charles Sandahl, night watchman at the jail, was held up at the point of the revolver by three men, who took his keys from him, liberated Kelly and then, wrapping a shirt about Sandahl's head, placed him in the prisoner's cell.

Kelly was arrested Sunday night. He was caught in the act of picking pockets among the excursionists at the depot by Officer James Anderson.

About midnight, last night, Sandahl was awakened by a pounding on the lockup door. He opened the door and admitted three men. As Sandahl turned from closing the door, he looked into three revolvers. The men searched him, took the keys and unlocked Kelly's cell. Then they wrapped a shirt around Sandahl's head and placed him in the cell. They closed the door and Sandahl heard them go out. That was the last that was heard of them.

Sandahl succeeded in removing the shirt and found that the cell door was not fastened. He made his way out and sounded the alarm. Kelly was known to the officer who arrested him. One of the men who participated in the jail delivery was a half-breed negro and had his hand tied up.

CONGRATULATORY TELEGRAMS POUR IN ON JUDGE PARKER

Esopus, N. Y., July 12.—Telegrams of congratulation continue to pour in on Judge Parker. Judge George Gray wired as follows from Wilmington, Del.

"Heartily congratulations on your nomination and on your brave and manly telegram."

Mayor Carter H. Harrison, of Chicago, telegraphed: "Please accept my congratulations on your nomination. The return here of William F. Sheehan from St. Louis convention yesterday, marks the beginning of a campaign which will be largely conducted from Esopus. Actual plans for the campaign have not been completed but it is probable that Judge Parker will remain at Rosemont most of the summer and fall."

His friends say that Judge Parker will advise on all questions of importance.

At Oyster Bay, Between President, Fairbanks and Cortelyou.

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 12.—Senator Fairbanks and National Chairman George B. Cortelyou, who were overnight guests of President Roosevelt, at Sagamore Hill, left here for New York today. Senator Fairbanks will remain in New York until this evening, when he will return direct to Indianapolis.

Chairman Cortelyou will stop in New York for several days to make preliminary arrangements for the coming campaign, before departing from Sagamore Hill today the president, Senator Fairbanks and Chairman Cortelyou were photographed.

The conference at Sagamore Hill continued until an early hour this morning but no information concerning it was obtainable.

Judge William F. Hunt who, until July 1 was in the hospital, has arrived here today. He came to pay his respects to the president and to discuss Porto Rican affairs with him.

TREATY PROMULGATED.

Americans and Russians May Now Sue Alike.

St. Petersburg, July 12.—The ratification treaty between the United States and Russia, negotiated by Ambassador McCormick, was formally promulgated today.

The ratification treaty provides that Americans and Russians may sue in the courts of both Russia and the United States. Previous to the promulgation of the treaty, Americans could not sue in Russia, but could not bring suit in that country.

SINCLAIR-GORDON.

Earl of Aberdeen's Daughter Marries Former Captain.

London, July 12.—Lady Marjorie Gordon, the only daughter of the Earl of Aberdeen, formerly governor general of Canada, was married in London today to John Sinclair, member of parliament for Forfarshire and a former captain of the Royal Irish Lancers.

The archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Davidson, officiated. The church was filled with distinguished people. Mr. Sinclair has long been connected with Lord Aberdeen. He was the latter's aide-de-camp when the earl was lord lieutenant of Ireland, in 1886, and was secretary to the earl in 1890-93, when the latter was governor general of Canada.

TRAMMER DROWNED AT TRI-MOUNTAIN MINE.

Houghton, Mich., July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Frank Mattheus, a trapper, was drowned while bathing at the dam at Tri-Mountain mine yesterday. The body was recovered three hours afterward. The deceased was unmarried.

HOTEL BURNED.

Mount Holly, N. J., July 12.—The Berkeley hotel at Berkeley, near Seaside, N. J., was destroyed by fire today. Loss, $45,000.

SQUADRON AT TRIESTE.

FORBES BISHOPS TO BEY THE VATICAN

Premier Orders Them to Remain After Being Called to Rome.

Paris, July 12.—The Matin today says that eight days after the recall of M. Nisard, former French ambassador at the vatican, a number of French bishops received an order from Cardinal Vannutelli, acting for the vatican, to tender their resignations by return mail. The bishops, it is said, consulted the minister of public worship and Premier Combes, who directed them not to tender their resignations, on the ground that concordat required the assent of the state before their removals were enforced. Thereafter the

MADE RESTITUTION.

But Taylor Will Be Punished Just the Same.

St. Louis, July 12.—Robert B. Taylor of New York, who confessed stealing unsigned bank notes amounting to $6720 from the Citizens' Central National bank of New York city, today made restitution having given his check for $200 to Henry Demme, cashier of the bank, to make good the difference between the amount of the notes found upon him when arrested and the amount stolen.

St. Louis district attorney says that Taylor will nevertheless be brought before the November federal grand jury. Taylor is charged with having in his possession forged and altered bank notes of the United States.

DEPORTATION OF MINERS CONTINUES AT VICTOR.

Cripple Creek, Col., July 12.—Deportations continue to be made by the military authorities. Eleven Italians and Austrians arrested soon after arrival at Victor were sent away on the next train. State Boiler Inspector Taylor was arrested when coming into the district over the Shore Line railroad but was released after he was brought to the Mine Owners' association and had explained his official business.

JANE TOPPAN DYING.

Nurse Who Confessed Poisoning Thirty-one Persons.

Boston, July 12.—Dementia has developed in Miss Jane Toppan, the professional nurse who was sentenced two years ago to confinement for life in the insane hospital at Taunton, after she had confessed that she poisoned Mrs. Mary D. Gibbs, of Chicago, and the opinion of experts on insanity that she was morally irresponsible.

Although the court dealt only with one case, Miss Toppan made a confession that she had, during ten years, poisoned thirty-one persons, nearly all of whom were patients confined to her care.

When she was committed to Taunton she was apparently in good health, she weighed more than 150 pounds, she was enfeebled by mental debility, that means physical degeneration, has complete possession of the mind.

POLICE BARRACKS BURNED.

Cincinnati, July 12.—The establishment of Henry Heile & Co., dealers in hay and grain, was destroyed by fire today, with a loss of $80,000.

FIRE AT CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati, July 12.—The establishment of Henry Heile & Co., dealers in hay and grain, was destroyed by fire today, with a loss of $80,000.

Business at Great Packing Houses is Suspended.

The Price of Meat is Expected to Advance Rapidly.

Both Sides Determined and Strike May be Long One.

Kansas City, July 12.—About 2600 meat cutters, Swift's, Cudahy's, Schwarzschild & Sulzberger's and Fowler's had gone out before noon today and others were gradually leaving their places. A committee waited upon the management at Armour's and gave notice that all the men in that plant would go out, and the manager stated that he expected the entire force of 3300 to quit.

Omaha, July 12.—At noon today 4000 employees of the packing houses at South Omaha laid down their tools and went out on strike. The packing plants affected are those of Armour, Swift, Cudahy and the Omaha Packing company. A committee waited upon the management at Armour's and gave notice that all the men in that plant would go out, and the manager stated that he expected the entire force of 3300 to quit.

Chicago, July 12.—Without waiting till the hour set for a general strike, the 9500 employees in the nine principal meat packing centers of the country, beef cutters at the stockyards, indicated today that they were ahead of the time expected. The men who thus anticipated were 700 in number.

There was no disorder in the departure of the first squad of strikers. While taking measures to be ready, remembering both during the last great tie up at the yards, the police professed not to expect trouble for ten days, indications being it was said that new men would not be put to work in the packing houses for that long a time.

A rise in the price of meat, it was said, would be the first effect of the stoppage of work in the packing houses.

Stagnation marked the cattle market as the packers had warned customers that there would be no buying today. Representatives of the packers said the packing firm has done everything that could be done to avert a strike by offering to arbitrate before a disinterested body the questions over which a difference with the labor unions arose.

Edward Morris, vice president of Nelson, Morris & Co., said the company's plant did not have more than three or four days' supplies of dressed meats on hand.

Kansas City, July 12.—A strike of the butchers and workmen affiliated with them in Kansas City, will find the six packing house plants here prepared. Owing to light receipts of live stock at the local stockyards last week because of the flood, packers had only a small supply of either cattle, hogs or sheep on hand, and this was disposed of by noon. Live stock men at the yards were anxious about the situation as the first heavy receipts since the flood arrived today. Both sides were firm today, awaiting developments from the conference between the union leaders and the heads of the principal packing houses at Chicago.

One thousand men had cheered President Donnelly's message, warning of a strike today at noon, unless their demands should have been granted before that hour. Early today the men of one packing house said he did not believe the packers would grant the demands of the men, but three or four voiced the feeling of the managers of other local houses.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 12.—More than 5000 employees of Swift & Co., Nelson Morris & Co., and the Hammond Packing company in South St. Joseph, went out on strike at noon today and the plants have closed down. The strikers are orderly and there has been no attempt at a demonstration of any kind. The workmen finished all work in hand before walking out.

St. Paul, July 12.—(Special to The Herald.)—Unless notified from Chicago that an agreement has been reached, butchers and meat cutters, including the girls employed by Swift & Co., numbering anywhere from 900 to 1000 persons, will go on strike at noon today. Swift & Co. is the only packing concern in this district which will be affected by the strike order, according to George Steep, business agent at South St. Paul for the Amalgamated Butchers and Meat Cutters' union. The other and smaller concerns have made satisfactory settlements with their employees.

LASCAR SAILOR SWAM IN WATER THIRTY-SIX HOURS

New York, July 12.—Among a number of strange tales related by the crew of the steamship Shingoa, just arrived from Japan and China, and which reported having run over a large whale a few miles outside Sandy Hook, is one to the effect that while the big freighter was speeding through the Red sea a Lascar sailor was picked up. The swarthy heathen declared he had been afloat for three days and nights, having fallen overboard from an Indian trader, bound for Antwerp. Capt. Chapple, who is certainly the man was at least thirty-six hours in the water before the vessel picked him up.

TERRIBLE REVENGE

Outlaw Skinned Alive by Parent of Boy He Killed.
Last of Most Merciless Gang in Kentucky's History.

Owingsville, Ky., July 12.—A few days ago, when John Murrell and Blue Pickett, met in front of the postoffice at the village of Iron Mountain, in the mountains of Estill county, Kentucky, and with a shotgun and revolver shot the life out of each other, there perished a gang of the most notorious and lawless in any part of the world. No crime was too foul for them to commit. The sheriff of the county, who was called to the scene, found the bodies of the two men lying on the ground, one dead and the other dying. The sheriff, who was called to the scene, found the bodies of the two men lying on the ground, one dead and the other dying.

In the pioneer days Murrell infested that section of Kentucky (Nelson county) and had for his partners, Bias McCabe, Mason and the two Harpes, "Big" and "Little," as they were known. These five men were as blood-thirsty as any gang of outlaws that ever lived together in any part of the world. No crime was too foul for them to commit. The sheriff of the county, who was called to the scene, found the bodies of the two men lying on the ground, one dead and the other dying.

Prince Has Heartache
Prince Arthur Not Allowed to Marry Lady Marjorie.

London, July 12.—The sole engrossing topic in royal circles and, of course, in the smart set is the reported betrothal of Prince Arthur, Duke of Connaught, the only son of King Edward's only living brother, and Lady Marjorie, daughter of the Duke of Rutland.

Just then the father of the murdered boy arrived. The outraged parent went to the prostrate body of the murderer of his son, and while Harpe was pleading for his life, began to skin the outlaw alive. After most of the skin had been removed from his body Harpe died. Then his head was cut off. A young woman, whose name was not given, was killed shortly afterward. The outlaw raised his rifle which had rolled from his grasp.

After the killing of Harpe the Murrell and McCabe band again made its appearance at the Harris tavern. During this stay there some of the horses disappeared from the neighborhood. This band was suspected and the sheriff of Nelson county was requested to raise a posse to go to the tavern and capture the outlaws. The sheriff wanted to make sure of his men before he raised the posse and sent a young boy, whose name was not given, to the tavern to discover how the outlaws were fixed for defending themselves. The boy, whose name was not given, was killed shortly afterward. The outlaw raised his rifle which had rolled from his grasp.

DOUBT IS FELT

By Canadian Manufacturers as to Tariff Being Barrier.
Is Not Likely to Prevent Dumping of American Manufactures.

Ottawa, Ont., July 12.—Considerable doubt is freely expressed by Canadian manufacturers as to the successful enforcement against United States manufacturers of the new Canadian tariff regulation which is designed to prevent the dumping of American manufactures upon this market. It is stated that many American firms are considering a scheme whereby they may safely export their surplus goods to this country and employ dealers on this side to dispose of such goods at slaughter prices. Thomas Birkett, M. P., wholesale hardware merchant of Ottawa, has received circular letters from several manufacturers in the United States, who intimate that they will invoice goods into Canada at American prices and will pay Canadian dealers the same salary for handling the goods that American dealers receive. If this method of doing business is adopted it is believed that the anti-dumping clause of the tariff will be rendered ineffective.

The general manager of one of the leading Canadian iron and steel companies, who is a student of philosophy at Upsala, Sweden. He wrote: "Malmoeiselle, I saw you last night for the first time, but the vision, short as it was, is fixed indelibly on my heart. I think only of you in waking moments, my lips are glued to your dreams." Another declared: "I am an audacious son of the North, which gives me the courage to tell you that I love you and kiss your feet." One vowed: "I travel on my hands and knees, begging you to tell me you love me. For me you are not a woman, but a divinity. I love you; I love you. Since I saw you my life is full of music."

"Before I saw you I had a soul," one poor fellow sighs. "Now I have a woman. I would be heaven and without you heaven would be hell." "I saw you on the stage last night. The depths of my being were touched and I rushed about in a daze, unable to see you as a woman, but as the wheels of your carriage, even regarding such a career as better than nothing." A student of philosophy at Upsala, Sweden. He wrote: "Malmoeiselle, I saw you last night for the first time, but the vision, short as it was, is fixed indelibly on my heart. I think only of you in waking moments, my lips are glued to your dreams."

Another, also of Upsala, breathes worship like this: "Beautiful Goddess Cleo, pardon my writing to you. Your eyes are like the sun, your smile gives you the air of an angel. Since I saw you I haven't been sane. Cleo, pardon my writing to you. Your eyes are like the sun, your smile gives you the air of an angel. Since I saw you I haven't been sane. Cleo, pardon my writing to you. Your eyes are like the sun, your smile gives you the air of an angel. Since I saw you I haven't been sane."

A GUNNER'S MATE
Took Long Naps in His Diving Suit.

San Francisco, July 12.—The recent death of a diver at Bonton, N. J., has called attention to the action of the United States Coast Guard cutter, the Albatross, on board a ship-of-war that frequently visits the Golden Gate. Johnson is a sailor in the service of Uncle Sam.

Old in Years But Active
His Age is No Bar to Ex-Senator Davis' Candidacy.

New York, July 12.—Objection has been made to ex-Senator Henry G. Davis is too old to serve on the ticket. It is true that he will be 81 Nov. 15, but there are many men active in public, commercial and professional life as old or nearly as old as he.

90, leaves his New York home every morning and walks to his office with the step of a boy of 20. Russell Sage, New York financier, 87 years old, alert to public questions of the day, keeps his grip upon the reins in Wall street and schemes financially with as much interest as he ever did. Ex-Governor Alonzo Gurnea, 84, still practices medicine and drives fifteen to twenty miles a day in his buggy, attending patients in the day. Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Boston, author and lecturer, 80, active and works hard ten hours a day. Humboldt at 90 completed his "Cosmos."

Mlle. De Merode Was Overwhelmed With Love Letters.

Paris, July 12.—Cleo De Merode, delicate and bewitchingly decked with garlands like Ophelia, was found knee deep in love letters by a reporter who called on her to interview her about her new play of Denmark, Sweden and Norway, from which she has just returned. Apparently she left crushed and palpitating hearts in her wake. She did not hesitate to permit the reporter to read the letters.

The first one Mlle. De Merode showed was from a young man named Cleo. He wrote: "Malmoeiselle, I saw you last night for the first time, but the vision, short as it was, is fixed indelibly on my heart. I think only of you in waking moments, my lips are glued to your dreams." Another declared: "I am an audacious son of the North, which gives me the courage to tell you that I love you and kiss your feet." NATIONAL CONVENTION
May be Held by Populists and the Dissatisfied Democrats.

St. Louis, July 12.—After three conferences held Saturday night by members of the executive committee of the Peoples' Party, with prominent Bryan Democrats who are dissatisfied, not so much with the platform, as with the presidential nomination of the Democratic party, it has been decided to call a meeting within thirty days to organize a plan of action during the campaign. This statement is given to the Associated Press on the authority of George Washington, chairman of the Peoples' Party committee. Mr. Washington when asked to divulge the business affairs of the party, declined to make them known. The results, he said, would be made public, when the skill of the national convention was issued. A number of those present in the conference, Mr. Washburn stated, were from Missouri, while others were from Parker's own state. Commenting on Judge Parker's nomination, Mr. Washburn said: "Next to Cleveland, the Populists desired the nomination of Parker. His nomination emphasizes the parting of the ways of the allied parties and will help immensely to restore the Populist party to its effective strength and popularity."

THREE LIVES LOST
In Fire Started by Careless Use of Kerosene.

Walworth, Wis., July 12.—Three lives were lost yesterday in a fire near this village in which the amount of property destroyed amounted to little over $500. Carelessness in an endeavor to replenish a kitchen fire by the aid of kerosene started the blaze, burned a young woman who was at work over the stove and two children, together with the home of Mrs. Holtz, a farmer on the Peterson place, four miles west of Walworth. The dead: Marie Sorenson, aged 15 years; Dorothy Holtz, aged 9 years; Petra Holtz, aged 5 years.

HEAVY ADVANCE IN THE PRICE OF MEAT

Strike of Packing House Employees Causes a Sharp Bule.

Strike May Cut Off Supply of Meat Very Heavily.

Wholesale meat prices on beef and pork took a jump of about $2 per hundred pounds this morning in view of the strike among the meat cutters connected with all the big packing houses over the country, either now in effect or about to take effect. This morning it was reported that 900 meat cutters in Chicago were already on strike and that others would strike before the day is over.

A general strike of the magnitude anticipated, which not only affects the companies at Chicago and Kansas City, but in nearly every part of the country where there is a packing house business, is said to mean an immediate cutting off of the meat supply to the Northwest and, more locally, to the head of the lake. The general strike is on before night, shipments received today and tomorrow are likely to be the last of the season. The lakes will receive until the strike is over, or is settled.

this section of the country north of the Twin Cities. Some of the local branch houses have been receiving their shipments direct from Chicago, Kansas City or from St. Paul.

None of the branch houses are prepared to carry a supply of meat for the retail trade for more than a week at the longest, and it is said that a strike will mean practically that the retail butcher shops will be cut off from their supplies immediately.

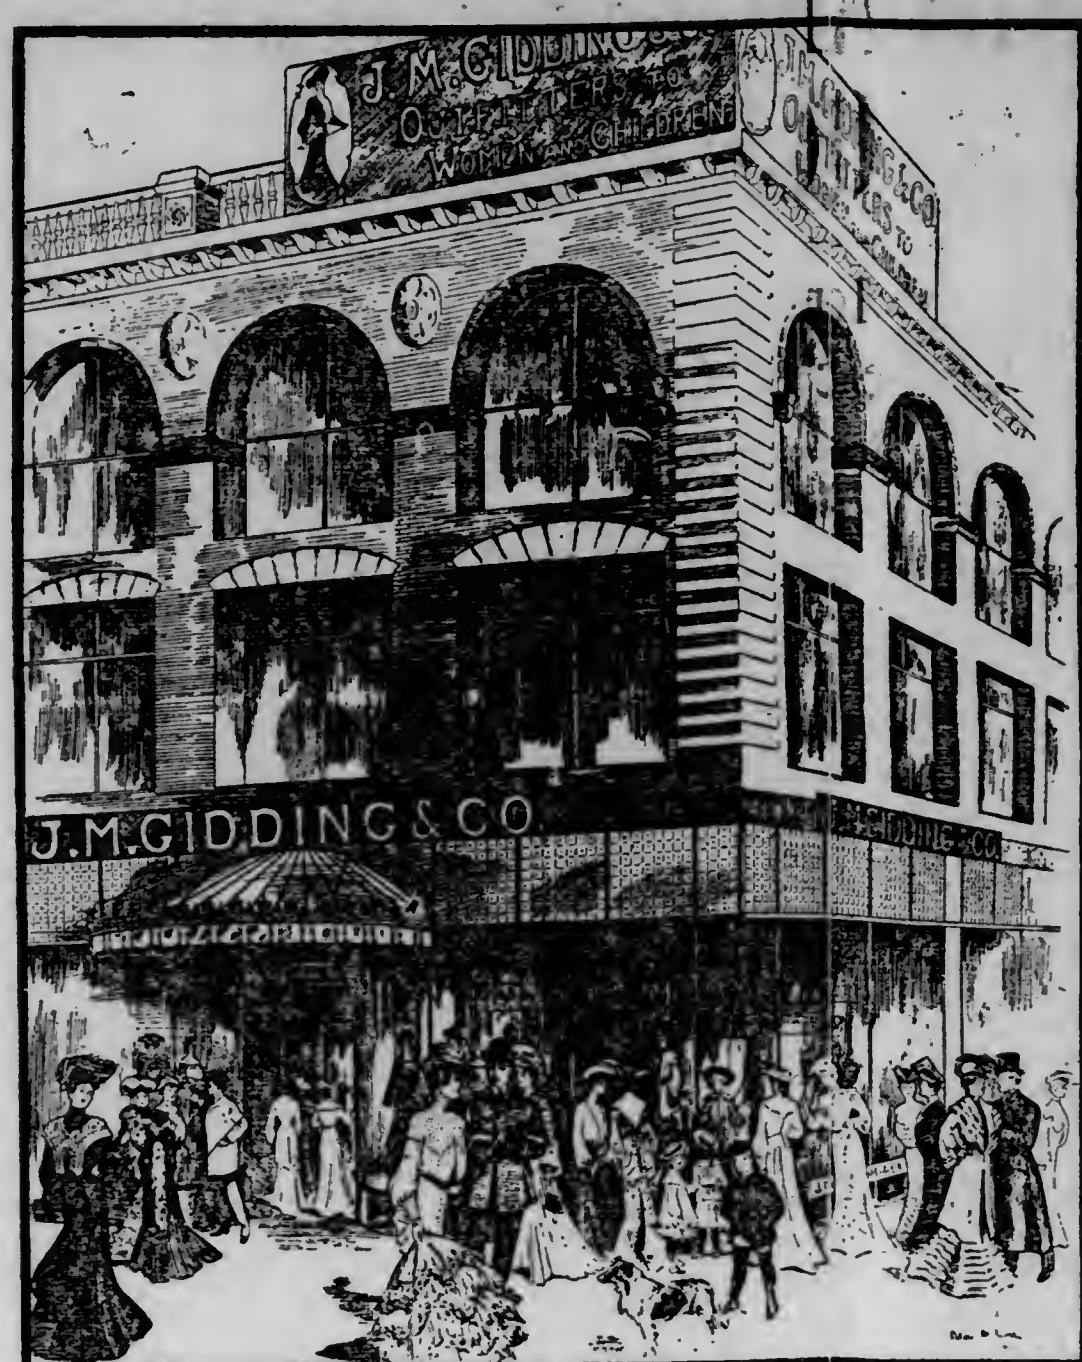

So far as can be learned the local packing firm of Elliott & Co. is not, or will not, be affected by the strike. This house has a packing capacity of about 100 head of cattle per week.

Not only will Duluth and Superior be cut off from meat supplies, in the event of a strike, but the range towns and all those places which have been supplied from the Duluth branch houses will be cut off first of all.

There was a rumor current that as soon as a general strike is in progress among the employees of the packing houses, the employees of the local branch houses will be laid off, but one of the officials connected with a local branch house said today that he hardly looked for that move. It would be one only on orders from the general office of the various houses, and then not unless a protracted struggle between the packers and the meat cutters is anticipated.

The situation has been eagerly watched today by those connected with the local branch packing houses and the retail butchers. The public is likely to be made aware soon enough of the shortage in event the strike is effective.

Later Associated Press dispatches this afternoon stated that 2000 meat cutters had gone on a strike in Kansas City, and that they are still going out all over the country.

FEDERAL COURT

Grand Jury Now in Session Considering Criminal Cases.

The July term of federal court was opened at 10 o'clock this morning by Judge Page Morris, both the grand and petit juries reporting for duty. Nineteen of the twenty-three grand jurors reported, and immediately got down to business, leaving the court room to set about their work about 11 o'clock. It is expected they will remain out at least two days in disposing of the business to come before them. They will consider charges against eleven persons, said to have sold intoxicants to Indians, or taking liquor onto Indian reservations, and will also take up the cases of three men charged with counterfeiting currency, and a case of coin.

The petit jury will get to work this afternoon.

At the morning session the following cases were docketed: United States vs. Henry Weeks, against the Cloquet Lumber company, P. J. Riordan against C. J. Gibbs, Antonio Belace against McArthur Bros., and a case of Alden Anderson against the Drake & Stratton company. The latter had been taken from the calendar. Others dismissed this morning were: May Bendis against the St. Paul & Western Coal company, John Tardif against the Northern Lumber company, Siene Graclewski against the Northwestern Fuel company, and William Koska against the S. J. Jackson company. In the case of L. S. Claggett against the township of Duluth the jury will be waived and C. O. Baldwin will act as substitute attorney, in place of Alford and Hunt, named on the calendar.

This disposes of ten of the twenty cases on the calendar, most of which are damage suits. There is one chancery case, George F. Perkins against Clara J. Gibbs and others.

Among the twin city officials of the United States court are W. H. Grimsshaw, United States marshal; Charles E. Haupt, United States district attorney; J. M. Dickey and A. L. Smith, assistant United States district attorneys; Henry D. Lang, clerk of circuit court, and C. L. Spencer, clerk of the district court, and W. J. Conway, court crier.

Following is a list of the nineteen grand jurors who reported: M. N. Leland, Wells; G. H. Studer, Austin; H. W. Dixon, Minneapolis; F. W. L. Seward, St. Clair; S. H. Taylor, Elmore; G. L. Lull, Owatonna; H. J. Lillemor, Lillemor; J. W. Aasi, Owatonna; G. A. Knauft, St. Paul; G. H. Priewert, Winona; W. P. Cockey, Minneapolis; P. K. Duck, Blooming Prairie; William Manhart, Northfield; John Buck, Sauk Center; C. S. Drew, Luverne; H. L. Henry, Madison; Wallace Barker, Aitkin; J. S. Osgood, Garden City; W. H. Crowe, Osakis. The three other grand jurors are Halvor Lee, of Olivia; G. M. Deike, of St. Paul, and F. W. Price, of St. Cloud.

WILL TEST THE MACADAM PLANT City to Give It Formal Trial in a Few Days.

Within a few days a test will be made of the new tar macadam mixing plant, which is in use on East Superior street.

The mixing plant will be operated at full pressure for a period of four or five hours to determine the exact capacity of the plant for a given length of time.

The test will be made just as soon as the contractor gets a sufficient stretch of the first layer of the pavement laid to allow the plants to be operated for four or five hours without stopping. The city engineer or one of his assistants will be present and the amount of material put out in the given length of time will be measured accurately.

The engineer in charge of the plant claims that it has a greater capacity than was called for in the specifications, and the city engineer is anxious to ascertain whether or not his statements are founded on fact. The plant has now been in operation for a number of weeks and is working smoothly.

The East Superior street property owners are all pleased with the work that has been done by the mixer. The pavement has been subjected to a very rigid inspection by the residents of the street as fast as it has been laid up to the present time, no faults have been found with the work.

NIXON MUST PAY ALIMONY

Judge Dibell Decides that Dentist Is in Contempt.

Judge Dibell filed his order this morning in the proceedings of Minnie Nixon against Richard E. Nixon, in which the court finds Nixon guilty of contempt of court because he has failed to pay alimony as directed in the amount of $320, and orders him to pay that amount to Minnie Nixon, his divorced wife, forthwith, or stand committed to the county jail.

Nixon has appealed to the state supreme court, filing a bond on appeal in the amount of $700 with John E. Ross, E. E. Peterson and Clarence Nixon as sureties.

In his judgment Judge Dibell says there is no reason why Nixon should not pay the delinquent amount of alimony and continue to pay $20 per month in the future so long as he has custody of his child. The court says that it appears Nixon has so placed and taken care of his income as to avoid paying the alimony.

WISCONSIN CENTRAL R. R.

Believed to Have Been Sold to the Milwaukee Road.

St. Paul, July 12.—The Dispatch today says: Rumors of the sale of the Wisconsin Central to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, which have been current since the dissolution of the voting trust, are accepted as true by many officials who are familiar with the Northwestern situation. It is declared that an official statement will be forthcoming within six days, which will define the Wisconsin Central as a property, either owned outright, or controlled and operated as a part of the Milwaukee system. It is stated that the Central's shops have suffered heavy reductions in forces, and that many men and a considerable amount of machinery have been transferred to the Milwaukee shops at West Milwaukee, Wis.

CITY BRIEFS.

At the 11th commencement of Williams college, held June 18 and 19, at Williams, Mass., a Doctor of Divinity was conferred upon Rev. James Marshall Anderson, of Duluth, among others. It was the fifth anniversary of the graduation of Dr. Anderson from that college.

Some extra sleepers will be attached to the Great Northern train for the Twin Cities tonight to accommodate a party of about sixty people who are coming in on the North West. This is a party conducted by the Duluth branch of the American Legion, and is under the guidance of Raymond & Whitcomb, and is understood to be going to the World's fair.

Word was received from Virginia this morning that Capt. M. L. Fay, who has been ill with pneumonia, was not expected to live.

A painter is engaged in coating the exterior of the General Electric building. The work is about 25 feet high. A small scaffolding is being used for the work. A number of people passed by the scaffolding and were told that the scaffolding was being used for the work.

J. M. Gidding & Co. are pleased to announce that they will be selling a number of beautiful white shirt waists and silk blouses at a very low price. The goods were sold out in their busy selling of today.

The Pioneer Fuel company will remove its offices from the Measha block to the Alworth building about August 15.

The Oak Hall room returned yesterday afternoon from Hibbing after meeting defeat at the hands of the fast sensational team by the score of 2 to 1. Hill, the Hibbing pitcher, had the Duluth men at his mercy, scoring ten strikeouts and allowing but one man to walk. He struck out Gelsinger, one of the best hitters in the league, three times in succession.

The policemen have endeavored to meet the News Tribune aggression this afternoon in the case of the Lake Superior grounds. The aggression was made by the Tribune, which was billed to take place at 2:30 o'clock. The policemen had kept up their courage until that time. It ought to give the policemen an opportunity for a little practice.

Some of the best tennis games ever seen in Duluth will be played off this afternoon and tomorrow at the grounds of the English Tennis Club. The tournament which has been in progress for the past ten days is drawing to a close and the semi-finals will probably be reached this afternoon. Davis, Ames, Grady, and Kennedy are still in the race.

On Friday he will go to Minneapolis to meet the Roman Catholic clergy of the city at a reception at the West hotel.

Capt. Ray T. Lewis has returned from Boston.

Mrs. P. S. Anneke, who has been very ill and whose life was despaired of on Sunday, is much improved and there is now much hope of her complete recovery.

J. R. Quigley has gone to Glenwood, Minn.

James Bonan started this afternoon for San Francisco.

A. B. Wolvin will be a passenger tonight for Chicago.

Thomas Kilby goes tonight to Sault Ste. Marie.

Mrs. B. Silvey starts this evening on a trip to the Sault and Mackinac.

W. C. Brown goes to Marquette tonight.

D. J. Caven, traveling auditor of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, goes back to Marquette tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Smith, 1209 East Third street, have returned from a trip through the Yellowstone National park.

Duluth Democrats to Organize One at Once.

Duluth Democrats will meet this evening at No. 104 Manhattan building and will organize what will probably be the first Parker and Davis campaign club in the state. Lists have been in circulation today and more than 150 names have been signed to them. The meeting will be at 8 o'clock and all those who intend to support the ticket nominated at St. Louis and the platform of the party will be welcome at the meeting to be enrolled as members.

CARDINAL AT ST. PAUL

Satelli Will Leave Twin Cities for Duluth on Friday.

St. Paul, July 12.—(Special to The Herald.) Cardinal Satelli, who is the special representative of the pope at the World's fair in St. Louis, arrived in St. Paul at about noon today, to visit Archbishop Ireland until Friday, when he will leave for Duluth to take a steamer trip to Buffalo. In the meantime several receptions have been planned in his honor.

Tonight the cardinal will be entertained at dinner at the residence of Archbishop Ireland, and tomorrow

Rainfall of Seventeen Inches Undates Low Lying Districts.

Manila, July 13.—A cloudburst over the hills northeast of Manila caused a flood which has destroyed San Juan del Monte. Two hundred lives were lost.

The low lying districts were inundated. The homes of Americans and foreigners are isolated. Transportation through the streets is carried on in boats only.

Rain has fallen for twenty-seven hours, totalling seventeen and one-fifth inches. This is unprecedented. Communication with outside places is interrupted.

The damage to property is estimated at $2,000,000.

HAWKINS MAY HEAD STATE COMMITTEE

St. Louis County Senator Talked Of For Republican Chairman.

St. Paul, July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—Senator Clapp, chairman of the late Republican state convention, has called a meeting of the candidates on the state ticket for Thursday, in St. Paul and at that time it will be practically settled who are to constitute the Republican state central committee for the next two years.

The candidates all expect representation, through close personal and political friends, on the committee, and the conference called by Senator Clapp is in accordance with the terms of a resolution adopted late in the proceedings of the state convention, authorizing the appointment by Senator Clapp of the committee.

The names of Senator E. B. Hawkins, Duluth; C. A. Morey, Winona; Mille Bunnell, Duluth; C. S. Mitchell, Alexandria, and others have been mentioned in connection with the chairmanship, but one report in circulation is that Hawkins was most likely to land the place. It was pointed out that he is popular throughout the St. Louis county district and that he has strong financial backing and could interest some pretty substantial men in the success of the state ticket.

One of Senator Clapp's most ardent admirers has suggested that in making up the ticket he should not forget his own interests in seeking to conform to the ideas of L. C. Dunn and the other candidates on the Republican ticket. "You are the nominee of the whole convention," this man is said to have told the senator, "and you are entitled to representation on the committee just as well as any other candidate. You are a candidate for election by the next legislature and if you are the wise politician that I take you to be, you will not overlook your own interests in making the state central committee."

NEW ENGLAND MERCHANT HEIR OF WEALTHY FRENCH CAPITALIST

Paris, July 13.—A remarkable case, in which George A. Church, of Nayatt Point, R. I., is the central figure, is being heard by the tribunal of the Seine, Pontoise, a wealthy Parisian capitalist, disappeared fourteen years ago during a voyage round the world. He left $2,000,000 in French bonds. After waiting the statutory period, his heirs asked for a division of the estate. Thereafter a will was filed, in which M. Poullet, island of Java, in which M. Poullet gave his entire estate to George A. Church, Counsel for the heirs sought to create the impression that this was another case of mythical Crawfords, as in the Humbert case, while counsel for Mr. Church maintained that his client had been existing being a retired New England merchant, who recently sailed from New York for Europe. Thereupon the court asked that Mr. Church present to the court, and adjourned the case until Friday to permit the presentation of the production of other proofs of his identity.

The genuineness of a large legacy appears unquestionable, but the case is bitterly contested, mainly because of suspicions growing out of the fictitious American heirs in the Humbert case.

CHOUNARD MUST HANG

State Pardon Board Refuses to Commute His Sentence.

St. Paul, July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—William Chounard, who was convicted in the district court of Cass county for the murder of his wife on April 14 and sentenced to hang within ninety days from the time of the passing of the sentence, has been denied a commutation of his sentence to life imprisonment by the state pardon board as asked for. It is quite likely that he will hang on July 29.

FIVE MORE DEATHS Added to List of Fourth of July Victims.

Chicago, July 13.—The Tribune today says: Five more deaths were added yesterday to Chicago's list of Fourth of July victims. Four died in agony from lockjaw, while the fifth succumbed to wounds caused by the explosion of a toy cannon. From other cities in the country two deaths from injuries and five from tetanus were reported, making the total of lives lost in the patriotic celebration, 51.

WARREN DISMISSED Because He Was Interested in a Townsite.

Washington, July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—As foreshadowed in these dispatches recently, E. L. Warren, of Cass Lake, who was appointed last May as foreman of the government forest reserve on the Chippewa reservation, has been relieved from his position. It is understood that Mr. Warren was interested in a townsite, and that he was relieved from his position.

GREAT STRIKE IN MEAT INDUSTRY FELT WITH VARYING EFFECTS THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY

Rumors Say Japs Were Repulsed and 30,000 Killed.

Were Attempting to Carry Port Arthur by Storm.

Thousands Were Blown to Pieces by Russian Mines.

St. Petersburg, July 13.—This city was thrown into a fever of excitement this afternoon by the news that the Japanese failed in an assault on the fortress at Port Arthur on Sunday night, having been repulsed with a loss said to reach 30,000.

An official communication from the Russian general staff says: "According to information derived from Japanese sources and denied by Admiral Alexieff's staff, the Japanese attacked the Russian positions at Port Arthur during the night of July 10. They were repulsed with enormous loss. It is difficult to calculate even approximately the number of Japanese casualties, which amounted, it is said, to the immense figure of 30,000."

The members of the general staff do not offer explanations of what Admiral Alexieff means by "Japanese sources," but they declare that the victory would not have officially repeated such important news unless it had reached him from sources entirely worthy of credence. At the same time they say the report should be accepted with reserve, pending the receipt of more definite advice.

Mukden, July 13.—Advices received here from Port Arthur say that the Japanese failed in their assault on the fortress at Port Arthur on Sunday night, having been repulsed with a loss said to reach 30,000. The Japanese are landing troops at Siao Ping Tao, about midway between Port Arthur and Dairen, on the east coast of the Liao Tung peninsula. The utmost confidence is felt at Port Arthur in the ability of the garrison to hold out.

JAPANESE REPULSED With Heavy Loss According to Mukden Dispatch.

St. Petersburg, July 13.—A dispatch from a Russian correspondent at Mukden, dated July 12, says: "According to intelligence received here the Japanese last night attacked positions near Port Arthur and were repulsed with enormous losses. Not less than 30,000, it is said being killed and wounded by our mines."

St. Petersburg, July 13.—The general staff has received no information regarding the reported attack on the positions near Port Arthur and the loss of 30,000 Japanese killed or wounded by Russian mines.

EMPEROR'S MESSAGE Causes But Little Comment at St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, July 13.—Emperor William's message of condolence to the Wiborg regiment is attracting much less attention here than at other capitals. The Novoe Vremya says: "Europe is, indeed, hungry for a sensation. The message of the emperor is a reminder of the fact that the emperor is a monarch and that he is not a man."

PORT ARTHUR FLEET Greatly Retarding Land Operations of the Japs.

St. Petersburg, July 13.—The admiralty believes the fleet Admiral Vilihorst's fleet is rendering effective aid in the defense of Port Arthur by impeding the construction of batteries near the eastern approaches and fortress by going out and shelling the Japanese works under construction for this purpose. The expedition of Saturday is believed to have been of this nature. The bringing up of siege guns to an effective range the work can be materially retarded. This probably is the reason the fleet has not yet left Port Arthur, and it is not likely to do so unless the fall of the fortress becomes inevitable.

The admiralty considers that the naval situation has greatly improved, and sees evidence of the Japanese fleets showing signs of exhaustion. The officials here think that Admiral Togo, with the knowledge that he will have to fight without the co-operation of the army in storming Port Arthur, has become extremely cautious about risking his ships, and that at present he will only undertake operations of secondary importance, like a pursuit of the Vladivostok squadron and co-operation with land forces at Neuchang.

A special dispatch from Ta Toke Kiao says the Japanese lost heavily while crossing the river at Kai Chou. According to a special from Liao Yang, the Russian scouts have discovered further Japanese detachments in the valley of the Tai Tsi river, on the road to Mukden. The correspondents think the Japanese in that vicinity intend to direct the operations of the Chinese bandits, who are concentrating in the surrounding valley for the purpose of raiding the railroad and blowing up bridges.

St. Petersburg, July 13.—The prospective failure of the crops in some of the southern provinces, possibly attendant with famine, and the necessity of adopting relief measures is beginning to attract attention. The governments of Kherson, Bessarabia, Taurida, Poltava and Khar'kov are principally affected. In the district of Tripart the peasants have already been compelled to harvest the unripe crops to feed the livestock. Committees have been appointed to relieve the distress. The failure of the crops is attributed to the early autumn frosts, insufficient moisture while sowing, the fluctuation weather of the winter, the total absence of snow, the heavy frosts which followed the late spring frosts in May and the infrequency of rains for the cereals and hay. In some districts no rain has fallen. In many parts of Bessarabia cattle are being sold for almost nothing.

WATCHING DEVELOPMENTS. The Foo, July 13.—The British fleet, whose movements last week were tinged with mystery, has been located miles from Wei Hai Wei. There is authority for saying that the fleet is watching the developments at Port Arthur.

Chinese refugees from Port Arthur, who arrived here today, report that the Japanese have recaptured two positions, namely Forts 14 and 7.

Several of the Packers Are Running Plants With Non-Union Men.

Both Sides Determined and Arbitration is the Only Ray of Hope.

Chicago, July 13.—With no sign of weakening on either side, the only ray of hope in the butchers' strike situation today was the possibility that arbitration may intervene to prevent a labor war fraught with suffering and privation of the strikers and heavy loss to the packers.

Nor is the effect of the strike confined to the employees and packers in the nine cities where the fight will be centered. The consuming public will bear a large share of the burden. In higher prices for meats. Reports already on strike, upwards of 20,000 more are involved indirectly and most of them probably will be idle before tonight.

In addition to the slaughtering departments of all the plants being tied up, the strike affects branch industries in which such articles as butterine, soap, buttons and combs are manufactured. The canning departments, which employ a large number of women, are also affected.

Forty thousand persons, approximately, find employment in the big packing houses in Chicago, and this number already has been reduced one-half. The effect of the strike upon the mechanical and other departments, it is declared, will increase this army of unemployed in Chicago to 100,000 at the end of the week to nearly 150,000.

Arbitration is looked upon as the only means to avert a prolonged strike. The strikers declare that they will be willing to consider any reasonable proposition submitted from the other side.

The detail of police at the stockyards has been increased in number, and all night the officers patrolled the strike district and the streets adjacent to the yards in pairs.

There was considerable speculation as to whether the packing house teamsters would go out on a sympathetic strike.

George Golden, business agent of the union, set all doubts at rest at a meeting of the teamsters' joint council, by announcing that the teamsters will remain at work as long as there was work for them to do.

A crowd of men and boys numbering more than five thousand, for the most part striking employees, gathered in the city today about the entrance to the stock yards and discussed the situation. Most of them were armed with sticks and stones, and the police were on hand to keep the peace.

The only activity specially noticeable within the great gloomy and desolate looking buildings was the Swift and Armour plants. In the canning department of the Swift establishment a number of men were at work while at Armour's a gang of men were busy loading provisions into a string of refrigerator cars.

Workmen were also busy tearing up the rails of the Chicago junction railroad within the yards and rescuing the old rails with new ones. This fact was taken by some to indicate an expectation by the railroad officials that the resumption of traffic will be delayed for several days at least.

With a seeming certainty a meat famine should the strike last more than a week, both the packers and the strike leaders took a serious view of the situation today. Each side thoughtfully considered the arbitration channel of escape from the entanglement. Indeed, predictions were ventured that an armistice might be arranged within twenty-four hours. Such optimism, however, was received with a good deal of incredulity.

President Donnelly of the Butcher Workers' union expressed regret that the packers' offer to arbitrate had not been made earlier. Had it been, he said, the strike might have been averted.

"The delay of the packers to agree to arbitration," he said, "is responsible for the strike. They did not make known their position until after the fact had declared the strike, and then it was too late for me to do anything to stop the trouble. It will be an expensive war, but apparently it will have to be fought out. We are strong—stronger, strange as it may seem—than the packers. We have the whole country to draw upon for sustenance and have no dividends to pay. If the packing plants are made a moment's stoppage, it will cost them for two years."

In spite of the expressed hopes for an early adjustment of the difficulties, the packers have hurried preparations for a siege. Every office employee in the stockyard was ordered to report to work earlier than usual, and all were told to hurry through such office duties as were absolutely essential. The office employees soon found themselves in the packing houses acting as substitutes for the strikers. It was claimed by the superintendents of the various plants that there would be no trouble in supplying all vacancies within a day or two with capable men.

Information credited to union sources was to the effect that colored men, presumably from Kansas City and St. Louis, were being brought to Chicago by the larger packers and that an order had been placed for 500 more men. Nelson Morris & Co., it was said, were supplied with 250 colored non-union workmen during the night. The men were reported to have been smuggled into the yards in covered wagons.

Four independent small packing houses inside the stockyards were reported running. These were Moore & Co., Roberts & Oakes, Boyd & Latham and Thomas Phorkildsen & Co. Although the authorities were confident that no violence would be attempted today, three hundred policemen were detailed to guard the stock yards. Tonight, when non-union men in large numbers may be smuggled into the yards, the police force will be increased.

Hundreds of strikers, laughing and joking, were in line at various points during the day to receive their pay. Neither threats of violence nor attempts to antagonize the employees were made by the strikers.

At the plant of Armour & Co., slaughtering of cattle was resumed during the day. A sufficient number of non-union men had been secured to do enough killing to keep busy a number of carcass handlers and dressers who had applied for work. Swift & Co. and Nelson Morris also did some slaughtering during the day. According to employees an estimate of work done on the slaughtering orders was 20 per cent of that accomplished under ordinary conditions.

The firm of Libby, McNeill & Libby secured the services of a sufficient number of non-union girls to conduct active operations in the company's canning department. Representatives of the firm say that many of the girls who walked out had returned.

By noon every packing house in the stock yards, it was claimed, had men at work. Unemployed men in considerable numbers flocked to the stock yards and applied for employment. The strikers standing about the entrances to the yards offered no opposition. All competent applicants were at once hired and put immediately to work. Louis E. Swift, president of Swift & Co., was asked as to the probable effect of the strike on prices of meats throughout the country, and regarding the stocks on hand. He said:

"It is too early to say definitely. I do not expect that there will be any serious scarcity in the supply of meats. We have some men working in all our departments and are shipping products freely. Prices will not be materially advanced. I believe a normal condition of affairs will speedily be restored. In any event the supply of fresh meats throughout the country is sufficient to last fifteen or twenty days. There is enough cured meats—ham, bacon, etc.—to last six months."

SLAUGHTER A FEW. Swifts Kill Some Cattle at South Omaha.

Omaha, July 13.—At South Omaha today the Swift company began slaughtering a few cattle. At all the other plants the limited force was kept busy in an attempt to take care of perishable property, a great deal of which was left on hand when the men went on strike. There were practically no receipts at the stock yards.

Prices advanced at all the packing houses again today, and the belief was expressed that they would continue to do so as the supply of fresh meat became nearer exhausted.

Edward Cudahy of the Cudahy Packing company, said his plant had taken no consideration of an early resumption and that everything was at present at a standstill. He did not believe anything would be done for several days.

The closing of the packing houses has had the effect of throwing a great number of men out of employment who were not directly employed at the packing plants. These men, who used meat, stock yard employees, and others whose employers depended on the packing house business to sustain their business interests.

Everything was quiet throughout the city of South Omaha today, the policy of the men being to prevent any disturbance.

None of the strikers went near the packing plants, and no attempt was made to disturb the men who are caring for the stocks of fresh meats in the coolers.

DOING SOME KILLING. Armour's Plant at Kansas City Is Running.

Kansas City, July 13.—At one of the six local packing plants, Armour's, which were shut down yesterday as a result of the butchers and meat cutters' strike, killing was resumed today on a small scale. The other plans expect to be running soon with new men. The big retail dealers have made arrangements to do their own killing temporarily and assert that there will be no increase in prices of meat, at least at present. Quiet prevailed early today among the strikers.

Although the strike was principally in the interest of unskilled laborers, a number of this class of labor at Armour's did not go to work yesterday. These men do not belong to the union, an effort to organize them not having succeeded. These unskilled laborers were put to work today in the killing department. At this plant 500 head of cattle and 1000 head of hogs had been bought and an early start on them was made. The management stated

The material for the subway has been on hand for several days. The subway will be constructed of brick with brick masonry, all the work being of extra size.

The contract calls for the completion of the work in 30 days. The new subway will take in the main lead to the East End, both of power and electric light wires.

NO PITY SHOW. "For years fate was after me continually," writes F. A. Gallegher, a cornetist, "I had a terrible case of Piles causing 24 tumors. When all failed Bucken's Arnica Salve cured me. Equally good for hemorrhoids and all aches and pains. Oily 35c at all drug stores."

SWAMP LANDS TRANSFERRED. Large Lot Go From State to Iron Range Road.

A deed conveying the title of nearly 100,000 acres of state swamp lands to the Duluth and Iron Range road, was filed with the county register of deeds this morning.

The land transferred is a part of the land granted to the company under an act of legislature in 1853 giving it certain acres of swamp land to aid it in building a railroad from Duluth to the Mississippi range, the land to lie within ten miles of either side of the road and in St. Louis, Lake and Cook counties.

Previous to the last deed the state has transferred 45,150 acres of swamp lands to the railroad company as part of the agreement. The lands transferred by the last deed lie in townships 52-53, 54-55, 56-57, 58-59, 60-61, 62-63, 64-65, 66-67, 68-69, 70-71, 72-73, 74-75, 76-77, 78-79, 80-81, 82-83, 84-85, 86-87, 88-89, 90-91, The wind blew, so Miss Ballou carefully plinned on her hat with the blue bow and at a leisurely gait proceeded with the exercise.

The boys were Marcus Alonzo H. Edward O. Wolcott, James K. McKim, John D. Rockefeller, the girls were Edith and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller.

A rather strange fact is that two of the boys in later years became the chairmen of the national committees of the great political parties—Jones of the Democratic and Hanna of the Republican—both as the leaders of the respective parties in the United States senate.

"Eddie" Wolcott won hardly less distinction in the National Magazine.

NEGRO TURNING WHITE. Sheriff Preston, of Sulfur county, La. I., appeared before County Judge Walter Jayco and requested that a negro convict, Ward, be removed from the state prison to the territory of New Mexico. The judge said, "In lieu of the apology which is my due, for, you do owe me one, you certainly owe—"

"Yes," he said.

"You may take me for an hour or so."

"Your boat, she serenely told him, until the new boat was built. I don't want to see you go to jail, but if you don't come back, I and I am so tired I would be willing to sue to a Sioux Indian for your row. Why, I am willing to ask you to sue me for a million dollars."

"I think your manners a trifle askew," said, "but never mind. We will go on a sail." Then he spoke of the sail and the weather. "I had much to say for lead. That led me to think I am on the track of a really good piece of lead, and I simply gave my friends the lead." Then he said, "Why do you want to see me?"

"The man is turning white," he said. "One passes his cell and seeing to see the face of a colored man. On one side it is all black, but when I turn around the other side of his face I find it to be turning white. It is as if everybody in the jail."

The judge told Sheriff Presto to prepare an order for Ward's removal to the District Attorney Livingston Smith.

SALES OF LUMBER

Virginia Company Has Disposed of Several Million Feet.

Another Good Sale Reported—Summer Logging in Progress.

A sale of several million feet of lumber is reported to have been made in the past few days by the Virginia Lumber company. The stock is to go forward by rail to the East. The company has been in the cargo trade, but is now branching out into the car trade. The local market continues rather quiet, though the Tower Lumber company, through its local representative, A. W. Lout, has closed a sale within the last week, amounting to about $20,000.

John McAlpine, who has been logging in the 100,000 foot pine tract that he bought some time ago in Itasca county, has taken out about $1,000,000 feet, which has been sold to Minneapolis mills. The logs are being driven down Parable river to the Mississippi river, where they will be floated down to the mills. Nearly all the logs are now out of Parable river, there having been plenty of water, but some delay owing to back winds.

The Swan River Logging company has established camps near Custer, to take out 5,000,000 feet for the Standard Lumber company. The main camp is about two miles south of the town of Wilkison. The logging equipment of the Swan River company is being moved to the new timber district. A lively rumor is circulating in Ashland that the South Shore road is contemplating the purchase of the old pierless logging line in Northern Wisconsin, to give it access into that city. Just where the junction would be made with the main line of the South Shore road is not stated, but it is supposed that in case the logging road is purchased it would join the South Shore road somewhere between Iron River and Hibon, Wis.

HAD BETTER INVESTIGATE

Engineer Coleman Comments on Newspaper Report of Pier Work.

Assistant United States Engineer Clarence Coleman, who has charge of the new pier work at Superior entry, under Captain Charles L. Potter, said yesterday that he was very much surprised to learn from reading the Superior department of the News-Tribune that "the concrete has now arrived" and work on the piers will be rushed until ice forms this coming winter. "As a matter of fact," said Mr. Coleman, the cement was all here this last spring before the work began.

But what surprises me the most is the description given in the paper of the method of building the piers. The article states that the blocks are cast before being put on the foundation and are transported to the scene of the present operations by large scows equipped with hoisting apparatus. Any one acquainted with the nature of pier work, at all, will be very much astonished to learn that there are any scows with derricks strong enough to handle concrete blocks weighing hundreds of tons. The fact of the matter is the concrete is being laid under water, the big concrete blocks placed and then filled with the concrete transported from the mixing plant and lowered a bucketful at a time. The traveler with its hoisting apparatus has been tested to handle 10 tons, but when it comes to talking about hoisting one of the immense monolithic blocks with a hoisting apparatus, especially one on a scow, the statement appears absurd.

"It might be well for those who desire to make public statements of the work now under progress to visit the entry and see how the work is being done before attempting to describe something they know nothing about."

SENTENCE IS COMMUTED

Samuel Melvitz's Term Cut in Half by Pardon Board.

At a meeting of the state board of pardons, at St. Paul, yesterday, Samuel Melvitz, of this city, who was sent to the state penitentiary for 18 months, with a fine of $250, had his sentence commuted to eight months imprisonment. His term will now expire in September.

Melvitz was formerly in business on West Second street and Third avenue west and was convicted in district court of this county for receiving a quantity of stolen goods, about a year ago. The goods comprised several hundred pounds of sugar that had been stolen from a warehouse on the dock front.

Melvitz made the plea that he did

Throughout the suit department—the summer clearance sale is booming!

Prices are put so low no others can descend to them. Qualities and styles remain so high no others can reach them. This is the sort of clearance that clears. Suits, shirt waists, children's dresses and jackets, ladies' wrappers—all are included NOW in the big sale of the year, when cost is ignored in fixing the prices where the temptation to buy is too strong to resist.

Ladies' tailored suits in 3 wonderful bargain lots.

Just 3 racks represent all that's left of our tailored suits for ladies, in values ranging from $15.00 to $57.50. The higher-priced suits are also reduced, but these 3 racks contain all the broken lines up to the values stated, and the 3 prices we make enable you to buy a suit for less money—far less—than at any other store in the Northwest. We refuse to carry them beyond this season.

$7.50 is the price on a rack full of ladies' and misses' fine suits worth up to $25.00. Don't sneer at the price. Come and see the actual value. $12.50 is the price on Rack No. 2, the suits on which are worth up to $45.00. To wait or delay is chance. $16.50 is the price on suits worth up to $57.50 and no such values were ever before offered in Duluth. It's the time now to snatch a bargain.

DANGERS FROM FOREST FIRES NEAR BAYFIELD.

Ashland, Wis., July 13.—There is great danger of bad forest fires on the south shore of Lake Superior. The great amount

is caused by a large forest fire between

Bayfield and Fort Wing. The rain Monday did considerable to put it out, but it was as bad as ever. There will be considerable number of forest fires this year for so early in the season. Many of them have caused a great deal of damage. As yet the fire between

Bayfield and Fort Wing has caused no damage to homesteaders as far as can be ascertained, but if rain does not come soon there is liable to be considerable damage.

There is actually more danger from forest fires than there was when the forest was cleared and the land was in the hands of the lumbermen. A long spell of dry weather would result in

PLAGUE AT RIO JANEIRO.

THE METROPOLITAN—The Penman

"JIM, THE PENMAN."

The Elliott-Courtenay company's

seems to have hit the popular fancy, judging by its reception at the Lyceum.

It is a sterling old play and one that appeals to all classes. Beginning today the American Biograph will return with new views, prominent among them being a moving picture of this year's "Brooklyn Handicap," a most realistic picture, showing the race as if

day matinee, to be followed next week

"TENNESSEE'S PARTNER."

night at the Metropolitan of "Tenes-see's Partner." The same play will be

the season the Metropolitan will present

"A Daughter of Erin." The fact of its be-

that it is Irish, but there will be no

no vulgar horse play, green whiskers

WEST DULUTH

Among the West Duluth Catholic societies to take part in the dedication of the new St. James' church, Sunday, July 24, will be Division No. 4, A. O. H., St. James court No. 614, C. O. F., the Twentieth Century Progress club and Division No. 1, A. O. H.

Besides these societies from Duluth and Superior will participate in the event, and it is expected that fully 1500 people will participate in the procession, which starts at 2:30 p. m. from Forty-ninth avenue west and Grand, marching from there to the church on North Fifty-seventh avenue, and passing through the main business streets of the city.

The St. James court held a largely attended meeting last evening and discussed the arrangements for the part the court will play in the dedicatory services.

Twenty-four new pews, with a seating capacity of 240 persons, have been installed in the church and everything will be in readiness for the dedication when the date set for it arrives. Of course, the new pews represent only a fraction of the total seating capacity of the church, a new concrete flooring is now being placed in the basement of the structure preparatory to the installation of a steam heating plant.

Responds to Criticism of Cows Running at Large.

To the Editor of The Herald: I read in the West Duluth news on Monday night that a gentleman from West Duluth had made complaint that people turn out the cows with bells on. This is very true, but I will bet that the same man understands that these cattle are in pasture or on a rope, and I do not know that a poundmaster or a policeman has any right to take the bells off of cows, so I don't think it right for any citizen to blame the poundmaster for them. The writer says that he has a sick wife and that he has sympathy, but I can't help his wife being sick as I am no doctor. One thing I can help and if he or any one else has any complaint against cattle running at large, make the complaint to me and I will act. You do not need to go to the newspaper to make your complaints, and I will be sure to attend to the same, as I have done that up to this date. There is no honest man in this district that can meet me face to face and say that I have not attended to all complaints promptly. When I read this complaint in last night's paper I saw that it was all agit work against me, so I got three men to go out with me and we went over the Fifth district and I am ready to prove that I have never been so well cleaned up for cattle as it is at the present time. Last year the cattle ran at large both night and day, but there was nothing written in the newspaper about it. I want the citizens of the Fifth district to strictly understand that I shall at all times enforce the law as long as I am poundmaster.

FIRST CAR IS HERE

Great Part at Waukesha Factory is Now Ready for Shipment.

The first shipment of steel structural material for the new aerial bridge over the Duluth ship canal, arrived in Duluth this morning over the Northern Pacific road.

The car has not yet been unloaded and the city engineer was not able to state what part of the bridge it contained, but the work of transferring the material to the canal piers will be commenced at once.

The shipment consisted of but one car containing some thirty tons of material. The total amount of material in the bridge will amount to over 600 tons, and will require from twenty to twenty-five cars to transport it to Duluth from Waukesha.

From reports received by the city engineer the greater part of the material is now ready for shipment, and there is probably some more enroute to Duluth.

"I will believe we are going to have a bridge when I see the material on the ground," has been a common saying among those who were skeptical concerning the building of the bridge, but they will be satisfied within a day or two, or as soon as the carload of steel received this morning is transported to the piers.

There is not sufficient material in the carload to commence construction work and it will probably be a couple of weeks at least before the actual work of construction will be commenced.

P. T. Turner, the architect, who drew up the plans, when in Duluth recently, stated that the first shipment would be received on or about July 1 and that construction would be commenced on or about Aug. 1. He further stated that the work of putting the parts of the bridge together would occupy about thirty days, but some local engineers have expressed the opinion that the work would take longer than that, and the majority of the citizens will be more than pleased if the bridge is completed before the time the first snow flies in the fall.

Under the terms of the contract with the structural company, the city must pay over the sum of $35,000 on account when the material for the bridge has been delivered on the ground.

Capt. J. W. Miller Receives Visit from Grandson.

Joseph Lee Carr, son of the late Paul Carr, of this city, has been spending a few days with his grandfather, John W. Miller, of Hunter's Park. Mr. Carr came to Duluth from Foo Chow, China, where he has been employed in the British custom house for many years. He has been in the city for some time, and is now on his way back to China.

Since Mr. Carr left Duluth as a boy he has followed the sea, and at the time of his appointment to the British custom house in Foo Chow, he was a boatswain of a British merchantman. He returns to London to pursue a course of study in the naval service.

Capt. Miller is proud of his grandson, the youngest of his family, and he has been very anxious to see him. He has been in the city for some time, and is now on his way back to China.

Former Duluthian Dies.

Word was received in Duluth today of the death of John A. McGregor, at San Antonio, Texas. McGregor was formerly a resident of Duluth, and left here about eight years ago. Many of the older residents remember him. He was 35 years of age and unmarried. His parents are still living at Kintail, Ont.

While in Duluth Mr. McGregor was in the employ of F. D. Day & Co., but after leaving he was engaged in the telephone business, and was for a time the manager of the Bell Telephone company's system in Galveston, Texas.

MUST PAY ALIMONY.

Indiana Judge Sends Derelict Husband to Jail.

La Porte, Ind., July 12.—Judge Richter, of the La Porte circuit, threatens to fill the county jail with derelict husbands. He has ordered Truman Smith and Fred H. Cook to serve sentences of sixty days each, and also imposed a fine on each victim of $100 for contempt of court.

This county has a record for divorces and Judge Richter has determined to make all divorced husbands pay the alimonies which he imposes, in addition to fees for attorneys, or commit them to jail. It is said there is a sufficient number of derelict husbands to fill the county jail.

EFFORTS FAILED

To Secure an Evasion of Immigration Laws.

St. Louis, Mo., July 13.—Though the assistance of St. Louis, Mo., Henderson, Secretary Cortelyou, Gen. Clarkson, surveyor of the port of New York, and Washington, D. C., was enlisted, the efforts of Benjamin Gelfand, a Russian merchant here, to bring about a reunion of his family, were unsuccessful. The emigration officials claimed his baby boy was a defective, and while his two daughters were admitted, the boy and his mother were sent back to Russia, the mother to care for the child. A. L. Friebour, attorney, of this city, has been laboring since May to secure the admission of mother and child, but the officials could not be moved.

that they expected to increase their force gradually. J. P. Cudahy, of the Cudahy Packing company, in a statement, indicated that his company intended to make their plant an open shop. "We will hire all men who are willing to work," said Mr. Cudahy, "regardless of whether they are union men or not. We have from 500 to 800 non-union men in our plant and we expect to hire all the men we need. We will first use those men in cleaning up the plant. After this work is done, we expect to begin killing again."

"I believe that a majority of men who went out," continued Mr. Cudahy, "will be back at work within two weeks. I talked with a good many of the men and I never seen men strike more unwillingly. Many of them told me they were striking not because they wanted to, but because they were wished to by the strike order."

The Cudahy plant has always been a strictly union shop. The strikers have appealed to the Kansas City, Kans., flood relief committee for aid, saying that their husbands, who are packing house employees, are now idle, and the shutting off of their income coming on top of their losses by the recent flood, has increased their distress. The strikers will work a hardship to these persons, even if they receive strike benefits. The strikers remain firm. They, in most cases, stay away from the plants and seem determined to carry on a local campaign against their employers.

MEAT FAMINE

Possible in New York Within a Few Days.

New York, July 13.—A meat famine is possible here within a few days if the widespread strike of the butchers' union continues. There is a large amount of meat on hand in the numerous packing houses about the city, but as 2500 members of the union have been ordered to quit work today, there will be no one to pick up the supply. The strike has already caused an advance of 1 cent a pound in the wholesale price of beef here, while retailers are beginning to raise their prices. The strikers are demanding that the employers in this city declare they will make no effort to get workmen to take the places of the strikers.

The leaders and officers of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers' Union of America, nearly 5000 of whose members went out on strike today, are in conference at the local union headquarters. It is reported that a plan for the arbitration of the wage differences which caused the strike is under discussion. Requests for police protection from many of the meat packers were received about the hour for work to begin at the establishments. No trouble had threatened, but the requests were a precautionary measure. If the strike is continued, the worst case upon the report that a crowd of men was gathering.

When the hour for opening the packing plants had arrived, the strike of the butchers and meat handlers inaugurated in the West yesterday, was in effect here. Before many hours it was estimated that nearly 5000 men had quit work. The men made no demand for a strike.

From the managers of the beef plants it was learned that the beef supply in New York is a few hours the price of beef had gone up 2 and 3 cents a pound, with indications of advancing further in another few hours. None of the dealers had a supply sufficient to last longer than a week, and it is the opinion among the meat men that the strike will continue a meat famine is inevitable.

The possibility of a sympathetic strike of the butchers' union is feared. These men represent the cutters in retail stores and such a step would completely paralyze the retail trade. The strike has already affected the local abattoirs, the greater number of which are located in the city. From forty-third to Forty-sixth street. All work at these places is at a standstill and only orders for meat are being delivered today. Homer D. Call, national secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers' Union, is expected from Syracuse during the day. He will take charge of the strike in this city.

The seriousness of the situation, from the employers' standpoint, was shown in a statement issued by the local manager of Swift & Co. He said: "We have not advanced the price of anything for the simple reason that we have not anything to advance the price on. I am willing to pay 14 cents a pound for a carload of beef if I can get it, but I can't get it."

One of the managers for Armour said: "We have a good deal of meat on hand and our supplies are sufficient for two weeks. I don't know how long the strike is likely to last, but a meat famine is inevitable. The result of the differences are not settled quickly, that is, within two weeks. After that time the strike will still be on, and there will undoubtedly be a big rise in prices."

TO MEET SHORTAGE.

New England Provision Interests Making Arrangements.

Boston, July 12.—New England provision interests are preparing to meet an expected shortage of Western beef as a result of the strike of butchers and packers. In this city beef dealers are making arrangements to slaughter in abattoirs, near the city, in which cattle will be brought on hoof from all parts of New England, New York and nearby states. The meat supply was short before the strike was called according to the meat exporters, and wholesale prices already have advanced from $2 to $3 a hundred weight. Retail prices were advanced 1 cent a pound today, and will be advanced tomorrow and the next day, dealers say, unless the strike is settled.

One of the large firms involved in the Chicago strike operates a big packing house in Eastern Maine, for the export trade, and it is understood that the output will be turned into the domestic market.

ST. PAUL ALL RIGHT.

No Immediate Danger of Meat Famine There.

St. Paul, July 13.—(Special to The Herald.)—According to M. D. Plover, president of the St. Paul stock yards company, there is no immediate danger of a meat famine in St. Paul and vicinity on account of the strike of the butchers' union. The yards company has a large number of cattle arriving today and they were taken care of by the half dozen yards company, of which St. Paul, and the small butchers in surrounding cities.

charge of the Swift plant, in the absence of Manager Bland, stated to the Associated Press today that they were at a standstill and had been cleaned out of stock entirely. So far as they are concerned the strike is a reality. The smaller packers are not affected by the strike and are doing business as usual.

BRIGHT AT KANSAS CITY.

Dealers Arrange for Several Weeks Supply of Beef.

Kansas City, July 13.—Retail dealers say there will be no immediate increase in the price of meats, in this city as a result of the packing house men's strike, if at all. In spite of this there was a slight advance today at retail shops. Most of the big dealers have already arranged for a supply of meat that will last several weeks, and many will do their own killing. The big hotels and the more important restaurants have contracts with dealers to furnish their meats, and they profess to believe that there will be no shortage in their supplies. Two of the local packing houses least affected by the recent flood have supplies on hand sufficient, they say, to supply the local trade for a month. One of these stocks, which bought liberally at the stock yards today, is killing a limited scale and will try to supply certain outside trade also. The four other plants have supplies that will last two or three days.

NO INCREASE AT ST. LOUIS.

St. Louis, July 13.—There has not yet been any advance in the price of stock yards today, is killing a limited scale and will try to supply certain outside trade also. The four other plants have supplies that will last two or three days.

MEATS ADVANCE.

Philadelphia, July 13.—As a result of the butchers' strike there has been an advance of from 1 to 2 cents a pound in the wholesale price of meats in this city. At the West Philadelphia abattoir it was claimed that the price of beef advanced only 1/2 cent per pound.

but several wholesale dealers in the pork terminal market say there was a much greater advance.

WILL NOT AFFECT DETROIT.

Detroit, July 13.—Local killers of beef in this city declare that Detroit will not feel the effects of the packing house strike to any great extent. Prices here have not advanced today to any extent.

FACING FAMINE.

Washington, July 13.—Local butchers admit that Washington is again facing a meat famine of serious proportions, as a result of the strike in the packing houses in the west. Prime beef is held by several of the butchers at 25 cents, an increase of from 8 to 10 cents over a week ago and pork has jumped from 12 to 14 cents a pound.

NO INCREASE YET.

Baltimore, July 13.—Meat dealers in this city report that so far there has been no increase in prices as a result of the strike of the butchers and meat cutters at Chicago, except fresh pork, which has been advanced 1/2 cent a pound. They believe, however, that if the strike should continue, an increase in some lines would be inevitable.

ADVANCED AT PITTSBURGH.

Pittsburgh, July 13.—The strike of the packing house employees advanced the price of meat 3 cents a pound here today. Nearly 90 per cent of Pittsburgh's fresh meat supply has been cut off and still higher prices are expected. There is about one week's supply on hand.

VIEWS OF BRYAN

Gives Reasons Why He Will Support Democratic Ticket.

Lincoln, July 12.—W. J. Bryan yesterday gave out the following statement:

"I shall vote for Parker and Davis, the nominees of the Democratic national convention, and shall do so for the following reasons:

"First—Because the Democratic ticket stands for opposition to imperialism, while the Republican ticket stands for an imperialistic policy. On this question, which was the paramount issue in 1900, and which must remain an important issue so long as an attempt is made to hold colonies under the American flag on this issue the convention was unanimous, the platform emphatic, and I have no doubt that the candidate will carry out the platform.

"Second—Mr. Roosevelt is injecting the race issue into American politics and this issue, if it becomes national, will make it impossible to consider economic questions that demand solution. The election of the Democratic ticket will put a quietus upon this attempt, and permit the race question to work itself out, without the bitterness with Mr. Roosevelt's conduct has engendered.

"Third—Mr. Roosevelt stands for the spirit of war. His record in the present war is a man of blood and iron. He believes in strenuousness and incites a love for warlike things. The Democratic ticket stands for peace, for reason and for arbitration rather than for force, conquest and bloodshed.

"Fourth—Democratic platform declares in favor of the reduction of the standing army, and as this plank was unanimously adopted, there is reason to believe that a Democratic success on this subject would bring some advantage to the people.

"For these four reasons, I feel justified in supporting the ticket, but I shall not misrepresent the situation. I shall not vote for the ticket upon false grounds. A Democratic victory will mean very little, if any, progress on economic questions so long as the election is under the control of the Wall street element. On the money question Mr. Parker is as thoroughly committed to the side of the financiers as Mr. Roosevelt. If he does not go so far as the Republicans in establishing branch banks and in enlarging the powers of the national banks and in the substitution of an asset currency for the present currency, it will be because he is restrained by the Democrats in the house and senate. Nothing good can be expected of him on the money question.

"On the trust question the Democratic platform is very much better than the Republican platform, but the nomination of Judge Parker virtually nullifies the anti-trust plank. Unless in his letter of acceptance he commits himself to attempt anti-trust legislation, we need not expect him to pursue a different course from that pursued by President Roosevelt.

"So far as the labor questions are concerned, we must await Judge Parker's letter before we shall know whether the laborer has anything to expect from his election.

"The labor plank as prepared by Judge Parker's committee was a meaningless plank. In the full committee platform the eight-hour day and against government by injunction; also a plank on the Colorado situation. If Judge Parker is elected, the laborer can expect no more from the Democratic administration. It will mean that the financial influence back of him will not permit him to take the labor side on these disputed questions. On the tariff question some little progress may be hoped for.

"However, Judge Parker stands for enough things that are good to justify me in giving him my vote, but as I have tried to point out for several months, the triumph of the Wall street element of the party denies to the country any hope of relief on economic questions. I have nothing to take back, I have nothing to withdraw of the things that I have said against the method pursued to advance his candidacy.

"It was a plain and deliberate attempt to deceive the party. The New York platform was vague and meaningless and purposely so, because the advocates of Judge Parker were trying to secure votes from among the people who would have opposed his views had they known them. If he had sent to the Albany convention the telegram that he sent to the St. Louis convention he would have had very few instructed delegates from the South, and no possible chance for the nomination.

"But he and his managers adroitly and purposely concealed his position until the delegates had been corrupted, and the nomination secured. Then his friends attempted to secure a gold plank, which was overwhelmingly defeated in the committee. After the party had rejoiced over the harmony secured by the omission of any gold plank, which was overwhelmingly defeated in the committee, and after he had secured the nomination, he injected his views upon the subject at a time when he could not be taken from the ticket without great demoralization. The nomination was secured, therefore, by crooked and indefensible methods, but the Democrat who loves his country has to make his decisions upon conditions as he would like to have them.

"After having stated that I shall support the ticket, and after having given my reason for so doing, I think it due to the Democrats of the nation to say that while the light on economic questions is postponed, it is not abandoned. As soon as the election is over I shall, with the help of those who believe as I do, undertake to organize for the campaign of 1908, the object being to marshal the friends of the popular government to the support of a radical and progressive policy to make the Democratic party efficient means in the hands of the people for securing relief from the plutocratic element that controls the government, and for the time being is in control of the Democratic party. This plan of organization will be elaborated soon."

HIGHBALL BREAKS LEG

Famous Three Year Old Injured at Brighton Beach.

New York, July 12.—Highball, the American derby winner, and one of the best of the season, broke his leg at the angle during the running of the Seagate stakes at Brighton Beach yesterday. As Highball is insured for $25,000 a message was sent to a representative of the insurance company in New York to come at once to the track and see the horse and his agony, but Bud May, half owner of the horse, would not consent to have him taken to the city.

Only three faced the starter for the Seagate stakes, with Highball favorite at 11 to 20. Highball showed in front to the end of the race, but when he was about to cross the finish line he was struck by the hind legs of the horse owned by Odum and Odum had to lift him over the head to keep him in the race. The horse was then sent to the hospital and the doctor said he was in a bad way, and that he would not survive the night.

VALUABLE JEWELS FOUND ON WOMAN.

Stockton, Cal., July 12.—Diamonds worth about $500 have been found in the possession of Manuela Erabel Sabin, arrested here with Henry J. Kendall and charged with a Chicago diamond robbery. The woman, who is known as the "diamond thief," was found with the jewels on her person when she was arrested. The jewels included a diamond ring, a diamond necklace, and a diamond bracelet. The woman is now in jail, and the jewels are being held by the police.

RHEUMATISM JOINTS AND MUSCLES SWOLLEN AND STIFF

A disease so painful and far-reaching in its effects upon the human system as Rheumatism, must have a deep and well-laid foundation. It originates and develops in the blood, and, like other diseases of the blood, is frequently inherited. The poisonous acids with which the blood is charged circulate through the system, breaking down the health, irritating the nerves, setting in joints and muscles, and causing the sharp, cutting pains peculiar to Rheumatism. Unless the blood is purified, joints and muscles become inflamed with the acid matter and are rendered stiff and sore, and the nerves completely wrecked. Rheumatism, being a constitutional blood disease, requires internal treatment. Liniments, plasters and such things as are applied outwardly, give only temporary relief. S. S. S. is the recognized greatest of all blood purifiers and tonics, and in no disease does it act so promptly and beneficially as Rheumatism, neutralizing the acids and restoring the blood to a pure, healthy condition and invigorating and toning up the nerves and all parts of the system. It is guaranteed strictly vegetable. Write us should you desire medical advice, which will cost you nothing.

A HARVEST OF GOLD

As Volume of Currency Grows, Commerce Also Increases.

New York, July 12.—The enormous demand for cotton throughout the manufacturing world is known to many, and our country has reaped a harvest of gold from the cotton crop of 1903 to the great joy and prosperity of millions of our people.

The growth in demand for cotton cloth from all sources marks the betterment of conditions of the populations in all nations, and thus the demand continues to increase as the conditions improve all parts of the earth that mankind inhabits.

In this series of articles the broad principle has been laid down that as the volume of currency of a state, a nation, a continent or the world increases, the volume of business, commerce, of traffic is sure to increase in direct proportion, and as the activity becomes more widespread, the prosperity of the masses of the population steadily grows, and given a sufficient volume of legal tender currency, the prosperity maintains and will not diminish.

The currency of the world is rapidly increasing in gold today more rapidly than either in paper or silver. The gold currency of the world this present year will be increased July 12, 1904, in amount.

It is a well recognized law in banking that a reserve of 25 per cent of the currency is a safe and sound basis for $1,000,000,000 in banking or commercial credits or currency. For the past eight years this increase in the world's gold and its corresponding increase in banking and commercial credit has been steadily progressing, and men familiar with gold mining know positively and without doubt that each and every year for the next ten years at least will show greater and constantly increasing production of the yellow metal.

The writer calls the attention of the most conservative, the most experienced, the most cautious business men to actual facts and conditions based upon these facts. If the government of the United States issues $5,000,000,000 in new silver dollars many conservative, good business men would oppose such issue, saying it is inflation of the currency with 50-cent dollars, but they would admit and recognize that the issue of new currency would increase business in volume and inflate values.

So, they knew that the government of the United States was sure to issue $5,000,000,000 of new greenback currency, the issue of new currency would increase business in volume and inflate values.

So, they knew that the government of the United States was sure to issue $5,000,000,000 of new greenback currency, the issue of new currency would increase business in volume and inflate values.

SON MISSING MANY YEARS

He Returns a Prosperous Citizen to Claim a Fortune.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 12.—Twenty years ago William Baggett, now a prosperous merchant of Brooklyn, N. Y., left his home in Cleveland. He was then 20 years of age, and disappeared after telling his parents that he was going to a theater.

Not a word was heard from him since that time until last week, when he returned here to claim one-fourth of a large fortune left by his father and mother, who died, one seven and the other one year ago.

Fred Baggett, the Brooklyn merchant, was a rich man, and he spent much time and money in an effort to locate his missing son. Mr. Baggett, the mother, refused to believe her missing son dead, and she bequeathed one-fourth of the estate to him, to be held for twenty years.

After her death the brother and sisters inserted a notice in the newspapers asking William Baggett to write to his brother and sisters, No. 125 Lorain street, Cleveland, for valuable information. About a month ago they received a letter from William in Brooklyn, and last week he came here. The estate was distributed and he left last night for Brooklyn with his share.

While here he said that he left home to see the country and traveled from coast to coast for several years, finally locating in Albany, N. Y., and later in Brooklyn. He is now in the commission business and is well to do. He is still single.

TOO SHORT WAS HAIR

And the Burglar Made His Escape.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 12.—Beatrice McHugh, aged 17 and pretty, had a desperate struggle with a burglar in her home and almost captured him. Detectives Larsh and Houser arrested Charles Lee, living next door, on the charge of entering the McHugh home. He is 15 years old.

The girl showed marks on her pretty neck where she said the burglar choked her.

"I just woke up," she said, "and found him choking me. I grabbed him and tried to pull his hair, but his hair was short. I tried to scratch him, but he ran away. The burglar jumped from the window the next house, where Leo lives. Herbert Crabill, Miss McHugh's brother-in-law, and his wife ran to the assistance of the girl when she screamed, but the burglar was just disappearing.

OHIO MURDERERS Will Have to Die at the Appointed Time.

Columbus, Ohio, July 12.—Governor Herrick wired from Orestville, Mass., yesterday that he would not interfere in the case of Al and Ben Wade of Toledo, who are under sentence to be electrocuted next Thursday morning for the murder of Kate Sullivan. The brothers had applied for a commutation of sentence.

Al Wade is on the verge of collapse. He has neither slept nor eaten since Sunday and paces back and forth continually. Frequently he is heard to cry out in utter despair: "My God, I've got to die." "I've got to die."

Ben Wade spends most of his time reading the Bible.

Fred Knapp, the Hamilton, Ohio, wife murderer, who is under sentence to be electrocuted Aug. 19, was returned to the annex at the Ohio penitentiary yesterday. The prisoner was brought from Hamilton by way of Middletown.

While waiting at the station at the latter place, a large crowd gathered and the threat of lynching was made. A crowd became so demonstrative that Knapp was locked in the ticket office when he was hurried aboard. Knapp did not appear alarmed, but the officers were greatly alarmed.

CERAUNOGRAPH Invented by Priest Will Save Many Lives.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 12.—Many lives will be saved every year on the great lakes, according to Father Fredrick Ledwisch, professor in St. Ignace high school on Jersey street, if only one were made of an instrument called the ceraunograph.

The meteorological observatory at St. Ignace is provided with one of these delicate instruments, by the aid of which Father Ledwisch, one of the best-known American authorities in this line of work, can forecast thirteen hours before the numerous lake storms, and squalls which come up often on bright, clear days with such rapidity and such disastrous results to small craft.

During the year 1903 there were thirty-one days on which thunderstorms passed over Cleveland. These were observed, two occurring on the same day in five instances. The ceraunograph warning came on an average of over thirteen hours before the storm reached Cleveland.

A Calumet Shoemaker Builds Big Shoes for Young Giant.

Hancock—A Calumet shoemaker has just finished building a pair of shoes for Louis Mollen, a young man known as "the Quincey hill giant." Mollen stands 7 feet 3 inches in height, and tips the scales at 290 pounds. The shoes made for him are 12 1/2 inches in length, 9 inches in width and weigh 5 pounds each. Mollen will use them while at work in the Quincey mine, where he is employed. He is but 19 years of age and is still growing. His parents are of ordinary size. A number of offers to exhibit the young giant have been made by showmen, but all have been refused. Mollen preferring to remain at home with his parents.

Escanaba—With one or two exceptions, all the grocers in Escanaba are members of the Retail Protective association, recently formed. The list of dead beat names is growing and the merchants say they are benefited by the association and already notice they are helped in making collections. Resolutions have been passed providing that a petition be presented to the council asking that the ordinance regarding peddlers selling without a license be enforced. The petition will also ask that hawkers and peddlers lying at the docks be prohibited from selling without a license.

Police Bloodhounds Demonstrate Ability to Trail a Fugitive.

Officer Smollett Gives Them Lead Which They Follow Easily.

With a view to determining the efficiency of the police department bloodhounds on an old trail, a thorough test was made this morning.

Yesterday afternoon Patrolman Smollett took a car to Thirty-sixth avenue west and leaving Superior street at this point started north across the country. He crossed a little creek that runs through the valley at this point and headed in a northwesterly direction, coming out near the old Cragcroft school, where he took a car back to the police headquarters.

This morning he returned to the point where he had emerged from the woods, and Capt. Resche left for Thirty-sixth avenue east with "Kate" and the three pups. They picked up the officer's trail, which was some eighteen hours old, before the captain had an opportunity to place them on it and started off dragging at the chain and yelping like mad. They followed the trail without a pause, crossing the creek where they passed the previous afternoon, and picking up the scent without difficulty on the other side. The pups were just as hot on the trail as their mother and the four of them led the captain a merry chase through the underbrush and trees.

They covered the distance, nearly two miles, at as fast a pace as the captain could maintain, and emerging at the car track near the Cragcroft school ran up to Officer Smollett, who was in waiting there and leaped about him barking and jumping. The test proved beyond a doubt the ability of the dogs to follow a scent from twelve to eighteen hours old. Kate has shown her capabilities on former occasions, but this is the first time that the pups have been given a trial and the officers are much pleased at the success they met with.

It is the intention to continue the trials, giving the dogs similar every two or three weeks to keep them in good condition.

Court Pronounces Contracts Between Unions and Employers Void.

Milwaukee, July 12.—Contracts made by incorporated labor unions with manufacturers, prohibiting the employment of non-union workmen, are void, according to a decision announced by Judge Ludwig, in the circuit court, today. It is the first ruling upon the question in Wisconsin, and if sustained by the supreme court will be of far-reaching importance.

The decision was given in the suit brought by the Milwaukee Custom Tailors' union against a local concern, which set its agreement with the tailors to employ none but union workmen. A temporary injunction was obtained, but this, Judge Ludwig ruled, was improvidently issued.

After the injunction was issued the union instituted to compel the company to comply with its terms, which the court has now denied and the injunction set aside.

WILL MAKE FIRST TRIP

New Observation Car on Street Railway System to Go Out.

Tomorrow the first trip of the new observation car, which has been secured by the Duluth-Superior Traction company for the use of tourists and parties, will be made from the Spalding hotel, starting at 2 p. m.

The Commercial club, which has been instrumental in getting the car constructed by the street railway company, has been given by General Manager Warren the honor of the first opportunity of riding in it, and the public affairs committee of the club will represent the club on this trip. H. V. Eva, secretary of the club, has sent invitations to all the members of the committee to meet at the Spalding at 2 o'clock tomorrow to board the car and make a trip over the lines of the street railway company.

Mr. Warren will act as host on the occasion, in behalf of the company, and the first run will be to Lester Park, where the car will remain fifteen minutes or so. Then coming down town the car will go up Third avenue west and next to Fifth avenue west and Fourth street, where there is one of the finest views in the city. The last section of the trip will be a run to West Duluth. It is calculated that the runs will be concluded between 4 and 5 o'clock and furnish an afternoon of novelty and enjoyment for the travelers.

DENOUNCES PEABODY AND INJUNCTIONS.

Milwaukee, July 12.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, addressed the delegates to the International Longshoremen and Marine Transport Workers' association convention today. He denounced Governor Peabody, of Colorado, for his course in the miners' trouble and also said that the system of injunctions was wrong. He also

NORTH DAKOTA.

Fargo—The combination of crooks following the Ringling circus and the Mundy carnival made things lively for the police. There were many cases of purse snatching and pocket picking with some of burglary. The most serious case reported was the robbery of the safe in a 5 and 10-cent store. The work was evidently done by a gang of men who had concealed themselves in the rear of the store and did the work while the clerks were watching the circus parade from the front of the store. The show people had a number of detectives co-operating with the local police and a number of arrests were made. Several crooks ran up here from the Twin Cities to put in a day with the farmers and followed the circus to Ortonville.

The farmers' excursions to the North Dakota Agricultural college are on in full blast, and will continue nearly every day. In the state sends delegations of fifty farmers. The delegations secure practically all the time of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern, less than the cost of the return trip being charged. When the excursions were first inaugurated five years ago the farmers ridiculed the station work, but since their better acquaintance with its methods through the excursions and the farmers' institutes, there has been a complete change of sentiment.

Pierre—Western Sully county are a number of residents who left that section to find better locations and after wandering about for some time have returned and have landed back at their old locations perfectly satisfied. V. H. Shurt is the last one to get back after looking over Western Canada. He is back at his old place to stay, and says it looks better than any place he saw on his travels.

The management of the reform school has given up the case of Louis Bowker, sent to that institution from Stanley county, and after an investigation of the case by the board of charities and corrections he has been returned to the custody of his parents. The school board will be taken into court in that county this week for further action on the part of Judge Gaffy, and will probably get a term in the penitentiary.

The date of the launching of the cruiser South Dakota, at the yards of the Union Iron works at San Francisco, has been fixed for Thursday, July 21, at 6:30 p. m. This hour being set on account of the fact that the management of the company which is building the vessel, through the navy department, extended to Miss Grace Herrell an invitation to christen the vessel, and it has been accepted. On the day of the ceremony, and the short notice, it is not likely that any large party from the state will be present at the ceremony. On account of the meeting of the state board of equalization, Governor Herrell can stay but two days, and the trip of the governor's party will be a hurried one.

Aberdeen—Charles A. Fisher, one of the oldest citizens in point of residence in Aberdeen, died Saturday of heart trouble, aggravated by uremic poisoning. He was sick but thirty minutes, being taken with convulsions quite suddenly. He had been postmaster, city auditor, and had held other places to mention in the city and was prominent in Masonic circles of the state and city. At the time of his death he was clerk of the board of education. He was 44 years old.

SCHNETTLER PLEADS GUILTY. St. Louis, July 12.—John H. Schnettler, a former member of the St. Louis municipal assembly, today pleaded guilty in the St. Louis circuit court to a charge of bribery in connection with the passage of the city lighting bill. Sentence was deferred.

WILLIAMS WILL TAKE STUMP. New Orleans, July 12.—A telegram from Jackson, Miss., says a Congressman John Sharp Williams will place his services at the disposal of the national Democratic committee and make speeches in the doubtful states during the coming campaign. He expects to go to Esopus about the time the national committee meets.

Social, Musical and Art Circles.

An informal picnic, supper and reception was held last evening at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. William Burgess, on Park Point. The affair was in honor of Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Southworth, who are guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Washburn, of Hunter's Park. Rev. Mr. Southworth was formerly pastor of the First Unitarian church of this city, and a large number of his friends were present last evening to meet him informally. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Julius Schneider, Mrs. J. P. Warren, Mrs. J. H. Groulx, Mrs. A. H. Grassweller and Mrs. H. V. Goetschius.

Engagement Announced.
The engagement of Miss Anna Dickinson, of 1523 East First street, to Harford L. Hillson was announced yesterday.

Events of Interest.
Announcements have been received in Duluth of the marriage of Miss Stullman Chase, formerly of this city, and Miss Minnie Scott Douglas. The wedding took place Thursday, June 9, at Lynchburg, Ohio.

Invitations are out for the midsummer ball to be given by the Assembly. It will be given as usual at the Spaulding, Friday evening, July 2, and the executive committee have planned for the most delightful of their recent parties.

The pavilion dance, to be given this evening by the Junior Assembly at Oakta beach, promises to be one of the most delightful affairs of the week.

H. Rosenberg, of 316 West Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Burg, of 213 West Third street, are entertaining Mrs. L. J. Shepard, of Calumet.

Miss Farrar, of Englewood, N. J., is the guest of Mrs. E. L. Barrows, of 112 Nineteenth avenue east.

Mrs. John L. Mann, of Tenth avenue east, has returned from a two-months' trip abroad.

Miss Annie Crotty, of Eau Claire, arrived in the city yesterday and is the guest of Miss Ethel O'Donnell, of West Third street.

HAVE CIVIC VALUE.
Song Birds Can Inspire lofty Ideals and Aspirations.

Song birds, aside from their brilliant plumage so pleasing to the observer, are also a source of great value to the human race. They are the most beautiful of creatures, and their songs are a source of great pleasure to the human race. They are also a source of great value to the human race, as they are the most beautiful of creatures, and their songs are a source of great pleasure to the human race.

All those who dwell in an atmosphere of intellectual refinement yearn for brilliant things in flowers, birds, sunsets, and in their fellow mortals. A heartless boy who recklessly slaughters birds will inevitably develop into a reckless man. It is taught to hold the law in high esteem when young in years, he becomes a patriotic man with a reverence for the statutes of his state. The most courageous men, the bravest warriors, and the most aggressive leaders are those of gentle natures and tender hearts. It is the duty of the state to protect the rights of the citizen, and to maintain the law. The law is the basis of all civilization, and without it, society would be a chaos.

Very Gallant.
Yonkers Statesman: "Is your seat comfortable, dear?" he asked when they got settled in the theater.

"Yes, it is very nice," said the wife, smiling pleasantly.

"Feel any draught, dear?"

"Not a particle."

"Not one."

"No, I'm very comfortable."

"Then change seats with me, dear."

Open Work Goes Out.
New York Sun: Openwork stockings have had their day. They are discarded as being too cheap this season. Shopkeepers are almost ready to give them away. There was never anything very chic about stocking that did not even half conceal a woman's ankles. And nothing makes the ankle look so trim and fascinating as a fine, plain black silk stocking, such as can be drawn through a wedding ring. A little hand embroidery is permissible, but nothing else in the way of embellishment.

A new station will be erected either on the bay front or at the site of the Omaha depot in Superior.

An official of the Omaha road says he will not believe that his road has entered into any agreement to use a tunnel for the purpose of carrying traffic over a building on the site of the present Omaha depot.

It warms the heart like sunshine, cheers the soul like old wine, gives hope for the future, blots out the past. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea does. 25 cents, Tea or Tablets. Ask your druggist.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Elliott-Courtenay company in "Jim the Penman."

CLARA MATHES COMPANY.
Clara Mathes has finished her first half week most auspiciously at the Metropolitan. Her performance of "Fable Roman" at four performances to large audiences, tonight, Daughter of Erin will be produced. This play is an extremely interesting tale of Irish folk life and is considered by many the best bit of Irish drama on the stage. The members of the company are well cast. The specialties will be changed tonight and will include good singing and dancing.

BATHING PLACE

Dr. Murray Offered Long Free Lease of a Fine Site.

"I wish you would say that I am waiting for some of Duluth's public-spirited citizens to meet with me and formulate plans for raising the money by popular subscription to defray the expense of building a free bathing establishment on the bay front," said Dr. D. D. Murray, the city health officer, this morning.

Dr. Murray has become interested in the movement for the establishment of a free bathing place for the boys and the people of the city, and has taken the matter up with a great deal of enthusiasm.

He already has a bona fide offer from a certain quarter for a ten-year free lease of a site along Park Point that would make an ideal spot for bathing grounds and with the privilege of leasing again. Another person has offered to head the subscription list with $50 and a number of persons who have not been solicited have voluntarily offered to donate as liberally as they feel they can toward so beneficial a movement.

The idea is a popular one goes without saying. From all sides the idea is receiving hearty commendation and many people have thought it strange that nobody has broached it before this season.

All that it needs now, it is said, is for some of Duluth's public-spirited citizens to take the initiative in the matter, meet with Dr. Murray or tell him what plan of procedure they would advise.

The idea of those who have become interested in having a free bathing establishment is to get it by popular subscription and then to offer it over to the city for maintenance. That the city council would act favorably on the idea seems to be a foregone conclusion.

There are thousands of boys in Duluth, it is claimed, who have lived beside the lake and bay all their lives, who are not able to swim a stroke. The parents of such boys are hailing with pleasure any scheme which gives promise of a safe bathing place where their young hopefuls can be taught the very pleasing and useful art of swimming.

While the idea has been for a free bathing place for all those who have lived beside the lake and bay all their lives, who are not able to swim a stroke. The parents of such boys are hailing with pleasure any scheme which gives promise of a safe bathing place where their young hopefuls can be taught the very pleasing and useful art of swimming.

Another point that has been raised is the question of the location of the bathing place. It is suggested that the bathing place be located on the bay front, where it would be easily accessible to the public. It is also suggested that the bathing place be located on the bay front, where it would be easily accessible to the public.

LAW BARS

Certain Contingencies Under Which Citizens May Lose Their Votes.

Provisions of Law as to Precincts in Unorganized Townships.

Because a large number of the citizens of St. Louis county are practically disfranchised and cannot have voting places at the coming elections, by reason of the construction the state attorney general has put on the amended election law, it is quite certain that steps will be taken to have introduced at the next meeting of the board of county commissioners a bill which, if passed, will provide the proper relief.

Whether relief can be obtained through any other means than the legislature is a matter of doubt, and Assistant County Attorney W. G. Crosby is now investigating the situation.

This matter was raised at the meeting of the board of county commissioners Monday, when the board undertook to establish five new voting precincts in unorganized townships. The precincts were established, but if the county attorney finds that this action is likely to be held illegal, the board will rescind their resolution at the meeting of the board next Monday.

The situation is a peculiar one in that the statutes, if strictly interpreted, take away, if such thing is possible, the constitutional rights of a citizen.

The law states that where not less than ten legal voters in an unorganized township petition the board of county commissioners for an election precinct, the commissioners shall establish the same providing it is not less than ten miles from the nearest election precinct. In other words, a new voting place cannot be established within ten miles of one already established.

When this law was framed it was evidently not brought to the attention of the lawmakers that there might possibly exist conditions where there is no election precinct, so that the condition of the law would be practically disfranchised.

If the letter of the law is to be followed strictly, there will be many settlers in unorganized townships in this county who will not have voting places at the coming fall county and presidential elections. Residing in an unorganized township they are not permitted to vote in an election, so they will be practically disfranchised.

Within the limits of the village of Proctorville there is a strip of railroad right-of-way that was never included when the village was incorporated. The result is that the forty men who have made their home in a boarding house located on the land, have been unable to vote in the election precinct established on the land for their special convenience because it is less than ten miles from the nearest election precinct.

Summer Catarrh Affects Men and Women

HON. JUDSON W. LYONS, Register of the United States Treasury, in a letter from Washington, D. C., says:

"I find Peru-na to be an excellent remedy for the catarrhal affections of spring and summer, and those who suffer from depression from the heat of the summer will find no remedy the equal of Peru-na."—Judson W. Lyons.

Two Interesting Letters from Thankful Women.

Miss Eleanor Lindblum, 555 Jackson street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

"Some time ago Peru-na was recommended to me so highly as a nerve tonic that I decided to try it. I was able to sleep and my appetite began to improve. I was greatly pleased and continued to use Peru-na for some time, until now I am a well woman and my constitution is in fact, I never felt better. I therefore praise Peru-na to all as a very good medicine."—Miss Eleanor Lindblum.

When I wrote you I was troubled with frequent headaches, dizzy, strange feelings in the head, sleeplessness, sinking feelings, faintness and numbness. Sometimes I had heartburn. My food would rise to my throat after every meal, and my bowels were very irregular.

Peru-na Contains No Narcotics.

One reason why Peru-na has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Peru-na is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peru-na does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

SUPERIOR'S UNION DEPOT

Visit of Railroad Officials Causes Renewal of Site Interests.

A party of railroad men, comprised of officials of the Lake Superior & Terminal company, visited Superior in a private car yesterday and spent some time looking over the company's interests and inspecting probable sites for the new union depot.

The officials of the terminal company are men connected with the various railroad companies using the Union depot in Superior. Louis W. Hill, of the Great Northern, being in charge. Union depot officials Mr. Hill were George T. Slade, general superintendent of the Great Northern; H. C. Horn, general manager of the Northern Pacific; and President W. F. Fitch, of the South Shore road. Several of the officials of the Omaha road joined the party.

A visit was made to the East End and the South End and other points reached by the Terminal tracks.

The visit of the officials has again aroused speculation as to the site of the new depot which will replace the burned down a few days ago. The general belief seems to be that the new station will be erected either on the bay front or at the site of the Omaha depot in Superior.

An official of the Omaha road says he will not believe that his road has entered into any agreement to use a tunnel for the purpose of carrying traffic over a building on the site of the present Omaha depot.

Woman's Nightmare

No woman's happiness can be complete without children; it is her nature to love and want them as much so as it is to love the beautiful.

The critical ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so fraught with dread, pain, suffering and danger, that the very thought of it fills her with apprehension and horror. There is no necessity for the reproduction of life to be either painful or dangerous. The use of Mother's Friend so prepares the system for the coming event that it is safely passed without any danger. This great and wonderful remedy is always applied externally, and has carried thousands of women through the trying crisis without suffering.

CLARA MATHES COMPANY.
Clara Mathes has finished her first half week most auspiciously at the Metropolitan. Her performance of "Fable Roman" at four performances to large audiences, tonight, Daughter of Erin will be produced. This play is an extremely interesting tale of Irish folk life and is considered by many the best bit of Irish drama on the stage. The members of the company are well cast. The specialties will be changed tonight and will include good singing and dancing.

Former Gov. Peck of Wisconsin May Be Democratic Candidate.

He Discusses St. Louis Convention and Wisconsin's Part in It.

Hon. George W. Peck, former governor of Wisconsin, and probable candidate for the gubernatorial chair of the Baugher state at the fall election, is in the city. Governor and Mrs. Peck arrived today and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Werner Pressentin, at 1509 East Second street, where they will probably remain until next Monday. During the governor's official term at Madison, Mr. Pressentin was his private secretary.

"Mr. Peck and I are on our way home to Milwaukee from St. Louis," said the governor this afternoon at the Kitchi Gami club, where he had lunch, "and desired to make a visit to friends in Duluth, especially as our son, Roy W. Peck, is here with the Oliver Iron Mining company."

"The convention at St. Louis was one of the most enjoyable events that I have ever attended. It was a great occasion in every sense of the word, and with such important issues at stake, considered ideal weather and a lot of good Democrats getting together, I think I might say it was the gala week of my life. We had a congenial crowd of delegates down from Wisconsin, prepared to stand together and all fared famously. While our choice of a candidate for the nomination was not the prevailing one, we cannot but express our satisfaction at the nomination of so excellent a man."

"Judge Parker is a remarkably able man, a man of strong convictions and principles, and a worthy standard bearer for the party for the coming campaign. He is worthy in every way of the office and I think with the sentiment growing all the time he will ultimately prove his strength."

"How about the criticism of him by Mayor David S. Rose, of Milwaukee?"

"There has been a great deal of unjust criticism of the mayor on account of his speech at the convention, and he ought to be given the benefit of the facts. The Wisconsin men went to St. Louis pledged for a Wisconsin Democrat, for the nomination, Edward C. Wahl, who, by the way, is a brother of Whitney Wahl, of Duluth. In acting as spokesman for the Wisconsin delegation, Mr. Rose did not like a man out duck hunting, attempt to promote his ends by shooting into the flock. He picked out the leading one, something on the 'when-you-see-a-head-hill' plan, and as it happened Judge Parker was the leading one, and he went after him.

"There was no feeling against Judge Parker, but what was said was out of zeal for our own son of Wisconsin. None of us discredited Judge Parker's integrity and worth and anything that tends to make Mayor Rose out as an opponent of Judge Parker is not correct. He endeavored in the convention to point out what Parker's own opponents in New York state had ever been making capital of. The mayor is a Democrat, and a good one, a young man with an enthusiasm for the party and with the amount of pride in his own state that is commendable."

"Well, I have been favorably spoken of by a good many quarters, and I have told those who have spoken to me about the matter that if it is the prevailing wish of the party that I have my name submitted for the nomination I shall do so. I have been in retirement for nine years and I can say frankly that after so long a time out of official life I feel quite well pleased to think that I am so well remembered."

"As to Illinois, I cannot speak very well for it, but in Wisconsin it is certain that the dissatisfaction in the public ranks is going to increase the vote on the Democratic side. Not only that, but the Democrats have been very forthrightly with us, and we have seen the wisdom of rejoining the old ranks and getting into the line."

"Do you think the St. Louis convention means the end of Bryan and Bryanism?"

"No, sir, emphatically not. Mr. Bryan, in my opinion, is the strongest man in the Democratic party today, and his strength will be well recognized shortly. Mr. Bryan proved himself greater than anyone else by his conduct in the case of the Dardanelles, and his strength will be well recognized shortly. Mr. Bryan proved himself greater than anyone else by his conduct in the case of the Dardanelles, and his strength will be well recognized shortly."

ANXIOUS FOR TROPHY.

National Guardsmen Want Something to Shoot For.

The members of Companies A and C, Minnesota Third regiment and Company I of Superior are looking for some philanthropic citizen who will donate a trophy to be shot for at a competitive test to be held in Duluth in August.

At a meeting of the two Duluth companies in the Army last evening, plans for the shooting contest and the arrangements will be completed at an early date whether the trophy is ready or not.

At the annual encampment, Company C, second place in the regimental shoot and Company A, third. The field staff and hand took place in the morning. The company I has signified its willingness to join the local companies in a competitive shoot, and it will doubtless be killed off early next month.

From each company and seven from the field staff and band will take part, each man to be allowed ten shots at 300, 300 and 300 yards.

Would Undoubtedly Result in Improvement of the Road.

While the intended control of the Wisconsin Central by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road is denied by the officials of the latter line, it is a known fact that agents of John D. Rockefeller, in inspection of the Wisconsin Central road, presumably with a view to ascertaining its physical condition and earning prospects and reporting on the advisability of having it controlled by Rockefeller interests. Rockefeller, a heavy stockholder in the Milwaukee road and if he were to take hold of the Wisconsin Central it would be virtually considered a Milwaukee road.

Denials of the reported adoption of the road by the Milwaukee road, based on the decision in the Northern Securities merger case, but it is pointed out by people in a position to know that the Wisconsin Central is not a competing line of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and for this reason its acquisition by the latter road would be in violation of the law. It is said that the Wisconsin Central, not having terminals at Chicago, Milwaukee or Duluth, is not a competitor of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road in the legal sense.

The Wisconsin Central, if it were taken in hand by the other and larger corporation, would no doubt be subjected to great improvements, and elevated to the physical standard attained by the parent company. This would enable it to compete with the Milwaukee road on a faster schedule than at present and bring the about the same service to the Milwaukee road, to get the mileage down to anything materially less than at present.

The only way to do this would be by constructing a new cutoff between this city and the main line of either the Wisconsin Central or the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. While it may be that this is the object of the people surveying into Superior, it is not probable that it will be accomplished.

The present route of the Omaha road from Duluth to Chicago is 470 and over the Wisconsin Central 514. Only two miles of the Omaha road are by using the Milwaukee tracks from Portage to Chicago via Madison, and the Milwaukee road is not a competitor of the Omaha road in the Milwaukee district.

Physical improvement of the property would probably enable an hour or more to be cut off the running time between here and Chicago, although, even with the network of track the Milwaukee road has in the state of Wisconsin, it would be impossible by a combination of Wisconsin Central and Milwaukee tracks to get the mileage down to anything materially less than at present.

begun by a most striking proof of fidelity to conviction, will be identified with the present and future welfare of the republic and strongly wishing and hoping for its complete success, I am, sincerely yours, HENRY WATKINSON.

Henry Watkinson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, sent John Parker a lot of clippings from his paper, with a letter in which he congratulated the judge and concluded as follows:

"I shall go into the campaign before me with a greater confidence of victory than I have ever had before; not even excepting the election of 1876."

There was also a congratulatory letter from Carl Schurz, which the judge declined to make public.

A new sort of letters at hand today were those of parents who have named their newly born children "Alton" or "Furker" or both, after Judge Parker.

The only way to do this would be by constructing a new cutoff between this city and the main line of either the Wisconsin Central or the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. While it may be that this is the object of the people surveying into Superior, it is not probable that it will be accomplished.

The present route of the Omaha road from Duluth to Chicago is 470 and over the Wisconsin Central 514. Only two miles of the Omaha road are by using the Milwaukee tracks from Portage to Chicago via Madison, and the Milwaukee road is not a competitor of the Omaha road in the Milwaukee district.

Physical improvement of the property would probably enable an hour or more to be cut off the running time between here and Chicago, although, even with the network of track the Milwaukee road has in the state of Wisconsin, it would be impossible by a combination of Wisconsin Central and Milwaukee tracks to get the mileage down to anything materially less than at present.

The only way to do this would be by constructing a new cutoff between this city and the main line of either the Wisconsin Central or the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. While it may be that this is the object of the people surveying into Superior, it is not probable that it will be accomplished.

STINE'S TAILOR SOLD THE BONDS

Former Chief Clerk is Held to the District Court.

St. Paul, July 14.—(Special to The Herald.)—William L. Stine, who was chief clerk to the general manager of the Omaha railroad until the latter part of June, and who was arrested yesterday on a charge of having stolen $800 worth of Southern Pacific railroad bonds from the office of the late General Manager Walter A. Scott shortly after Mr. Scott's death, has been held in the district court in the sum of $500. He is still in jail. New evidence which it is alleged fastens the theft of the bonds on Stine, has been furnished by the police. James J. Murphy, a tailor of this city, employed by Stine, says he saw him with the bonds in his hands. Four of them he sold in Pittsburgh and four in New York city. Stine furnished Murphy with transportation for three trips to the East for the purpose of making the sales and

HAS MONEY IN BANK

Swan Carlson's Certificate of Deposit in Hands of Police.

Held For Year and He
Heard Of.

The snug sum of $180 stands in the First National bank to the credit of a man named Swan Carlson, who has probably met his death during the year, or else believes that money deposited in the bank is lost when the certificate of deposit is lost.

A little over a year ago an unknown man appeared at police headquarters with two certificates of deposit on the First National bank. One was for $70 and the other for $110. He stated that he had found the papers on the street, and turned them over to the police, in the belief that the owner would appear and claim them. The name appearing on the certificates was Swan Carlson. The police informed the officials at the bank that the certificates had been found, and in order that the owner might recover them in case he appeared at the bank and asked for his money.

Weeks past and nobody appeared to claim the papers. They were stored away in a drawer in the vault at headquarters and the incident was forgotten by the police. In looking through the vault this morning Chief Fryer came across the papers and remembered the incident. He immediately took them down to the bank and asked if the owner had ever appeared to claim his money. The employees of the bank stated that the sum of $180 was still standing to the credit of Carlson, and that no person had ever appeared to claim the money.

No action can be taken in the matter. The money will have to lie in the bank until the owner claims it, and if he should have met his death in the meanwhile, the bank will be just $180 richer.

Feel Right WHEN YOU Feed Right

You know one always feels "very fit" when the head and nerves swing along peacefully and with that certain sense of power that is unmistakable.

when overwork or anxiety breaks down the soft gray matter in the brain and nerve cells (anxiety will do it quicker than overwork) faster than the food you have been using will replace it.

THEN

to save yourself from that horror of darkness—nervous prostration—you must change food and take on some sure builder.

THAT'S THE MISSION

made of the selected parts of Wheat and Barley containing the natural Phosphate of Potash which combines with Albumen in the human body and makes the soft gray filling of the brain and nerve centres. Another thing to be considered is that Grape-Nuts food is "processed" in making and the starchy parts converted into a form of sugar exactly as the process of digestion in the body. so Grape-Nuts has really passed the first act of digestion and therefore the food is quickly assimilated in the most perfect manner by babe or athlete.

with William Ford, a married man, 30 years old, Emily Bogard, 16 years old, has leaped to death with him in the waters of Mill creek when a pursuing party was believed to be upon them. The hat of the girl upon the bank, with a hastily scrawled note pleading for forgiveness, gave a clue which led to the discovery of the bodies. The girl was a niece of the deputy sheriff of this county and was well connected. The man was a small farmer without means.

WEST DULUTH

A number of West Duluth people are camping at Fond du Lac this week. Among them are a young professional man and his wife, who, because of an unusual display of strength last evening, are today receiving the good-natured chaffing of their friends.

The professional man decided that conditions were ideal for a row over to the island. His wife said she would accompany him. It was pointed out that the current was rather swift, but with pardonable pride the man displayed his muscle and said he guessed he could stand the strain.

It soon became apparent, however, that the strain was much greater than was anticipated, for the little craft, despite the violent exertions of its sweating occupant, refused to move more than a few inches at a time, and at intervals did not move at all. It would not do, of course, for the man to turn back with his friends standing on the bank awaiting developments, and so admit his defeat. After a good half hour of the hardest kind of hard work, the island was reached, and the male occupant of the boat, completely played out, staggered up the bank and settled down to a well-earned rest.

Not until then did he notice a small rope sagging from the stern of the boat. No one but his wife appears to know what the professional man said when, in pulling in the rope, he found the end of a huge stone, which he had patiently towed across the stream, thinking all the while that was the swift current which made him work so hard.

CHAMBERLAIN PRESIDENT OF LIBERAL UNIONISTS.

London, July 14.—Joseph Chamberlain was elected president and Lord Lansdowne and Lord Selborne vice presidents of the newly reconstructed Liberal Unionist council at a meeting in London today, which was attended by 1700 to 1800 delegates from all parts of the kingdom. A resolution was passed in favor of a complete reform of the British fiscal system, approving the planers demand for increased powers to deal with hostile tariffs and "dumping," and expressing sympathy with the proposals for preferential arrangements between the colonies and the motherland. The resolution was adopted, with practical unanimity, by Mr. Chamberlain, who presided, pointed out that it must fairly represent the views of the Liberal Unionists, as no fewer than 27 separate associations were represented at the meeting.

FINE TRIP TO FAIR

Y. M. C. A. Special Car
in Fine Style.

Not Bothered With Seeking For Hotel or Other Accommodations.

"We had a delightful time on our trip to St. Louis," said Frank Maxwell, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., this morning. Mr. Maxwell was one of the party of twenty-two people who went as a Y. M. C. A. party to the Louisiana exposition. They occupied the special car, "Joe M. Jr.," the property of J. M. Turner, of Milwaukee, who is now in the tourist business, and who named the car for one of his sons. Mr. Turner was formerly superintendent of schools at Ashland.

"It's a nice thing not to have anything to worry about from the time you leave home until you come back on a trip. The Wabash railroad has a large area of special tracks at the fair grounds in St. Louis for the accommodation of private cars, and we had as good a position for our car as anybody else, and were within a block of the fair all the time. There were a lot of swell private cars there, too, one from Des Moines, one from Denver and several from other places. We were a little surprised at the attendance at the fair, which was not as good as we thought it would be. There is not seem to be as many people in attendance as there were at the Chicago fair, at least not up to this time. The fair is excellent in every respect, although I was a little disappointed by the fact that Minnesota did not seem to have as good a showing in a general way as some of the other states. The Minnesota building is a nice one, and the Minnesota exhibit in it is all right, but I refer to the lack of Minnesota enterprise in other buildings. The great amount of wheat, corn and various agricultural products exhibited by some other states seemed to me to outshine those of this state."

In one of the buildings, a most interesting feature of the exhibits, "We lived on the car while there, our trip down was an unexpected stop we made. We went from here on the Great Northern and then on the Mississippi and St. Louis, which runs through a town called Moberly, Mo. It is quite a railroad center and has a railroad Y. M. C. A. building, which is one of the biggest social factors in the town. "When we got to Moberly we found that our trip down was an unexpected stop we made. A. building, which is one of the biggest social factors in the town."

"Some of the exhibits are very unique. There are statues of various forms that look as if they were made of butter, but are preserved by a coating of some kind. I illustrate the productiveness of the districts from which they came. Features of that kind are very plentiful and form a most interesting feature of the exhibits."

MISSIONARY FASTS FOR THIRTY DAYS.

New York, July 14.—Edward R. Taylor, a city missionary of Plainfield, N. J., has just ended a thirty-days' fast and appears none the worse for his ordeal. When he started to abstain from solid food he tipped the scales at 220 pounds, and today he weighs but twenty-five pounds less.

"During the time of his abstinence from food," he declared, "my health is much better."

ASTOR'S DAUGHTER TO MARRY SPENDER-CLAY.

London, July 14.—William Waldorf Astor's daughter, Pauline to Captain H. H. Spender-Clay, formerly of the second life guards, who leaped into fame by sending word to the queen that he was on his way to the front in February, 1888, on the charge of fraud, in connection with a promise note. Mr. Spender-Clay's father was one of the largest shareholders in the London & Lancashire Bank, and his immense fortune, which Miss Astor's future husband shares with his sister, who is the wife of Lord Clifden.

TEN HOUSES BURNED.

Somerset, Pa., July 14.—A block of ten four-room houses, all under one roof, owned by the Merchants' Coal company, has been burned at the company's No. 3 mine, near Salisbury. General Manager Stratton claims that the fire was of incendiary origin. He says his company is determined to operate No. 3 mine, and if necessary he will install a flashlight and rapid fire guns to protect the property and men.

of the tar macadam mixture per day, to a depth of 2 inches, but thus far it has fallen far short of its supposed capacity.

At the rate that the new pavement is now being finished up it will be a long time before the new pavement will be available for use.

An official test of the plant is to be made some day this week by City Engineer McGilvray.

SAFEGUARD THE CHILDREN.

Notwithstanding all that is done by boards of health and charitable institutions, the death rate among small children is very high during the hot weather of the summer months in the large cities. There is not probably one case of bowel complaint in a hundred, however, that could not be cured by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. Frank Kiger, of Franklinville, N. Y., in speaking of this remedy, said: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on my children, and it has been a family safeguard, and especially beneficial to children. It is equally good in adult cases of cholera, and is absolutely without reservation. For sale by all druggists."

VISITORS FROM PERSIA

Rev. Frederick G. Coan and Family Guests of Relatives Here.

Rev. Frederick G. Coan and family of Urumiah, Persia, arrived in Duluth last evening, to spend a few weeks visiting Mr. Coan's sister, Mrs. William G. Whipple, of 1215 East Third street.

Mr. Coan was born in Persia, where his parents were missionaries, and he has lived there during the greater part of his life. He is not 35 years of age, and has spent all but three or four years of that time in Persia.

This is his third visit to America. He came here when a lad to complete his education, and visited this country again about ten years ago.

He has been in America for several months, travelling through the East, but did not arrive in Duluth until last evening.

"I expect to return to Persia during the early part of September," said Mr. Coan, this afternoon, "to resume my missionary duties."

Mr. Coan will speak at the First Presbyterian church this evening, and will probably be heard in some of the local pulpits during his stay here.

A CONSPIRACY TO ROB WORLD'S FAIR COMPANY.

St. Louis, July 14.—William H. Ellis, Charles H. Stiller, Henry Miller and Edward Kiley, all of St. Louis, employees of the admissions' department of the World's fair, have been arrested and taken to the World's fair police station, where they will be held pending an investigation into what is believed to be a gigantic conspiracy to rob the exposition company by ticket irregularities.

Norris B. Gregg, director of admissions and concessions of the World's fair, beyond admitting that a searching investigation is being conducted by the department of admissions by Pinkerton detectives and members of the St. Louis detective force, refuses to talk about the alleged conspiracy.

CONFERENCE OF DEMOCRATS

Cockran, Belmont and Rody Confer with Judge Parker.

Esopus, N. Y., July 14.—Congressman Bourke Cockran, of New York, August Belmont and William R. Rody, of the Democratic state committee, arrived at Esopus today and were taken to Rosemont in Judge Parker's carriage. They all said they came on the invitation of Judge Parker, and did not know what would be the subject of the conference, or how long they would stay.

It was not until the arrival of the three well known Democrats, that there was any knowledge of the meeting.

Congressman Cockran was asked if he would take the stump for "was the reply."

He said that he would support the ticket with his whole heart in any way that appeared likely to help towards victory. Mr. Belmont was uncommunicative. He said he had not seen Governor Hill since the convention. He did not know what was to be the subject of their conference with the candidate.

The three were driven to Rosemont, where they were warmly greeted by Judge Parker and sat chatting with him while awaiting the arrival of Senator McCarran.

CORRESPONDENT DEPORTED

Victor Record Man Sent From Cripple Creek.

Cripple Creek, Col., July 14.—H. J. Richmond, correspondent of the Victor Record in this city, was deported today by the citizens' vigilance committee. He has a wife and two children here.

The citizens' committee has announced that Richmond was not driven out because of his connection with the Record, but because he was personally objectionable.
